Kidnapers Free Rich Manufacturer

REACHES HOME WHILE FAMILY OFFERS RANSOM

Denies Knowing of Payment to Gang.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Howard A. Woolverton, 52 years old, wealthy manufacturer, who was held for $50,000 ransom, was released by his abductors tonight, 24 hours after the kidnaping outrage, which aroused the city and state.

He walked unheralded into his home shortly before midnight and, after a conference with his wife, announced briefly that he had not been harmed by his kidnapers, could not identify them, and did not know where he had been freed. On his return Woolverton found his wife on the verge of collapse and under medical care.

Denies Knowing of Ransom.

Woolverton denied knowing whether any ransom had been paid for his release, but circumstances indicated that the abductors' demands had been met in part but not in full. No definite information on the ransom was forthcoming, but earlier in the evening Attorney G. A. Farabaugh, former city judge and friend of the family, stated that he expected to hear from the extortionists shortly and intimated that Mr. Woolverton would be released before midnight. He insisted then, as he had throughout the day, that money was a secondary consideration and that Woolverton's life must be saved. He insisted also that it would be impossible to raise the entire $50,000 demanded.

Conflicting Versions Told.

Stories conflicted as to where Woolverton was released. Attorney Farabaugh declared the manufacturer did not know. However, Capt. Rex Risher of the state highway police designated the place of release as Michigan City and the hour as 9:30 p. m. He quoted Woolverton for his information.

"About 9:30 o'clock the men stopped their car and told Woolverton to get out," said Capt. Risher. "They made him turn his back and removed the blindfold. They told him to wait until they drove away and not to look back. Mr. Woolverton said he did not look back, but walked in the other direction. It was dark and he did not know where he was. He saw the numbers on a garage and knew he was in the 2600 block, and then asked two women what city it was. They told him Michigan City, and he walked on downtown and caught a South Shore electric train."

Blindfolded All the Time.

Capt. Risher asserted that Woolverton had told him that he was blindfolded during his entire captivity. The men were courteous and fed him well, Woolverton said, according to the captain. He said they drove him around most of the time. Concerning ransom Woolverton refused to talk on orders of the abductors, the captain said.

When Woolverton reached South Bend on the electric train he took a taxicab to his home. He rushed inside immediately and remained with his wife behind locked doors for 30 minutes. He emerged to issue a brief statement.

"I don't know where I was and I couldn't identify either of the two men who held me prisoner," he said. "I never saw them for I was blindfolded all the time. We drove around for what seemed a long time, and then stopped at a house. I don't know how long I was there. Then we drove around again. They treated me nicely."

Beyond stating he had paid no ransom and had promised none, Woolverton declined to talk further.

Friends Offer Cash.

During the day offers of financial assistance poured into the home of Mr. Woolverton, his associates in large manufacturing and business enterprises offering to contribute sums ranging upward from $1,000 to make up the ransom, according to Farabaugh.

Friends of Mr. Woolverton said his ability to raise cash had been minimized with a view of settling for as little as possible with the kidnapers. They pointed out that he is secretary-treasurer of the Malleable Steel Range Manufacturing company, that his two brothers, John J. and Hugh L. Woolverton are president and vice president, respectively, of the same concern, and that his father, Jacob

Frankie Pope Is Shot; North Side Mystery

Frankie Pope, north side gambler known as the millionaire newsboy, was shot in the right side last night near Surf street and Pine Grove avenue. The wound is not serious.

At the Columbus Memorial hospital Pope told Lieut. John O'Brien and Sergt. James Lavin of the Sheffield avenue police that one of two robbers shot him during an attempted holdup in Pine Grove avenue. The police said that they did not believe his story. They began an inquiry to determine if the shooting grew out of gambling competition.

Pope was found staggering between two automobiles in front of 426 Surf street by John L. Graybill, 1346 Jackson boulevard, a taxicab chauffeur. According to Graybill, Pope cried out: "I'm shot, take me to a hospital."

Taken to Hospital by Driver.

The chauffeur put him into the cab and took him to the Columbus hospital. Sergts. Barney Rosenberg and Herbert Johnek of the Lincoln park police, who were there at the time, notified the Sheffield avenue station.

Miss Marie Redmond, 23 years old, a friend and former employé of Pope, living at 420 Surf street, a few doors from where he was found shot, was taken to the station with her two brothers, Norman and Donald. There they were questioned by Capt. Alfred Christensen. They denied any knowledge of the shooting and were released.

Detectives said they found an empty cartridge in the lobby of the apartment building where Miss Redmond resides. Howard Jackson, manager of the building, was questioned. He declared there had been no shooting in the building.

A police detail was placed at Pope's room in the hospital. The guard was ordered to protect Pope from any possible effort to assassinate him in bed, the police said.

A Gambler for Years.

Pope is 42 years old. He lives at 532 Belmont avenue. For years he has been a gambling chief on the north side, particularly in the Diversey parkway section. Among his major enterprises were the Beau Monde club at 519 Diversey parkway, closed by the government, and the Aquarium club, 514 Diversey, which was raided by the police. Despite those setbacks he tried another gambling enterprise at 610 Diversey, but this, too, was stopped by the police.

Recently Pope opened a place at 2422 North Halsted street, but detectives visited it on Tuesday and ordered him to cease operations. Pope, it was reported, had the word of a man named Guilfoyle that his place would be permitted to remain open.

FATHER FOUND GUILTY BY JURY IN 'SLAP' KILLING

Alexander Rice, 39 years old, 1365 East 48th street, former purchasing agent for the Michael Reese hospital, was found guilty of manslaughter last night by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Philip L. Sullivan, where he was tried for the murder of Felix Mercsantis, 19 years old, of the same address. The verdict carries a sentence of 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary.

Rice shot the youth on Aug. 12 after the latter allegedly slapped Rice's daughter, Jacqueline, 12 years old. The child had been playing in the hallway in which Mercsantis, a janitor, had just been cleaning. On the witness stand Rice testified he had taken his automatic pistol to scare Mercsantis. The latter, who lived in a cottage in the rear of the building, slammed the door, Rice said, and the weapon was discharged when it was struck by the door.

The case was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Tom Johnson. Frank McDonnell, defense counsel, made a motion for a new trial, which will be argued on Feb. 5. Rice is at liberty on bonds of $20,000.

RAILWAY CLERK ROBBED OF TWO POUCHES OF MAIL

A gunman menaced a railway clerk at the Washington Heights 103d street station of the Rock Island lines last night, and robbed him of two pouches of registered mail which he was dragging along the station platform to load upon an inbound train.

The clerk, M. D. Semprovivo, of 10144 Malta street, was waiting for the 6:25 train, when an automobile carrying two men drove up near the platform.

One of the men jumped out, drew a revolver and pressed it against Semprovivo's side. "Drop those bags and stand still or I'll fill you full of lead," he said. Semprovivo obeyed. The gunman dragged the pouches to the waiting car. In another minute the two men drove away with their loot, disappearing north in Throop street.

The Morgon Park police were notified. A report was transmitted immediately to the postal inspectors in the federal building. The value of the contents of the pouches was not established.

Loses Job, Sues His Wife for $35 Weekly Support

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Having lost his job, Daniel W. Benedict filed suit in Superior court today asking that his estranged wife, Ann Elizabeth Benedict, be compelled to pay him support money of $35 a week, the amount which he was earning, until he gets a new job. Benedict asserted that his wife controls $100,000 community property.

Club at Yale Selling Beer as Experiment

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The Yale News by expressing an editorial opinion on the newest of Yale's institutions, revealed today that undergraduates and faculty members have been enjoying themselves for the last six weeks at the Oyster club, a restaurant serving beer declared better and stronger than any obtainable elsewhere in New Haven.

The club, which uses the basement of The Yale Record, the university's humorous publication, has been putting to the test the assertions of Dean Clarence W. Mendell that legalized 4 per cent beer would help colleges turn out graduates better fitted for citizenship.

Paper Gives It Puff.

Yale students, through their increasing patronage of the Oyster club evidently agree with what Dean Mendell said and The News crystallizes the sentiment by giving the club a tremendous puff.

No attempt is being made to deny that the beer is of a potency disqualified by the Volstead act and while university officials certainly have known about the club they are closing one eye, it was said, and are expected to do nothing to spoil the club's growing fame. The room used by the club, which is entirely under student operation, is about 25 by 15 feet, simply furnished and open to all, with no attempt to have the place appear as a speakeasy. The food is cheap and plentiful and at night there is music.

Tonic More Than Beverage.

"If they are to live healthy, balanced lives," says The News, "Yale undergraduates need moments of relaxation and refreshment as much as they need their books and comfortable living quarters. The tonic which the Oyster club dispenses is really something more than the beverage which it serves. It is a tonic of enthusiam and spontaneity which has been sorely needed by the present Yale generation.

"If the Yaley is going to break the sacred 18th [sic] and drink, he might as well drink what is wholesome—beer; and if he is going to drink beer he might as well drink good beer in a congenial place."

The Yale Record, a corporate entity, owns its building and has no legal connection with Yale university.

"SELF-DEFENSE" SAYS JAPAN IN NOTE TO POWERS

U.S. Marines, British Form Defense.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 28 (Thursday).—Foreign Minister Yoshizawa today cabled Japan's ambassadors abroad to explain to the foreign governments that the situation in Shanghai is so grave the Japanese military authorities will be obliged to begin occupation of the city at 6 p. m. today, when the Japanese ultimatum to the Chinese authorities expires. The Japanese demand for dissolution of anti-Japanese societies, Yoshizawa said, has infuriated Chinese workers and students, who, instead of obeying, have redoubled their anti-Japanese activities.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mayor Wu Teh-Chen informally signified he would accept the Japanese demands upon the Shanghai government this afternoon, but the Japanese said they would present two new demands, including immediate release of all Japanese goods seized during the boycott and release of all Chinese merchants held as prisoners by the anti-Japanese associations.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—[Thursday.]—A twenty-two hour ultimatum was formally sent by Kuramatsu Murai, Japanese consul general here, at 8 o'clock last night to Wu Teh-chen mayor of Shanghai, demanding unqualified agreement to all the recent Japanese demands on pain of drastic Japanese measures. The ultimatum expires at 6 p. m. [4 a. m. Chicago time] today.

The Japanese demands include suppression of the anti-Japanese boycott, the payment of damages for Japanese killed and injured in recent riots, and the arrest and punishment of Chinese alleged to have been responsible for the disorders.

"State of Emergency."

The municipal council of the international settlement at noon today declared a "state of emergency," effective at 4 p. m. The council summoned the volunteer corps and other special groups to assist in patrolling the settlement. British Brig. Gen. Fleming will command the settlement defense forces, the Japanese Rear Admiral Shiosawa having waived his seniority.

The American consul general, Edwin S. Cunningham, has asked the consuls of the treaty powers to bring their defense forces into action.

The American marines, British and French soldiers already had begun to assume their positions. The situation seemed to be growing worse, the settlement authorities apparently admitting they no longer could maintain law and order.

The Japanese consulate here was bombed this morning. There were no casualties and little damage was done.

The Japanense cruiser Yubari and 12 more destroyers arrived here from Japan at dawn. They landed 500 marines and were expected to land another 500 this afternoon, bringing the Japanese naval force in Shanghai to 3,000. Three Japanese army airplanes were brought ashore from a Japanese freighter and assembled under the direction of Japanese landing forces.

Foreigners Ordered to Safety.

All Japanese who live outside the international settlement here have been ordered to move into the safety zone. Grave fears were felt that some of them would be attacked while attempting to comply with the order. All other foreigners living outside the settlement, including Americans and Britishers, were advised by their consuls to come inside. The movement of the Japanese has already begun.

Just before last midnight great numbers of panic stricken Chinese from the Chapei district of the native city began streaming to the borders of the settlement. The borders are guarded only by police provided by the settlement authorities, who resent the fact that they have not been advised of the quickness with which the Japanese intend to move.

The Japanese authorities here are already preparing passes to permit foreigners to enter areas outside the international settlement after the Japanese have taken over those areas.

Mayor Issues Statement.

Mayor Wu at midnight issued a statement to the public, saying that in view of the widespread objection to

Kelly Demands School Saving of $9,950,000

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

D. F. Kelly told the school trustees in their session yesterday that they must either reduce expenditures or obtain no cash with which to pay their $24,000,000 overdue pay rolls. A total reduction of $9,950,000 was suggested for the proposed 1932 budget, which now stands at $94,640,000.

Mr. Kelly, who is chairman of the citizens' committee for the sale of tax anticipation warrants to assist the local governments, recommended to the school trustees that no new buildings be started and that $1,000,000 or more of waste in the operation of the present school plants be eliminated.

Estimates Waste in System.

The present system of school plant operation was established in September, 1927, following a state Supreme court decision. The system was adopted for the purpose of creating jobs, according to political leaders in all factions. It has been continued with the result that the school operation which cost $4,000,000 in 1926 now costs more than $8,000,000. Mr. Kelly estimated the waste at a fourth of the jobs.

The recommendations of Mr. Kelly were submitted in writing. The reduction in tax levy, if no new buildings are started, was placed by him at $8,000,000.

Other Savings Proposed.

He also suggested a further reduction of $125,000 in the appropriations for playgrounds, a $250,000 further cut on text books, and the elimination of bathrooms Feb. 1 at an estimated saving of $175,320.

He also recommended the closing of the Crane Junior college. It has been estimated this would save $400,000 or $500,000, but Mr. Kelly submitted no estimate.

He made no mention of the often suggested closing of the Chicago Normal college, but Lewis E. Myers, president of the school board, recommended it in a formal communication to the board.

President Myers said he had been informed by Superintendent of Schools W. J. Bogan that there are now 1,600 teachers awaiting assignment with 152 more soon to be graduated from the Normal school.

Urges Closing for a Year.

"The Normal has been closed before because the supply of teachers was more than could be employed," wrote the president. "We can save $225,000 by closing the Normal for a year."

President Myers also recommended that teaching work be given only to bona fide residents of Chicago. He told the board in another letter that the last school directory shows about 1,500 teachers in the Chicago schools living outside the city. He argued they would have several million dollars to spend and that its distribution in Chicago would aid real estate owners. Besides, he argued, there are a large number of teachers, residents of Chicago, who need employment.

He made a third recommendation. In the assignment of employés he urged that the board give preference to unmarried women over married women whose husbands have incomes.

Mr. Kelly, in his suggestions, approved of the board completing the buildings under construction, which he estimated will take about $12,000,000. But no new buildings should be started, he said.

In his data on the cost of plant operation, Mr. Kelly said that the per

GRAND JURORS DEFY JUDGE IN LOESCH INQUIRY

Balk When Called to Face Fisher.

Henry S. Henschen, president of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, and the twenty-two other members of the January grand jury openly defied Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court yesterday and refused to go into his courtroom until the chief deputy bailiff of the Criminal court and all of his deputies threatened to break down the jury room doors and take them from the jury room by force.

The jury, at the time the summons was received, was listening to the testimony of Attorney Frank J. Loesch, 80 years old, president of the Chicago Crime commission. In his annual report to the commission Mr. Loesch criticized some members of the judiciary, using such terms as "mountebanks" and "cash register judges." And Loesch was testifying without signing an immunity waiver and not in the presence of Special Assistant State's Attorney Thomas D. Marshall.

Refuses to Sign Waiver.

The grand jury was in session on Tuesday for the purpose of hearing the charges by Mr. Loesch and proceeding against the judges if such action was warranted; or, if the charges were found to be groundless, it was to proceed against Mr. Loesch on charges of libel. Mr. Loesch, however, refused to sign an immunity waiver and the jury heard no testimony from him Tuesday. Mr. Marshall was appointed as a special assistant state's attorney to conduct the investigation resulting from Mr. Loesch's charges.

After a long court hearing yesterday during which personalities were exchanged, the chief justice took the investigation of the judiciary out of the hands of the present jury.

Mr. Henschen informed Judge Fisher that the jurors had heard some of Mr. Loesch's testimony before they were called out by the deputy sheriffs and that "they would like to hear more."

Jury Session Resumed.

The jury's session, which had been adjourned on Tuesday after Mr. Loesch refused to sign an immunity waiver, was resumed at 2 p. m. yesterday to take up the judicial investigation. A few minutes before that time Mr. Loesch appeared and was ushered into the jury room by several of the returning jurors. Prosecutor Marshall then appeared to resume the inquiry. He tried to push open the jury room door, but found it barred.

The prosecutor sought explanations, but no one, not even the grand jury clerk, was allowed to enter the room. From those outside the jury room the prosecutor learned that Mr. Loesch was inside. A conference was held with Judge Fisher. He sent Bailiff William Brattstrom to tell the jurors to come into his court, and also Mr. Loesch if he was there. Brattstrom went to the jury room and delivered the message.

He came back with the reply: "The jurors are too busy to be disturbed. They refuse to come in."

Orders Jury into Court.

Judge Fisher summoned Chief Bailiff James Gabriel. When the latter arrived the chief justice was pacing the floor in his chambers and the locked out prosecutor was standing by looking at him.

"Get all of your bailiffs if necessary and bring the grand jury into my court," was the order given to the bailiff.

"Let me get you straight, your honor," said the bailiff. "You mean you want me to——"

"I mean that I want the grand jury in my courtroom at once," said the judge, emphasizing his remarks with gestures. "Get all your bailiffs and if necessary get a posse. I want that jury in here if it is necessary to break down the doors. Bring in Mr. Loesch too if he is in the jury room, and any one else who may be in there. You have your orders; now go."

"I guess they are plain enough," commented Gabriel as he issued an order to one of his subordinates to round up the entire force.

Jurors Go Into Court.

The deputies started to gather as Bailiff Gabriel reached the jury room door. He announced his intention to break down the door if necessary. The door opened and as the bailiffs started into the room Foreman Henschen and his colleagues started out. Mr. Loesch was in the center of the group. The bailiffs walked along with the jurors into the court.

room fifty feet or so down the corridor.

Judge Fisher mounted the bench and ordered sharply: "Mr. Henschen, be sworn." Mr. Henschen was sworn by the clerk and ordered to the witness stand.

"Why didn't the jury come into this court when I sent for it?" asked the judge.

"I supposed that when the jury was in session it was immune to being sent for," replied the foreman.

Judge Questions Foreman.

"The grand jury is a part of the court and is not immune to any order of the court," said the judge curtly. The questioning continued:

THE JUDGE—Have you met or talked with anybody outside the grand jury room about this hearing?

THE FOREMAN—I have.

THE JUDGE—Who?

THE FOREMAN—Mr. Loesch and Attorney Megan [Charles P. Megan, president of the bar association].

The foreman, under questioning, then said he had talked with Mr. Loesch on Monday night at the Chicago Literary club, but that he had only remarked to Mr. Loesch that the latter was to be a grand jury witness. He telephoned to Mr. Loesch at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, he said, and asked Mr. Loesch if he would be willing to return before the jury and testify if he was not required to sign an immunity waiver. He said that Mr. Loesch said he would and that the plan was submitted to the jurors and unanimously adopted.

The foreman was asked why he had acted without legal advice and he replied he thought the jury had such authority under the judge's instructions. He denied that anybody had advised the jury to exclude the prosecutor.

Loesch Called to Stand.

Mr. Loesch was called to the witness stand. The judge asked him if he was willing to be sworn and testify.

"That is up to my counsel," said the veteran lawyer as he bowed toward Attorney Edward Zimmerman, who had just appeared.

Attorney Zimmerman said that no proceeding was pending as far as he knew and the judge replied that it was possible that direct contempt of court had been committed, but that he could not prejudge the facts until he heard the evidence. This brought on a long three-cornered discussion between the judge, the prosecutor and Attorney Zimmerman. In the meantime Mr. Loesch sat in the witness box staring at the ceiling or twiddling his thumbs. Some of the time he appeared to be amused.

Judge Fisher outlined Mr. Loesch's attacks on the judiciary in which no names were mentioned. This, the judge said, puts a cloud on the entire judiciary. He mentioned charges which, he said, were unproved, made by Loesch against three judges some years ago. The lawyer had charged "paltering with crime."

The judge asserted that Judge Otto Kerner, one of those accused, has since been honored by the Supreme court and that, although Mr. Loesch had privately admitted he was wrong, he had "never had the manhood" to come out publicly with an exoneration. The judge later withdrew the "harsh term." Judge Fisher said the judges were in earnest in their efforts to stop attacks in which no names were mentioned. Finally after more than an hour of discussion Mr. Loesch was withdrawn from the stand and Mr. Henschen returned.

Foreman Is Recalled.

Mr. Henschen said that he had not discussed the merits of the case with Mr. Loesch or any one else outside the jury room. During this questioning he said:

"After listening briefly to Mr. Loesch we are more than ever convinced that we should hear him and it is our wish to do so."

Prosecutor Marshall said that the action of the jury probably had brought immunity for Mr. Loesch. The discussion ended with the judge saying he would submit the matter to the new grand jury on Monday, and that Mr. Loesch would be called without being asked to sign an immunity waiver. Mr. Megan said that the bar association would be glad to coöperate.

Bandit Robs Movie and Escapes in Automobile

A gunman last night shoved a revolver through the ticket cage of the Shore motion picture theater, 2507 East 75th street, and forced Miss Hannah Schneider, the cashier, to hand over $50, the contents of the cash drawer. The bandit then entered a waiting automobile and was driven away by a companion. No one in the theater was aware of the robbery.

Jury Frees Woman Who Shot Brutal Husband

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Elsie Feist, 25, who shot her husband last October when he hurled her pet kitten against a wall, tonight was acquitted of murder by a jury which deliberated only seven minutes. Mrs. Feist testified that her husband, Aloysius A. Feist, branded his initials on her flesh with acid, five days after they were married.

MASSIE DEFENSE CHARGES JUDGE COERCED JURY

HONOLULU, Jan. 27.—Indications that local civilian and naval authorities are awaiting some action at Washington appeared today when a secret conference was held between Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, the special prosecutor, and naval officials concerning jurisdiction in the Kahahawai murder case.

JUDGE A. M. CRISTY

Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men were indicted for second degree murder yesterday. This opens the possibility of the navy taking jurisdiction over the trial of all but Mrs. Fortescue. A "gentlemen's agreement" between the navy and local authorities provides for naval jurisdiction over naval personnel in crimes not involving capital punishment.

Jurors Are Subpoenaed.

Meanwhile, the four defendants will make their first court appearance Friday morning, when they will be arraigned. On Friday afternoon arguments on the defense motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground that Judge Cristy coerced the grand jury will be heard.

All the grand jurors have been subpoenaed to appear at Friday's hearing for questioning as to whether they were forced to return the indictment against their wishes.

Denied More Freedom.

The defendants remain under naval guard in Pearl harbor, attorneys for the defense, indicating that bail will not be asked because of the "tense situation" and because the defendants lack the necessary funds, asked the court today to permit the prisoners to have greater freedom within the navy yard without bail. The prosecution opposed this move and the court denied it.

Stirling Charges Coercion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—Rear Admiral Yates Stirling Jr., commandant of the Hawaiian naval district, today cabled the navy department that the grand jury in the Massie case would have failed to indict Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and his co-defendants had it not been for the insistence of Judge A. M. Cristy of the Circuit court of Honolulu.

Summary of Report.

The following summary of Admiral Stirling's report was made public by the navy department:

"The commandant reviews from reliable sources the following history of the grand jury action in the case. He states that the grand jury made a report to Judge Cristy on Jan. 22 of 'no true bill' by a vote of 12 to 9, but that the judge, over the protests of jurors, declined to accept the decision and adjourned the grand jury until Jan. 26.

"Late on Jan. 22, the day the grand jury reported 'no true bill,' one member of the jury was appointed a police commissioner. On Jan. 26, when the grand jury was reconvened, the judge released this member—who had voted for 'no true bill'—from further jury duty, although the member protested this release and desired to continue. Counsel for the defense has stated that there is no remuneration for the services of this member in his new position as police commissioner and that there is no legal reason for his release from the grand jury.

Refuses Second Report.

"After the release of this member from jury duty, on Jan. 26, the grand jury again reported no agreement to Judge Cristy by a vote of 11 for 'no true bill' and 9 for 'true bill' for first degree murder. Twelve votes are required for a decision.

"Judge Cristy again refused to accept the jury's report, rendered the morning of Jan. 26. The judge, after long renewal of a charge to the jurors as to their duties and as to the effect, in his opinion, upon the community if 'no true bill' were returned, adjourned the grand jury until the afternoon. Judge Cristy charged the jury to take a bill for 'second degree murder' under consideration. He refused to allow consideration of a 'manslaughter' bill."

ROCHE LAYS TRAPS FOR KIDNAPERS; TWO TAKEN IN CUSTODY

Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office spent most of last night in the vicinity of Chicago Heights working on the kidnaping of Howard A. Woolverton of South Bend, Ind. He had several traps laid for the kidnapers if there had been an attempt made by them to collect the $50,000 ransom demanded by them on this side of the Illinois-Indiana state line.

Upon learning that Woolverton had returned home safely Roche withdrew his men and returned home. Late in the afternoon he sent two prisoners to the Criminal court building. They are Harry Martin, 47 years old, 7431 Euclid avenue, and Arthur O'Leary, 38, of 6200 Kenmore avenue. It was said they had tried to induce James O'Keefe, a contractor of Oak Ridge, to accompany them to Gary, Ind.

"They're worth an investigation," was all Roche would say when asked if they were suspected of being kidnapers. A writ of habeas corpus for their release was sought as soon as they reached the Criminal court building, but Judge Rudolph Desort directed attorneys to wait until this morning.

BOY GETS CARNEGIE MEDAL FOR RESCUE OF DROWNING LAD

Harry N. Rosengren, 13 year old schoolboy who lives at 3813 Southport avenue, was awarded a bronze medal for heroism yesterday by the Carnegie Foundation in Pittsburgh. He plunged into the water in the Belmont Yacht harbor on May 20, 1931, to save the life of Walter A. Hoffman, 15 years old. He held Walter up until both were rescued by Eric Young, 17 years old, and Buster Olson, 16 years old, both of 3135 North Marmora avenue.

HARRY ROSENGREN

Walter was riding along the shore on a bicycle which struck a rut and threw him into water 8 feet deep. The Rosengren boy dived in and caught Walter under the surface. The young rescuer had to grapple with the other boy and break away from the other boy several times in order to save his own life, but he kept up his efforts until both were hauled out by the older boys. Young Hoffman was unconscious.

TRAP SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING; HE KILLS SELF

Denver, Colo., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Trapped in a cheap downtown rooming house, Joseph Clinton Riley, escaped convict sought for the kidnaping of Benjamin F. Bower and the murder of Murrel C. Rothfuss, ended his own life today by shooting himself in the head. Riley was unconscious when officers armed with shotguns broke into the room. He died without making a statement.

Chief of Police A. T. Clark said Riley, known to have murdered Rothfuss after he had made drunken admissions of his criminal activities, had been identified as leader of the gang which twice robbed the bakery of which Bower is an executive.

Tonight police arrested two suspected accomplices of Riley. They are Fred Creeley and G. W. Reed.

Bower himself had partly identified Riley from pictures as the man who entered his home and said he was "Shelton of Illinois." He is believed to have referred to Ralph Sheldon of East St. Louis, now under arrest in California for kidnaping.

Although $50,000 was demanded of the Bower family by the kidnapers, the elderly businessman was returned unharmed without payment of the money.

STABBED BY WIFE; DIES.

Edward Gibson, 36 years old, 2017 Prairie avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of stab wounds inflicted Sunday by his wife, Shirley, 26 years old. She is held.

KIDNAP VICTIM BACK AT HOME IN SOUTH BEND

Ransom Is Agreed Upon; Deny It Was Paid.

Woolverton, is president of the St. Joseph Savings bank. His wife, a daughter of John L. Flannery, Wheaton, Ill., is said to be moderately wealthy in her own name, owning a half interest in the Boye Needle company of Chicago.

The plan advanced by the kidnapers for paying the ransom by dropping it from a car in the road was never considered by the family after Mrs. Woolverton reported the abduction to Chief of Police John Kuespert early this morning. She was hysterical and under a physician's care most of the day and could not possibly have driven a car to Chicago Heights, the point beyond which the money was to be dropped.

How to Pay Ransom.

After Mrs. Woolverton and her husband were seized by the kidnap gang late last night while driving in an auto Mrs. Woolverton was instructed in a note that threatened death to her husband to drive tonight to Chicago Heights, Ill., and thence toward Danville, Ill., in the "four passenger ackard, the one that sits in front of the plant." Beyond Chicago Heights a car was to aproach from the rear and flash its headlights ten times, when the money, wrapped in paper, was to be dropped.

The deadline for the payment of the money under the terms of the kidnapers' note was at 8 o'clock tonight. However, the fact that the police had been informed of the kidnaping made it unlikely, Chief of Police John Kuespert decided, that the kidnapers would appear on the road tonight, so every effort during the day was concentrated in establishing contact with the kidnapers to make a ransom bargain.

"This condition under which they wanted the money paid shows they are experienced kidnapers," said the chief, "and I am convinced that they had a local spotter. Mr. Woolverton only used his Packard in driving to the factory when there was something wrong with the Pierce-Arrow, and that has been only once in recent weeks. They must have been watching for some time."

Wife Describes Kidnaping.

Mrs. Woolverton gave a coherent account of the kidnaping during the morning before her collapse.

She and her husband were driving to their house from the home of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Studebaker at 110 North Esther street shortly after midnight. As the Woolverton car turned west in Jefferson boulevard, another machine forced it to the curb. One of the two occupants of the other car got out and leaped to the running board, shouting "This is a stickup."

"He got in the back seat and kept a gun at our backs so we couldn't get a good look at him," said Mrs. Woolverton. "He made us drive through town and then out west on highway 20 for about five miles. I had noticed the other car following us.

"Then the other car pulled up and the kidnapers made my husband get in their car, ordering me to drive back to town in ours. I dickered with them about money and told them $50,000 was out of the question. My husband told them he would raise all he could and turn it over Wednesday. Then they asked how much he had with him, and he pulled out $100. They only laughed and handed me the note, telling me not to open it until I got back to town and not to report it to the police, or my husband would be killed.

"I don't think I would know either of the men, but the one who rode with us was clean shaven, dark complexioned and soft spoken."

Merchant Shot When He Follows Holdup Pair

Frank Karpierz, 52 years old, was shot in the abdomen last night by one of two robbers when he tried to follow them out of his candy store at 1026 North Paulina street after a holdup. The shot was heard by his wife, Mary, and their daughter, Emily, who were in their home upstairs.

NURSES ARE ASKED TO DO THEIR PART IN FEEDING PUPILS

Members of the nursing profession are asked today to give what they can to the Hungry School Children's fund.

Nurses know more than most people the consequences of undernourishment. They are, therefore, invited to help rescue the fund, which has only enough money to provide free lunches for 10,000 needy children in the public schools until Feb. 4. At present these children are being fed in 211 public schools.

Contributions arriving yesterday totaled $118.05 and are acknowledged as follows:

$50.00—C. Newton.
$15.65—The Bookhouse for Children.
$10.00—Miss Mary Pomeroy Green, Mrs. J. L. Bridges, and Mrs. Ben Lehman.
$5.00—Anonymous.
$4.80—Fred Reynolds.

$2.50—H. A. L. M. club.
$2.00—Anonymous.
$1.00—June Louise Lawrence, S. A. Fishel, In memory of Ethel, In memory of mother, J. Green.
10 cents—Anonymous.

Total	$ 118.05
Previously acknowledged	32,887.65
Grand total	$33,005.70

Contributions should be sent to the Hungry School Children's fund in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

FEW GIRLS LOST IN THE CITY NOW, POLICE REPORT

Few girls are "lost in the great city" in these days, the report of the missing persons bureau for 1931 disclosed yesterday. Of the 6,465 men, women, and children reported missing to the police, the bureau returned to their homes or found in Chicago all except 201, of whom only 49 were women or girls, Sergt. Joseph Starshak, head of the bureau, informed Chief of Detectives Schoemaker.

The bureau was complimented by Chief Schoemaker on this efficiency percentage of 96.8. Sergt. Starshak explained that a number of the 201 persons whom his bureau was unable to find here probably were found in other cities.

Nearly a thousand of the 4,737 letters received from other cities and countries resulted in the finding of lost relatives, sweethearts, and friends in Chicago, Sergt. Starshak reported. Of 651 persons found dead or unconscious by police during the year, 514 were identified. Only five women were among the 137 bodies which were unclaimed.

September and October, when the school year opens, are the peak months for juvenile runaways, the records of the bureau showed.

GIVEN 1 TO 14 YEARS FOR SLAYING.

Morris, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Leocardo Delatorre, who shot Hilario Alonzo, a fellow Mexican, to death Nov. 1 last, was found guilty today of manslaughter and was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary from one to fourteen years.

MR. PEARSALL'S ARIDITY SAVES HIS DOUBLOONS

Tale of an Elgin Dry and a Self-Styled Mariner.

B. F. Pearsall, wealthy butter manufacturer, is known as one of the dryest of Elgin drys. And because they overlooked that fact in their carefully laid plot against Pearsall's pocketbook, Victor De Sano and A. L. Burke of Chicago were in the Elgin police station last night.

Mr. Pearsall's stand on the prohibition question may be judged by the fact that a year ago he refused his customary donation of cream for the annual Armistice day banquet of the Elgin American Legion as a protest against the drinking which he had been informed went on at local and national conventions of the veterans.

At present Mr. Pearsall is in the Caribbean on a cruise with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Heindel of River Forest.

Enter a Seafaring Man.

Yesterday De Sano appeared at the Pearsall Butter company's office and by signs indicated to Miss Laura Leverenz and Kenneth W. Mainland, an official of the concern, that he spoke no English, but had a message for them if some one would interpret his French or German. An interpreter of German was found and De Sano told this tale:

He was a sailor, he said. The captain of his ship, a Herr Borelli, had become a close friend of Mr. Pearsall when the latter sailed on the vessel and had made the Elgin manufacturer a valuable present.

Mr. Pearsall didn't want to bring the present back with him, so De Sano had been delegated to take it to Elgin, and authorized to draw on the butter company for his expenses from New Orleans and return.

Mainland Doubts the Sailor.

Mainland inquired what the present was.

"Sh-h-h-h-h," said De Sano [through the interpreter, of course]. "It is two suitcases full of liquor—the very finest of liquor."

Mainland couldn't reconcile that with his employer's previous views, so he quietly called Town Marshal Joseph Huber. De Sano slipped away, but the license number of the car in which he and Burke rode was noted, and they were overhauled in Melrose Park and returned to Elgin. Burke said he lived at the Chelsea hotel, 920 Wilson avenue. De Sano recovered his use of English and gave a fictitious address in Chicago.

The police opened the two suitcases. Within were a score of bottles in tinfoil wrappers and wicker cases. The bottles contained a fine assortment of liquors and cordials—all nonalcoholic.

NEW YORK LASHED BY GALE; ONE DEAD, SCORE ARE INJURED

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A stiff northwest gale whipped this city and its environs today, handicapping shipping in the harbor, tearing down signs, trees, and telephone poles, shattering windows, killing a 70 year old woman in Bayonne, N. J., and injuring more than a score of persons in the metropolitan area.

The gale, attributed by weather bureau officials to freak atmospheric conditions along the eastern Canadian border, reached its maximum velocity, 56 miles per hour, at 3 p. m., but experimental tests conducted atop city skyscrapers, at Newark airport, and elsewhere indicated wind velocities at higher levels that ranged from 72 to 100 miles per hour.

Conditions, it was explained, were largely local. The area of high winds extended no farther north than New Haven, no farther west than Allentown, Pa., and no farther south than Washington. There were other areas of high winds—in the vicinity of Utica and Syracuse.

SAVADOR REBEL BANDS EXECUTE CITY OFFICIALS

SAN SALVADOR, Jan. 27.—(AP)—City officials were the targets in the recent uprising in Salvador attributed to communists, it was learned today.

Communist leaders were said in private quarters to have instructed their followers to shoot the same four officials in each town—the mayor, municipal secretary, commandant, and local telegraph operator. All four were killed at Colon and the mayor of Juayua was assassinated, as well as a former mayor. Two other men were slain at Colon and the wife of one was wounded.

Dwellings were robbed and burned in Juayua. The rebels remained only a few hours in Sonzacate, Izalco, Nuhuizalco, Tabuco, and other places, before they were chased off by federal troops, who turned machine guns on them. The rebel bands dwindled off into various villages, but finally were beaten and dispersed.

N. Y. SCANS PLAN TO CUT FIRE PERIL AND MAKE MONEY

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A plan for forcing property owners to pay the cost of extinguishing fires starting on their property is among the many suggestions for increasing the city's revenue, made by city department heads in response to Mayor James J. Walker's request for retrenchment in the 1932 budget appropriations. The plan is said to be based on a practice in Paris which is said to have made the thrifty French much more careful about fire hazards. It is suggested the charge against the property owner could be deducted by insurance companies from damages awarded.

RAIL UNIONS PUT WAGE CUT ISSUE UP TO COMMITTEE

Action Points to Early Decision, View.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The windup of the rail wage negotiations in progress at the Palmer house seemed imminent last night when it was learned that 19 of the 21 railway brotherhoods had given full authority to their executives to meet with the committee of railroad presidents and enter into an agreement.

It was considered probable that the labor executives will meet with the presidents some time this afternoon.

The union leaders will go into the conference, it was learned, to make the best deal that is possible. The railroads have asked for a 10 per cent wage reduction, applying to all classes of the union employés, but the labor executives will strive to make a compromise agreement.

Report Lines Oppose Compromise.

If the railroad presidents decline to compromise the wage issue, the union executives will have authority to accept the full 10 per cent cut, according to reports last night, without resubmitting the question to their general chairmen.

While there were no definite forecasts on what will transpire during the joint conference, it was considered fairly certain that the presidents will insist upon a 10 per cent cut. In this event it is believed the labor executives will accept the railroads' demands.

On the part of the roads, it was reported last night that they will grant to the unions certain concessions in a labor program aimed at relieving unemployment and at stabilizing employment for the workers. These concessions have been criticized by the labor organizations as being indefinitely worded and as not going far enough to protect the men, but in submitting them the railroads' committee stated last Sunday night that they had gone as far as they could go.

Warning to Trainmen.

One brotherhood, the trainmen, was still withholding authority to act from their president, A. F. Whitney. It was expected, however, that the trainmen will "climb on the bandwagon" this morning and will confer full authority upon Mr. Whitney.

The trainmen will meet at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and will be informed that all the other brotherhoods will be represented at the conference with the presidents, and that the trainmen will be left out unless they agree.

This decision was made at a conference last night of the labor executives. Upon the motion of Sam N. Berry, president of the conductors' brotherhood, the executive committee passed a resolution to give the trainmen until 1 o'clock this afternoon to go along with the other unions.

Under the resolution, if the trainmen have not agreed by that time, Mr. Whitney will be left out and the other executives will meet the president. However, it was considered fairly certain that the trainmen, placed in the position of being lone holdouts, will join the plan.

Longshoremen Quit Parley.

One other brotherhood, the International Longshoremen's association, was reported to have withdrawn from the negotiations entirely, both the other unions and the presidents' committee having consented to the withdrawal. The longshoremen's union represented only a few local organizations, and they were reported to have elected to carry on individual negotiations with the four or five railroads on which they were recognized.

The executives' committee will meet at 10 o'clock this morning to map out their plans for the conference with the presidents. Mr. Whitney will join the executives' meeting when and if the trainmen vote him authority.

As to the nature of any compromises to be proposed to the presidents by labor, little could be learned last night, but it was reported they would seek to lower the percentage, perhaps offering five and seeking to agree on 7½. There were also some suggestions that the labor men might seek to have the cut apply only to those workers earning more than $100 monthly, and that the cut might start at 10 per cent, gradually tapering off during the year.

It was considered possible that the labor executives might not be ready to meet with the presidents before tomorrow. As to how long the joint negotiations would proceed, no one could guess accurately.

The various brotherhoods had debated among themselves for three days before 19 of them reached agreements yesterday. Ten of them had agreed during the first day's deliberations, but the other nine held out until yesterday, their march into the fold being led by the firemen, headed by David B. Robertson, who is also chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association.

The holdout brotherhoods had been waiting for the firemen and the trainmen to come to an agreement, and when the firemen's decision was announced the others, all except the trainmen, fell into line.

MEASURE TO STUDY 6-HOUR RAILWAY DAY ADOPTED BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The joint resolution proposed by Representative Crosser [Dem., O.] instructing the interstate commerce committee to study the effects of a six hour day for railroad employés was passed by the house today. On being reported to the senate it was referred to the interstate commerce committee on motion of Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who recently introduced a similar resolution in the upper house, which had passed it unanimously.

The Crosser resolution, like that of Senator Couzens, is intended to provide a background of fact for the controversy over working hours which is now under debate at the Chicago conference between the railway brotherhoods and railroad executives.

In the house the resolution brought a violent speech in opposition from Representative Blanton [Dem., Tex.]. He was answered by Representative Parker [Rep., N. Y.], who declared:

"There is no use fooling ourselves. We are going to be confronted with a bill for a six hour day for railway workers. We ought to get the facts instead of passing a measure without knowing the facts as was done when congress passed the eight hour bill several years ago."

Representative La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] drew applause from the galleries when he said:

"We have outlived the eight hour day; machinery has made it impossible. Work must be spread out if everybody, not just the owners of the machinery, are to share the benefit of increased production."

The vote found Representative Blanton alone in opposition to the resolution, with 191 representatives voting for it. As a joint measure the resolution will require the signature of the President.

JURORS' ILLNESS CAUSES RECESS FOR JUDD TRIAL

Father Helps Insanity Defense.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Fear of mistrial, nullifying eight days of work, caused sudden recess for 24 hours of Winnie Ruth Judd's murder trial this afternoon when two jurors became ill.

M. T. White and Joseph L. Standage, the latter the alternate juror, suffered flu attacks this morning.

A prolonged noon recess was called, so they might be treated by physicians, but when the latter ordered them to bed Judge Howard C. Speakman decided to give them a thorough rest.

M. T. WHITE.
[Acme Photo.]

They were isolated from their 11 companions in an extra jury dormitory. Should they be unable to attend court tomorrow afternoon, another recess will be taken. Judge Speakman has power to continue such recesses "for a reasonable time" when it would be necessary to declare a mistrial.

Two Women Faint.

There were as many physicians as attorneys in the courtroom and corridors this afternoon when two women fainted during the recess called to permit treatment of jurors.

One woman finally was removed in an ambulance after several hastily summoned doctors, aided by Dr. Joseph Catton, state alienist in the trial, were unable to revive her.

Mrs. Judd looked decidedly relieved at the prospect of 24 hours out of the courtroom where she is being tried for the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi who, with Hedvig Samuelson, she shot and killed and shipped to Los Angeles in trunks as baggage.

She had appeared more than ordinarily depressed during the day as her mother was cross-examined by prosecution attorneys, and the Rev. H. J. McKinnell, her father, followed to the stand to corroborate his wife's testimony.

Emphasize Violent Temper.

County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews sought in questioning Mrs. McKinnell to show that as a girl Winnie Ruth had been subject to no more than the ordinary whims and fancies of her sex, save that she was inordinately jealous of "boy friends'" attention to other girls and had a violent temper.

It is the contention of the state that in just such a temper, due to jealousy over attentions paid them by J. J. Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumberman, she killed the two women who had been her close friends before Halloran appeared in the picture.

The Rev. Mr. McKinnell, snow white hair carefully brushed, long frock coat emphasizing his height, made an impressive appearance as he paralleled his wife's testimony, revealing intimate details of his daughter's girlhood and recounting supposed cases of insanity in various branches of his family.

The state won but one point in cross-examination when Andrews asked, "Had your daughter a fair sense of right and wrong?"

"Well, except when she got very angry," the Rev. McKinnell replied.

Tells of Insanity in Family.

Defense Attorney Paul Schenck has avowed to the court that he will show Mrs. Judd to have been insane and "unable to tell right from wrong" when the two women were slain.

The aged minister gave details of insanity in the McKinnell family.

"My father's mother, living in Scotland," he said, "became insane. My father's brother, Joseph, at about 18 or 19 lost his mind, and remained insane 'till death.

"My sister's son seemed at times queer. He would run off from school—what he called 'play hookey.' The family felt he died insane," he added. He named two second cousins of Mrs. Judd, of whom one died in an insane asylum, at Peoria, Ill., and the other considered "queer."

50 PER CENT BENHAM REPORTED OPERATING IN BELVIDERE AGAIN

Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Alfred W. Benham, once known as "the King Midas of Belvidere," is back in business at the same old stand, state's attorney's investigators said tonight.

His latest project, the investigators said, pays 20 per cent a month to investors. Notes are sold for $100 and purchased back for $120 at the end of 30 days.

Benham is under 14 indictments containing about two score charges, mostly of operating a confidence game in connection with his former flourishing business which paid investors from 20 to 50 per cent.

The notes now under investigation are issued by the Blackhawk Finance company, the same name as the firm under which Benham previously operated.

PRESIDENT SEEN IN 'ECONOMIC TRANCE' AS A DRY

Democrat Predicts 'Back to California' March.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Representative L. H. Black [Dem., N. Y.] today predicted in the house that President Hoover soon "will be chanting to the monotonous beat of the dead march, that once joyous song, 'California, here I come, right back where I started from.'"

Some of his other remarks were:

"President Hoover is writing a favored commodity clause in the remnant of American economics. Like all converts, he is trumping the old reliables. He is so American he makes Big Bill Thompson look like a little stranger. So American has he become that it is almost painful. He follows Nordic immigration laws with a verdun tariff and now sponsors a 'buy only American' crusade. But his new nationalism is still tolerant of foreign liquor.

Preferential Imports.

"Scotch whisky has an import preference. Irish whisky still makes America safe for democracy. French wines are given the keys of the country if Mabel Willebrandt is not looking. Gold must not leave the country unless it buys foreign liquor.

"The American farmer cannot sell his barley, hops, corn, rye or rice to an American brewer or distiller unless he wants to reap bitter tears in the big house. An American truckman cannot convey American beer unless he wants to unhitch his horses in the jail yard. An American bottler cannot pour an American distillation into an American bottle unless he wants to be bottled up in Atlanta.

"An American President in an economic trance will not take the short and happy cut to prosperity called modification lane. There are none so blind. Instead, Hoover would plunge more deeply into the economic morass by wage cuts, moratoriums and excessive taxes. The old super-man is in the soup.

Era of Economic Aridity.

"Some old familiar faces have left these pleasant pay roll scenes, for they were more true to the Anti-Saloon league than they were to themselves. Don't join the mournful number. It is better to confess you were dry and wrong, than to be an ex. You will not have to confess that—you will look it. Dry lame ducks will have no place to go in this era of economic aridity. Hoover will be too busy considering a commission about the future of Hoover to worry about the dry martyrs who called him chief. No longer can you depend on the desiccated super-man—it took a super-man to wreck America."

HOSPITAL PROWLER SENTENCED.

James Porter, 113 East 60th street, a Negro, who was caught Sunday while prowling in the Illinois Central hospital, was fined $200 and sentenced to the Bridewell for six months yesterday by Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller.

PRINCE OF WALES SPEAKS; SHOUTED DOWN BY WOMEN

"Take Troops from India!" They Cry.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Royalty, in the person of England's popular prince of Wales, was heckled by women at a meeting tonight when he spoke of British interests abroad and the depression.

"Withdraw the forces from India!" a group of women shouted as the prince addressed 10,000 boys and girls in Albert hall at a meeting arranged by the National Council for Social Service.

One woman was removed from the hall by attendants. The prince, who ignored the interruption, went on with his address.

Cheers had filled the hall earlier when the prince said depression and apathy were the devil's own.

Says They're Not English.

"They're not English," he cried. "Away with them!"

Many paths in life were closed to him, the prince said. "Much that I would like to do I cannot, but I have tried to bring the people of the empire closer together.

"I have had my failures, I know, but in these years, with few precedents to guide us, to have had no failures is to have attempted nothing."

The women who heckled the prince previously had broken in on Capt. E. A. Fitzroy, speaker of the house of commons. While he was addressing the meeting they shouted remarks about the unemployed.

Says Britain Must Fight.

"Emerson wrote a good many years ago that he found the Englishman to be one of all men who stands firmest in his shoes," the prince said, "and I am sure this is true of the rising generation of today.

"There is a danger that some people are getting too used to the present critical situation.

"It's no use waiting for that doubtful thing of good times coming. We have got to fight, and here I pin my faith to the younger generation to keep England 'a bulwark for the cause of men,' to keep our great heritage in trust for those who come after."

Suspect Draws Pistol; Killed by a Policeman

Steve Urbanski, 26 years old, 4847 South Hoyne avenue, a hoodlum suspect, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by Policeman James Micus when he drew a pistol as the policeman tried to question him at 49th street and Hoyne avenue. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where he died a few hours later.

POLICE SHOOT YOUTH IN CHASE FOR STOLEN CAR

Policemen Maurice Mahoney and Edward Quinn of the Hyde Park station were assigned to automobile duty last night and given a new police car. Fifteen minutes after they had started on their first cruise they got a radio flash of the theft of an automobile. Two minutes later they sighted it at 43d street and Greenwood avenue. A chase, in which Quinn fired half a dozen shots, ended at Lake Park avenue and 47th street when the stolen car crashed into a parked automobile, and was wrecked.

John Burns, 18 years old, 5216 South Halsted street, the driver, was found to have been wounded slightly in the head by one of the police bullets. William McCarthy, also 18, of 533 West 47th street, suffered injuries in the crash. The other occupants were Peter Ramon, 17, of 5012 Morgan street, and Catherine Swartz, 17, of 5918 Laflin street.

The stolen car belonged to Harry M. Fish of East Chicago. It was taken outside of Bartlett gymnasium while he was watching an interfraternity basketball game.

JOBLESS MAN IS SAVED FROM JAIL IN ALIMONY CASE

Because Andrew Lebchuck, 40 years old, was homeless and out of work, Judge Harry B. Miller refused yesterday to commit him to jail for contempt of court, even though he was $2,000 behind in alimony payments to Mrs. Parasha Lebchuck, 1817 West 19th street.

Lebchuck was arrested on Tuesday night after he appeared at his ex-wife's home. She pursued him down the street after firing several blank cartridges at him at close range. He was taken before Judge Miller in the Superior court on an attachment issued for nonpayment of alimony. The sum had accumulated at $15 a week since Mrs. Lebchuck divorced him four years ago.

Judge Miller warned her to stop her pistol practice, even with blank cartridges, and told Lebchuck to keep away from her home. Mrs. Lebchuck wanted her pistol returned, but Judge Miller ruled that that was up to the police who took it away from her.

MELLON DENIES CONNECTION WITH BARCO OIL DEAL

Didn't Even Know About Negotiations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon tonight publicly denied any connection whatsoever with the granting of the Barco oil concession by the government of Colombia to the Gulf Oil company, a Mellon-Morgan concern. Insinuations circulated to the effect that as a member of the cabinet he had exercised improper influence to obtain the concession were branded as false by the treasury head.

His denial was prompted by a radio address delivered last night by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], in which the Kansan said that a "member of the cabinet appears to have had an interest" in the granting of the Barco oil concession to the Mellon concern. In his statement Secretary Mellon denied any knowledge whatsoever of the Barco oil transaction last June or the subsequent granting of a $4,000,000 credit by New York bankers to Colombia.

Outgrowth of Inquiry.

The Mellon denial was the outgrowth of the senate committee's investigation into the sale of foreign securities in this country. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] delved into state department records in an attempt to determine if any connection existed between the granting of the Barco concession to the Gulf Oil company and the granting ten days later of the $4,000,000 credit to Colombia.

State department officials denied any improper moves, although admitting the department had aided the oil company as well as the Colombian government in its efforts to obtain the credit which was part of a much larger loan granted previously. Secretary of State Stimson refused to give the senate committee the full state department correspondence on the transactions, except for use as confidential matter.

Mellon Makes Denial.

"A persistent effort has been made," Mr. Mellon said today, "to imply that improper influence was exercised in order to bring about the granting of the concession. These indirect charges, and innuendoes have recently received widespread publicity through a speech broadcast by a senator. Inasmuch as I am a stockholder in one of the companies interested, and I have been definitely drawn into this matter more particularly in the radio speech, I deem it proper to state the facts.

"I had no knowledge of the granting of the Barco concession which it is said was coincident with the fulfillment of a credit obligation. I had no knowledge at any time of any contract by bankers to grant a credit to the Colombian government. I never knew that such a credit had been granted or fulfilled until the senate hearings. The record before the senate committee indicates the Barco concession was confirmed on June 30, 1931, and that the $4,000,000 credit obligation was met on June 30, 1931.

Not Even in U. S. at Time.

"I left Washington on my way to Europe June 5, 1931, and did not return to this country until the end of August. All of these transactions took place during my absence. I had no knowledge before I left of any negotiations then pending, if they were then pending, relating either to a bank credit or to the Barco concession. I did not discuss this loan with the secretary of state, any official of the state department, or any one else. The suggestion that I participated in or in any way concerned myself directly or indirectly with these transactions is entirely without foundation in fact, and the senator was evidently misinformed."

GLASS MEASURE TO REVISE BANK LAWS OPPOSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.] — With the administration against it because of its promised effect in severely curtailing credit, the Glass bill to revise the federal reserve and national banking laws, it was said today, will have to be radically rewritten if it is to gain any considerable support.

CARTER GLASS. [Tribune Photo.]

There are few friends of the bill to be found at the capitol. Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], chief of the bill's authors, defended his measure, saying that New York banking interests were against it because of the drastic restrictions it imposes on the size of federal reserve facilities for speculative purposes.

But the opposition to the bill is not confined to administration senators or to conservatives. Members usually termed radicals said that the bill was too far-reaching to be pushed now and that it would require the most careful scrutiny.

Treasury and federal reserve officials have stated specific objections to the Glass bill. Few senators, however, are ready to go into such details.

One critic said he understood the general opposition to the bill from an administration standpoint is that it is too "deflationary" and restricts the use of credit too harshly.

The subcommittee considering the bill met this afternoon, but Senator Norbeck [Rep., S. D.], a member, and chairman of the full committee, said that little progress was made.

"Many were ready to say that the bill had been 'hurried out far too quickly,'" he said.

TRADITION? BOSH HUEY LONG RAPS HUMPHREY; LOSES

Nonchalant as He Starts Right In Opposing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—[Special.]—Unabashed by the senate tradition that new members should be seen and not heard, Louisiana's new senator, Huey P. Long, made his first speech today, just 52 hours after his taking the oath. He was as untroubled as he was on his first day, when he nonchalantly disregarded the rule against carrying lighted cigars into the senate chamber.

HUEY P. LONG. [Acme Photo.]

His remarks were brief, political and all inclusive. He soaked the Republican administration and went along to the Supreme court. His subject was the confirmation of William E. Humphrey, recently reappointed to the federal trade commission.

He sided with the senate radicals and southwestern Democrats, who opposed Commissioner Humphrey on the ground that he favored "big business."

"I know how utterly futile it is for me to oppose the confirmation of any of the nominations. However, I want to take this opportunity to place myself on record with reference to the policy of the administration and its members in reaching out into the affairs of every industry supposed to be regulated in this country.

"When the Supreme court stood four to four on the valuation of the public utilities of the United States and a vacancy was to be filled on that court, the then acting administration appointed as the ninth member of the Supreme court of the United States one of the leading corporation attorneys of the country who had been maintaining the view upon which the Supreme court of the United States at that time was divided.

"They have nullified the power commission, they have nullified the decisions of the Supreme court of the United States, they have nullified the trade commission in the same manner. I intend to vote against the confirmation of every man who seeks reappointment on these commissions."

Mr. Humphrey was confirmed.

SALARY BOOSTS ARE BARRED BY HOUSE MEASURE

But Efforts to Slash Pay Are Defeated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The annual supply bill for the department of agriculture carrying a total appropriation of $175,443,814 was approved today by the house of representatives.

It passed bearing amendments prohibiting salary increases within grade, prohibiting the filling of vacancies except by special order of the President, and limiting the number, the cost, and the service of official automobiles.

But during the final day's debate two additional amendments designed still further to curtail the number of federal employés were defeated through the opposition of the Democratic majority.

Five Per Cent Cut Proposed.

Both amendments were offered by Representative Simmons [Rep., Neb.]. The effect of the first would have been to save the government half a million dollars by cutting 5 per cent off the salaries of department of agriculture employés working in Washington.

The other stipulated that none of the salary appropriations should go to the wife of any government employé receiving more than $2,500 a year. Husbands and wives—in fact, whole families, said Representative Simmons—were on the federal pay roll. Both amendments were defeated.

Rep. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] argued heatedly against the other section of the same provision—that prohibiting salary increases within grades. This constituted a breach of contract, he claimed, since approval of such increases was already in the law.

"In other words," Representative Lozier [Dem., Mo.] cut in, "your contention is that, once hired, an employé has a vested right in his job and that his salary can be increased but never reduced."

The congressmen were quite willing, however, to adopt amendments relating to official cars. In addition to the provision placed in the bill last Monday limiting the cost of all automobiles except the secretary's to $750 and providing that they be used on official business only, a new amendment was added taking away one of the two cars allotted to the secretary and one of the two allotted to the head of the bureau of public roads.

MELLON OPPOSES ADDITIONAL BILLION NATIONAL BANK NOTES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] made public today a letter from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon rejecting a proposal which would permit the issue of an additional one billion dollars in national bank notes.

Senator Walsh had suggested that the government might issue approximately one billion dollars in 2½ per cent bonds with the circulation privilege. He proposed that the money from their sale be used to refund recent short term indebtedness or for the treasury's contribution of 500 million dollars to the capital requirements of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and of 125 million dollars for the federal land banks.

Secretary Mellon replied that he had no evidence that the circulation of national banks could be increased one billion dollars, even if it were thought desirable.

"If the country were confronted with a currency shortage or if the established provision for currency supply were deemed inadequate," he added, "it might be urged with very good reason that, as an emergency measure, provision be made for increasing the national bank circulation. I do not find conditions now existing would warrant such action."

The Mind of Business

No business rises higher than the mind of the organization behind it. Sound business principles and adequate financing are essential of course, but developing an institution of merit and achieving success depend in no small degree upon the Thinking Power of those who chart the course.

In our particular business of Shirtmaking and Haberdashery of the highest character, we do not endeavor to solicit trade among those who cannot afford the exceptional qualities we are constantly featuring. Men accustomed to wearing only the best compose our most logical clientele, and it is on the problem of fulfilling their exacting requirements that the mind of our organization is concentrated. Through constructive thinking on betterments we have built up a very exceptional business in our New York, Chicago, London and Paris Shops.

Tune in W-G-N tonight at 9:10

THE NEXT PUZZLE WILL APPEAR IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

56 MEN DOOMED AS VAIN SEARCH GOES ON FOR M-2

See Faint Hope for Sunken British Sub.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Vague hopes for the safety of 56 officers and men imprisoned in the British submarine M-2, which mysteriously disappeared during exercises in the English channel yesterday, were twice shattered by official statements from the admiralty today.

Slender hope, albeit with little foundation, revived again tonight when the British rescue ship, Tedworth, equipped with the latest appliances for deep sea diving, suddenly left Devonport for the position where the M-2 was last reported. It was suggested that the Tedworth's action meant the submarine has been found, but there was no confirmation.

At midnight but ten hours remained of the forty-eight in which it is considered likely the crew could live trapped in the craft under water.

Search Day and Night.

The search, started yesterday, continued today and tonight in a heavy sea. About 30 seaplanes, tugs, and ships on the surface and the M-2's sister ship, under water, scoured an area of about fifteen square miles. The only result was a report late tonight from two sloops that they had contacted an object which might be the missing vessel.

"We regret to inform you that your husband is missing and is feared to be drowned in the submarine M-2, believed to have sunk off Portland Bill Tuesday," read the telegram which was sent this afternoon from the H. M. S. Dolphin, the ill-fated submarine's depot ship, to the wives of all the married men assigned to the vessel's exercise cruise yesterday on "Dead Man's" bay. (Portland Bill is a rocky promontory in the channel.)

Two Denials Issued.

The probability is that the craft lies in wallowing, heavy seas among the rotting hulls of countless vessels sunk by U-boats off Portland Bill during the war.

The admiralty was twice forced to issue tragic denials of hopeful reports during the day. First the news got out that an apparatus called a "pheasant" because of its clucking noise, by means of which submarines communicate under water, had been heard.

Then came a purported wireless message from the Adamant, mother ship of the submarine, to Portland, stating that "we have definitely located the M-2. We are surrounding the position and will send divers down."

"Report Incorrect."

Both reports were termed "incorrect" by the admiralty.

A flotilla of rescue ships set out early this morning to a point four miles west of Portland Bill, where the master of the coastal steamer Clydesider reported he saw the M-2, end up, disappear stern first in a heavy sea.

A fruitless circle in constant rotation moved during the day around the buoy marking the spot where the M-2 was last reported and a number of submarines are standing by prepared to dive at the first credible reports of its position.

No Surface Oil Found.

The only hope that the M-2 is intact is the fact that no oil has yet been discovered on the surface, although experts are convinced that a hole would have been opened if the ship hit the bottom stern down. In that case the men are doomed, for when the salt water reached the chemicals in the batteries the M-2 would immediately have filled with chlorine gas.

Hospital beds are ready for the victims, but have been empty for hours, and the fear is growing that they will never be occupied.

DICTATOR URGED FOR AUSTRIA AS CABINET FALLS

Seipel Heads Move to Restore Monarchy.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Jan. 27.—Austria, struggling to stave off financial disaster and political collapse, was without a government tonight.

Chancellor Karl Buresch, head of the anti-Socialist coalition cabinet, resigned today, but later tonight Wilhelm Miklas, president of the republic, asked him to form a new government.

The reason for the fall of the Buresch government was not the fact that Austria is on the brink of a financial precipice. It was because Msgr. Ignaz Seipel, a little black frocked figure who controlled the destinies of Austria as chancellor during half of its existence and wants to get back into the saddle again, decreed it.

Seipel Acts.

Msgr. Seipel apparently decided today that his archenemy, Johann Schober, vice chancellor and foreign minister, must go. Moreover, Schober is notoriously pro-German and wants the union of Austria and Germany. This Msgr. Seipel also detests, for he still dreams of a revival of the Hapsburg empire, or at least union of the present Austria and Hungary under the Archduke Otto, heir to Franz Joseph's throne.

Schober is also anti-French and Msgr. Seipel is reported recently to have stated that Austria needed a Francophile as foreign minister as long as Europe is dominated so completely by France. It is also stated on the highest authority here that France demanded as a condition of a much needed loan to Austria, or even for French approval of the projected loan from the world bank, that Schober resign.

Seipel Seeks Dictatorship.

Msgr. Seipel, who arrived in Vienna tonight for the annual meeting of his Christian Social party, said he wants a dictatorship. With a dictatorship, he announced only last week, he would stamp out the power of the Socialists, who still control the city of Vienna. Also, if he could, he would pave the way for Otto's triumphant return.

The movement engineered by Msgr. Seipel against the moderate Buresch government began months ago in the Tyrol, where the sturdy mountaineers demanded a Seipel dictatorship in preparation for Otto's assumption of the throne. All over the Tyrol scores of villages and towns are voting Otto honorary citizenship.

BIG COBRA INVADES GANDHI'S JAIL AND GIVES IT A THRILL

POONA, India, Jan. 27.—(AP)—L. B. Bhopatkar, a nationalist leader confined in Yeravda jail near Mahatma Gandhi's quarters, faced death for ten minutes today while a big cobra reared and swayed before him within striking distance.

Bhopatkar was sitting on the floor reading when a jailer shouted through the door that the snake had slipped through the bars, he had nothing with which to protect himself except his bedding and the snake was between him and the bed. He sat without moving a muscle until the warden came with the cell keys, burst in and killed the snake with a club.

When Gandhi heard about it he was not at all disturbed. The serpent, he explained, is sacred in the Hindu religion and its appearance in his colleague's cell was a good omen. Bhopatkar seemed to think otherwise.

BRITAIN ORDERS INDIAN EXCHANGE TO HALT STRIKE

Prepares to Strengthen Repression Measures.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 27.—The British rulers of Bombay presidency have notified the Bombay stock exchange that it must discontinue the remarkable strike it has pursued since Mahatma Gandhi's imprisonment three weeks ago.

Notice was served on the stock exchange president by letter three days ago, it became known today. The government threatened to withdraw the charter if the exchange fails to resume business. A general meeting has been called to consider the government's ultimatum.

How Strike Is Conducted.

The quality of determination shown by the stock exchange in registering a protest against the British policy of repression is indicated by the manner in which it has carried out its strike, now entering the fourth week. The president causes the bell to be rung daily and goes through other motions of opening the exchange, but nary a member operates.

Last week it was decided to operate hereafter for one hour on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays to care for previous commitments. But on Monday the government arrested a lawyer who had done considerable business with members of the exchange. So on Monday, although the exchange was declared open, it spontaneously observed a "hartal" (sympathy strike) and no business was done.

Then another meeting was held and the rebellious business men decided that henceforth, although three one-hour meetings are necessary weekly, the days will be decided as they go along, depending upon the circumstances.

Meantime it is learned that the government intends to tighten further its drastic policy, particularly with regard to picketing. The ordinance as it stands allows the arrest and imprisonment of persons who "loiter near a place of business to attend to dissuade by word, gesture, or otherwise any persons from dealing in such a place."

Two Girls Sentenced.

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Miss Santi Ghose and Miss Sunity Chowduri, Bengali schoolgirls, were sentenced to "transportation for life" today for the murder of Magistrate C. G. B. Stevens last month. It was believed the two girls would be exiled to some province out of Bengal, where they would be held in restraint.

The young defendants chatted and joked with each other in the courtroom. When the sentence was read they shrugged their shoulders in apparent indifference. As they passed down the stairs to their cells one of them remarked that it was better to die outright than to spend their lives in a place like a horse's stable.

Moslems Burn Village.

SRINAGAR, India, Jan. 27.—(AP)—An entire village in the Kotli Tehsil region was burned today by Moslems who entered and sacked it, armed with swords, rifles, and daggers. They terrorized the Hindu and Sikh populace, which fled to nearby towns.

Two Moslems were shot dead and five injured when 10,000 of them stormed the town of Rajouri. They showered bricks and stones on the police, whereupon the troops of the maharajah, Sir Hari Singh, opened fire and dispersed the mob. Several policemen were badly beaten.

PLEADS GUILTY TO MURDER IN ARSON DEATHS

Henry Thompson, 31 years old, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of murder by arson in connection with the fire that took a toll of three lives in a rooming house at 160 West Oak street on Oct. 22, 1931. He was arraigned before Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court. The prosecutors said they would ask for a death penalty.

Shortly afterward, attorneys for Angelo Barone, 17 years old, 865 Milton street, a student at the Waller High school, to whom Thompson is alleged to have paid $7 to kindle the blaze, entered a plea of not guilty.

Barone waived a jury and the trial began. The youth's confession was admitted into evidence over the protests of the defense counsel.

The first witness for the state was Mrs. May Boehm, whose daughter, Doris, 5 years old, was burned to death in the fire. Mrs. Boehm said that Thompson was jealous of her and quarreled with Aubrey Lay, who employed her as a housekeeper at the house in Oak street. Lay was killed in the fire. Gideon Frizen, a roomer, also lost his life.

BRITAIN TAKES IN $231,474,000 ON INCOME TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Income tax returns published last night showed that during the week ending Jan. 23 income tax collections amounted to £17,100,000, an increase of more than £7,000,000 over the amount collected during the corresponding week of last year. The total income tax collected so far this year amounts to more than £66,900,000 [$231,474,000] as compared with £34,800,000 for the same period last year.

Surtax payments have also shown an increase. They total £3,750,000 this last week, compared with £2,200,000 for the corresponding week last year. The total received so far this year is £8,500,000 higher than the corresponding period of 1931. There still remains £61,300,000 to be collected in income tax before the end of the quarter.

[The pound was worth $4.86 last year, and is now worth $3.46.]

U. S. AND BRITAIN MAY GIVE JAPAN JOINT WARNING

Consider Making a Naval Demonstration.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Affairs in the far east involving not only Japan and China, on the brink of war, but the United States, Great Britain, and France as possible interveners reached a critical tension tonight. The major developments of the day were:

1. The Hoover administration and the MacDonald government in London continued discussion of a joint Anglo-American naval demonstration at Shanghai designed to deter Japan from further aggression upon China.

2. A strong warning to Japan by the United States in the event that joint international action fails to materialize was also under consideration.

3. President Hoover transmitted to the senate the protests, warnings, and other notes dispatched to Japan by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson regarding the occupation of Manchuria together with Tokio's replies.

The voluminous correspondence between Washington and Tokio over Manchuria was sent to the senate in response to the resolution of Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.]. The resolution was adopted several weeks ago and, though Mr. Stimson had stated it would be complied with, there was no indication until today that the correspondence was ready for submission. Late this afternoon it was rushed to the senate and made public.

Step Comes Suddenly.

That this step had been taken suddenly and with a bearing upon the situation developing at Shanghai was indicated by the fact that the state department had not completed the copies of the correspondence being made for the press.

Although administration officials denied any special significance attaching to the move the sudden submission of the correspondence was generally regarded as a step by the President to lay before the world the whole case against Japan in the Manchurian affair.

Whether the United States and Great Britain are to join in a naval demonstration at Shanghai is up to the British government to decide.

The project, it appears, has been under discussion by the two governments for 48 hours. The Hoover administration made the first move, it transpires, by sounding the MacDonald government on its attitude toward joint action in the crisis that has developed at Shanghai as the result of Japan's demand, backed by the Japanese fleet, for the lifting of the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods. The British have not definitely determined their attitude, according to the information available here tonight.

May End in War.

The ostensible object of a naval demonstration is the protection of Americans and their property in the international settlement at Shanghai, if the Japanese should carry out their threat to occupy the city, and the protection of American commercial interests generally if the Japanese should in effect blockade the coast with their navy and proceed to occupy northern China.

The United States has a sufficient force of warships and marines in the far east now for the immediate protection of Americans at Shanghai. But it is conceivable that a naval demonstration by the United States would lead to serious complications with Japan.

The United States can scarcely afford to become involved alone in war with Japan if for no other reason because the Washington treaty deprives the United States of the ability to meet Japan on equal terms in the western Pacific. This accords for the view that it would be hazardous for the United States to engage in a naval demonstration in the far east except in conjunction with Great Britain.

Britain's Aid Important.

The course the Hoover administration is now pursuing is predicated upon the reasoning that if Great Britain as well as the United States were to dispatch naval forces to Shanghai, Japan would back down.

The prevalent view in administration circles is that unless the Japanese are stopped short by some such display of force on the part of the principal powers they will continue their aggressions upon China until they are in complete control of the disorganized oriental republic. Once Japan is in the saddle in China the rights and commercial interests of occidental countries will be trampled upon and the open door closed forever, according to this view.

Japan is believed to be maneuvering to force China into a declaration of war which would enable Japan to set up the claim that China had violated the Kellogg anti-war pact.

In the event of a declaration of war by China, Japan would also be enabled to blockade the Chinese coast and shut down American and other foreign trade with China. In some quarters it is suggested that even if formal war between the two countries is not declared Japan will apply what is called a specific blockade whereby Chinese shipping would be halted though foreign ships would not be interfered with.

Britain Hesitates to Join U. S. in Action at Shanghai

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The American state department has asked the British government whether it is prepared to coöperate in sending warships to Shanghai to watch the situation there and possibly prevent a Japanese occupation of the city.

This was admitted today by the foreign office. British officials declined, however, to discuss the matter further. The Shanghai situation is being examined carefully in the light of latest developments and an answer is not likely to be sent to Washington for a day or two.

Britain to Limit Action.

If Great Britain does decide to cooperate, it is learned that her action will likely be limited by a desire to do nothing which might precipitate a warlike action.

The situation at Shanghai at present lends itself to formal action at which, British observers say, Japan could not take offense. A state of emergency has been declared by the authorities of the international settlement in Shanghai, which is governed jointly by the foreign powers. This automatically places control in the hands of the senior foreign commander on the spot. This happens to be Rear Admiral Koichi Shiosawa, Japanese naval commander, but if the United States and Great Britain should send warships with an admiral senior to the Japanese, he would automatically succeed to the command.

Wishes to Exhaust Pacts.

Britain, it is also believed, wishes to exhaust all powers under the league of nations, the Kellogg pact and other instruments before resorting to anything which might be interpreted by Japan as a warlike action.

It is considered certain that whatever action is decided upon, it will be in common by Britain and the United States, whose interests in China are regarded here as identical.

The correspondence over the Manchurian affair discloses that the Hoover administration, in the pressure it has brought to bear upon Japan, has been animated by many considerations, chief of which is the desire to make the Kellogg pact an effective force for the maintenance of world peace. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson sought in numerous ways to deter Japan from seizing Manchuria, adopting tactics that aroused Japanese ill will for America and risking a breach of friendly relations between the two nations.

Most of the correspondence was made public either in whole or in part at or shortly after written. Many of the notes, however, are new and others throw new light on situations which were dark at the time. It discloses repeated protests were made by this government against Japanese encroachments in Manchuria and especially against the attack on Chinchow.

Protests Chinchow Bombing.

"The secretary of state cannot understand," Secretary Stimson wrote as early as Oct. 11, "how the bombing of Chinchow can be minimized or how it can be said to be of no importance. The explanation given by the Japanese military authorities seems quite inadequate. Chinchow is more than fifty miles from the Japanese railway zone and is situated in territory where the Chinese have an entire right to maintain troops. The secretary of state is at a loss to see what right Japanese military planes had to fly over the town, thereby provoking attack, and to drop bombs. Casualties among civilians have been asserted by the Chinese to have taken place. Bombing of an unfortified and unwarned town is one of the most extreme of military actions, deprecated even in time of war.

"The reasons given in explanation of this attack would appear quite at variance with the commitments undertaken by the Japanese government in respect to the resolution of Sept. 30 of the council of the league of nations.

Asks Further Explanation.

"The secretary of state is thus constrained to regard the bombing of Chinchow as of very serious importance, and he would welcome any further information from the minister for foreign affairs which would throw light on it."

On Oct. 20 the United States called the attention of Japan to her status as signatory of the Kellogg pact outlawing war except in defense.

"The government and people of the United States have observed with concern the events of the last month in Manchuria," Mr. Stimson wrote. "A threat of war, wherever it may arise, is of profound concern to the whole world, and for this reason the American government, like other governments, was constrained to call to the attention of both disputants the serious dangers involved in the present situation.

"This government now desires, as do other signatories of the treaty for the renunciation of war, particularly to call to the attention of the Japanese and the Chinese governments the obligations which they voluntarily assumed when they became parties to that treaty, especially the obligations of article 2, which reads:

"'The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means.'

Charge Manchuria Subjugated.

"The American government takes this occasion again to express its earnest hope that Japan and China will refrain from any measures which might lead to war and that they will find it possible in the near future to agree upon a method for resolving by peaceful means, in accordance with their promises and in keeping with the confident expectations of public opinion throughout the world, the issues over which they are at present in controversy."

After Japan had sought to pacify the United States with the statement that its settled aim was to compose its differences with China by "none but pacific means," Secretary Stimson on Nov. 5 instructed Ambassador Forbes at Tokio to deliver a note to Japan charging that government with having "destroyed the administrative integrity of China" in Manchuria.

"From the information in its possession," Ambassador Forbes states in his memorandum, "my government cannot escape the conclusion that in the efforts to protect the South Manchuria railway and the lives and property of Japanese subjects against attack a situation has been created in Manchuria which gives Japan substantial control of Southern Manchuria and has, temporarily, at least, destroyed the administrative integrity of China in this region. On this my government neither attributes motives nor passes judgment, but desires solely to point out the fact.

"It appears to my government that there are two separate and distinct points to be considered: First, the peaceful solution of the present unfortunate situation in Manchuria, and, second, a solution through direct negotiation of the various matters at issue between Japan and China arising from misunderstanding as to the respective rights of the two nations as claimed under various treaties.

Asks Troops Be Withdrawn.

"With regard to the first point, my government cannot escape the conclusion that effective withdrawal of the Japanese troops within the railway lines would destroy the idea, either on the part of China or of outside nations, that Japan intends to use military pressure to bring about a settlement of the broader issues. That it is not the Japanese government's intention thus to exert pressure has already been clearly indicated in the statement issued by the Japanese government in Tokio on Oct. 27.

"It is further the belief of my government that the second and broader question cannot appropriately be settled until the first has been disposed of. The withdrawal of the troops, as soon as this can be safely accomplished in the present emergency, would inevitably create a more favorable atmosphere in which negotiations may be carried on and would also constitute an impressive demonstration to the world of Japan's often repeated assertion that it has no territorial ambitions in Manchuria and that it intends strictly to abide by the treaties guaranteeing the administrative integrity of China and providing for the settlement of all controversies solely by pacific means.

Against Forced Negotiations.

"As to the second point, the settlement of the broader issues involved in the treaty rights, my government is in complete sympathy with the desire of the Japanese government to obtain a solution which will be satisfactory to both parties and which, being so, would give promise of permanence. It cannot bring itself to feel, however, that the solution of these broader issues should be made a condition precedent to the solution of the present situation in Manchuria."

At this point the ambassador urged Japan not to attempt to effect a settlement of her dispute with China before Japanese troops had been returned to the railroad zones.

"My government hopes," Ambassador Forbes stated, "that the Japanese government will find it possible to share the view of those nations that negotiations looking to the settlement of long standing issues between Japan and China ought not be made a condition precedent to the evacuation of the occupied positions and by so doing avail itself of the opportunity presented to refute conclusively any implication that exertion of military pressure was in any way intended to affect the process of arriving at a settlement of the points at issue."

Promise to Withdraw Troops.

Four days later Japan replied that Japanese troops would be withdrawn into the treaty zones when local authorities prove themselves adequate to afford protection to foreign residents.

"The state of things now prevailing in Manchuria is certainly abnormal," stated the Japanese government. "But it is only temporary. In no case has such military pressure been inspired by any thought of bringing about any territorial or administrative dismemberment of China. The Japanese government remains unchanged in their stand against the partition of China."

The Japanese communication then stated Japan had no intention of insisting upon the final adjustment of the whole series of their controversies with China "as a condition precedent to the withdrawal of Japanese troops to the railway zone." Japan could not, however, states the communication, withdraw her troops at once, as then "all the treaty rights of Japan would be challenged or ignored."

In conclusion the Japanese government expressed the hope that it would be appreciated that "time and patience" are needed for an adjustment of the Manchurian problem.

Repeats Chinchow Protest.

In late November Secretary Stimson expressed concern over reported Japanese advances on Chinchow, last of the Manchurian strongholds, and on Nov. 24 was advised by the Japanese government that movement of troops in that direction was not contemplated. On Nov. 27 Secretary Stimson instructed Ambassador Forbes at Tokio to read the communication to the Japanese foreign minister in which this government expressed fresh concern over the Chinchow situation. Mr. Stimson also recalled that he had been assured by Japan that "there would be no movement of troops in the direction of Chinchow."

On instructions from Mr. Stimson, Ambassador Forbes on Dec. 24 advised the Japanese minister of foreign affairs of this country's apprehension over developments around Chinchow.

"News dispatches and reports from a variety of official sources," he said, "are to the effect that responsible Japanese authorities are seriously contemplating action in connection with the continued presence of the regular Chinese military forces at and south of Chinchow in Manchuria, measures which if followed through to their logical conclusion would in all probability lead to renewal of armed hostilities. In the presence of these reports I feel called upon, as a part of friendship, again frankly to convey to the Japanese government expression of my apprehension."

Blames It on Bandits.

Three days later the Japanese minister of foreign affairs advised the United States its operations in the Chinchow sector were necessitated by bandit operations inspired by Chinchow military authorities. These attacks became so serious, the minister said, "that there was finally created a situation that it is feared might bring about a fundamental bankruptcy of general peace and order in South Manchuria.

"Thereupon," the minister continued, "the imperial army was recently obliged to move out simultaneously and begin the subjugation of bandit bands on a comparatively large scale.

"The imperial government is determined to remain loyal to the league of nations covenant, the no war treaty, other various treaties and the two resolutions adopted by the council regarding the present incident.

"The imperial government trusts that the American government will surely understand that this sincerity and forbearance are in accord with the spirit of faithfulness to obligations based on the above mentioned treaties and the resolutions adopted by the council."

A week later, on Jan. 7, Japanese troops entered Chinchow, notwithstanding the promises made the United States. On that same date the United States formally notified Japan and China this government would not respect any treaty growing out of the Manchurian dispute which violated any existing international treaty right held by this country in China.

Troops Ordered to Harbin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 28.—[Thursday.]—Because of the acute situation at Harbin, where the troops of Gen. Ting Chao, former commander of the Chinese Eastern railway guards, are terrorizing the city, Japanese authorities at Changchun today ordered a detachment of troops to Harbin to protect the 7,000 Japanese there. Two tanks were also sent to Harbin. The troops are due there this evening.

Gen. Ting's troops have turned bandits and yesterday began looting the city. They wrecked Japanese newspaper offices, the Japanese hospital, and robbed wealthy Japanese and Corean residents. Casualties included several Japanese, including an army officer, and scores of Coreans killed. A number of Japanese and Corean women were kidnaped. Communications between Harbin and Changchun were cut this morning and the fate of the Japanese and Corean residents is uncertain.

A mutiny broke out at Kwangchengtzu, north of Changchun, at midnight among Chinese troops. The insurgents are occupying the town. It was feared Russia might be drawn into the trouble, since this is in the soviet sphere of influence and her interests are menaced.

A passenger train from Harbin to Changchun was held up this morning at Yaomen.

U. S. Fleet Ready at Manila.

MANILA, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Rumors were circulated today that ships of the United States Asiatic fleet were prepared to sail from here to Shanghai. Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, declining to say whether the fleet would go to Shanghai, added:

"Whatever decision is reached depends upon developments. I am keeping an open mind regarding the situation.

The destroyer Borie sailed yesterday for Shanghai. Admiral Taylor said it would relieve another destroyer, which would return here for repairs.

The cruiser Houston, flagship of the fleet; eleven destroyers, twelve submarines, and eleven auxiliary vessels are in Manila waters. Thirteen American warships are in Chinese waters. They include small craft of the Yangtze river patrol.

Want to Look Young?
The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.
Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.
Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES"

THE QUEEN OF COLLEENS
They scoured Ireland—the FOX flicker folks—for a winsome colleen to play opposite that great Irish tenor in "Song O' My Heart." And whom should they find but Maureen O'Sullivan! She arrived dressed as a waif—but her trunk was full of snappy Paris clothes. How's that for Irish blarney! She's now going over big in RKO-PATHE'S "THE BIG SHOT." It didn't take her long to pick LUCKIES, and she's been smoking them a year and a half. The only reward for her statement was our friendly "Top o' the morning, Maureen!"

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES is that they are so mild and cause no irritation to my throat. Your new Cellophane wrapper is marvelous. Just a pull of the tab and there are the LUCKIES."

CHINA APPEALS TO LEAGUE FOR HELP IN SHANGHAI

Reveals Japanese Threat to Seize Native Area.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 27.—China tonight politely informed the league of nations council of the goings on at Shanghai and at the same time prepared to be not so polite about the Japanese escapade in Manchuria.

After a bad afternoon in secret session the council set to work preparing a declaration on the new far eastern crisis which must be accepted by unanimous vote. Since the Chinese understand that Viscount Cecil, British delegate, has failed to rally support for a firm declaration paralleling Washington's recent note to Tokio, they are standing by, ready to invoke one or both of the dynamite clauses of the league's covenant—articles XV. and XVI. W. W. Jen, Chinese delegate, definitely decided tonight on such drastic action. He wants now nothing less than a declaration demanding that the Japanese about-face.

Japan Stands Pat.

Meanwhile, Japan's urbane spokesman, Naotake Sato, refused to get excited at today's session. He calmly told the council not to expect Tokio to change any of its plans. When the council's apprehensions regarding Shanghai were voiced Sato sympathized, and then said:

"Of course you are not expecting Japan to revise her military arrangements?"

Dr. Yen in his declaration on the Shanghai situation, which he insisted was entirely separate from the Manchurian affair, handed the council a elegram from Nanking accusing Japan of unloading arms in Chinese territory and definitely preparing to occupy the Chinese south city, the Chinese north city, and the arsenal.

Lists Japanese Demands.

"Japan has continued to send many war vessels to China, including the warship Ohi, carrying about 500 marines, twelve heavy guns with more than 500 cases of ammunition, twenty hand machine guns with more than 700 cases of ammunition, and more than 100 cases of rifle bullets. All were transported to Japanese headquarters over Kiangwan road, which is Chinese territory."

"Up to date Japanese war vessels at the port of Shanghai total two gunboats, five cruisers, three destroyers, and one airplane carrier."

The message goes on to say that the Japanese have demanded of the municipal government of Greater Shanghai an apology for the molestation of Japanese monks, speedy arrest and punishment of the culprits, and medical treatment and compensation for the victims, suppression of anti-Japanese boycott activities, and dissolution of boycott organizations in Shanghai.

Says Mayor Agreed.

The mayor agreed, the telegram states, and the culprits were punished according to law. An apology was promised, and medical treatment was taken under consideration. The mayor pointed out, however, that he had no right to suppress boycott activities as long as they are within the law.

"Despite the above reply by the mayor," the message continues, "the Japanese consul general, Kuramatsu Murai, insisted that because China had failed to accept the demands in full, the Japanese would exercise freedom of action. The commanding officer of the Japanese troops made known that as regards the dissolution of boycott organizations, no satisfactory reply was received, and he would dispatch troops to occupy the Chinese south city, the Chinese north city and the arsenal.

Reveal Occupation Attempt.

"Simultaneously more war vessels and troops were sent to Shanghai. According to the report from the Chinese legation at Tokio, the Japanese consul general at Shanghai was instructed to deliver his ultimatum to the Chinese authorities."

It was reliably reported tonight that Japanese troops attempted to occupy the international wireless station, the largest station communicating directly with America and Europe, at Chenku, near Shanghai, the night of Jan. 25.

To the energetic protest of the American consul general, the Japanese replied that execution of the plan depended on the result of negotiations with the Chinese mayor.

Indiana Girl Lawyer, 21, Is Facing Disbarment

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Disbarment proceedings were filed here today against Miss Anna Eggers, 21, who claims she is the youngest practicing woman attorney in the world. BRITAIN ORDERS NEW PLANE TO SPEED AIR MAIL

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The air ministry today announced plans under which it hopes to double the speed of air mail delivery on all empire sky routes.

The ministry has placed an order with the builders of the Royal Air force high speed bombers for a new type of all metal twin engined plane capable of a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour and a service ceiling of 12,000 feet.

This plane, it was said, would be a forerunner of a fleet of similar craft which would carry two pilots and 1,000 pounds of mail. Each machine would have a cruising radius of 1,000 miles with full load.

FACTOR COMPANY DIRECTOR DENIES KNOWING KLEIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Harry Brignell, witness for the prosecution of Arthur J. [Jack] Klein, a partner of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, former Chicago barber, in the alleged $8,000,000 Broad Street Press, Ltd., financial frauds, denied today he had ever seen or heard of Klein in connection with the company.

Brignell, a traveling salesman, testified he was made a director of the Rhodesian Border Mining corporation, one of the Broad Street companies, at an annual salary of $800, plus 100 shares of stock. He did not know the directors of his company in Africa and was never present at directors' meetings.

Albert J. S. Osborne, nominal editor of the Broad Street Press' financial publication, declared that he had never performed any editorial work and that he never knew who the actual editor was.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Michael O'Hara, 47 years old, 1133 West Washington boulevard, died at the county hospital yesterday of a fracture of the skull which he suffered Sunday when he fell to the pavement during an epileptic fit.

KELLY DEMANDS $9,950,000 CUT IN SCHOOL COST

Warns Board: Trim or Get No Pay Roll Cash.

pupil expenditure during 1930 for instruction was $119.74 in New York and $90.98 in Chicago, while for operation of plant New York spent $8.84 per pupil and Chicago $15.97.

His statement, which he told the trustees he would leave with them to verify, shows one janitor for 9.1 teachers in Detroit and one janitor for 4.8 teachers in Chicago.

Janitor Costs Compared.

"The cost of janitorial work in Chicago is twice as great as in St. Louis," said Mr. Kelly's statement. "A study of 10 elementary schools in St. Louis, as compared with 10 schools of the same pupil enrollment and similar size of building in Chicago, shows 31 janitors and custodians for the 10 St. Louis schools and 48 for Chicago.

"If this ratio continues throughout the system, Chicago, as compared with St. Louis, has 510 unnecessary janitors in the elementary schools alone. The salaries paid to engineer custodians in Chicago are more than twice as great as in the 10 comparable schools in St. Louis.

"For evening school work engineer custodians in Chicago are paid more than three times as much as is paid for similar positions in St. Louis."

Gives Further Evidence.

As further evidence that there is waste in school plant operation in Chicago, Mr. Kelly presented a table showing the percentage of current expenditures devoted to plant operation in several large cities for the school year of 1929-1930. The table follws:

City.	Per cent.	City.	Per cent.
Chicago	13.4	Los Angeles	9.0
Buffalo	12.7	St. Louis	8.9
Detroit	11.3	Boston	8.2
Pittsburgh	11.2	San Francisco	7.3
Cleveland	10.1	Philadelphia	7.2
Milwaukee	9.5	New York	5.8
Baltimore	9.4

The plea that the state Supreme court forced the increased cost of school plant operation was given this reply by Mr. Kelly:

"We are informed that the Supreme court decision did not require the present number of janitors nor the present salary rate of engineer-custodians."

"The janitors and engineers in Chicago school buildings are better paid than the teachers and principals," Mr. Kelly's statement went on.

"In most American cities the head janitor—called engineer-custodian in Chicago—does not receive a wage as large as the teachers receive. In Chicago, however, even the assistant head janitor in the elementary schools receive a higher wage than the best paid teacher in the building.

"The head janitor in Chicago's 49 junior and senior high schools receives a higher average wage than the principal of these schools. The head janitor in 92 elementary schools receives a higher wage than the principal."

The trustees promised to give Mr. Kelly a statement in reply within two or three days.

Delay Action on Budget.

The board's meeting, it was rumored, was for the purpose of passing the budget. But it was announced that it will be two or three weeks before the figures required by the attorneys for a legal document for a tax levy can be gotten into shape.

The board room was packed with persons who desired to protest against the cuts already made in the budget. The exception to this trend was a speech by Mrs. Harvey Tyler of the Woman's City club. She said:

"I believe more cuts can be made than the board has already made. The conditions warrant reductions in expense. We should retain in the schools what is real education, but we may have to eliminate some of those things which have educational value. We should have more time to ascertain what the facts are in this budget."

Hayne Leavell of the Hyde Park High school, speaking for south side teachers, urged that the passage of the budget be delayed until more accurate information is obtainable on the income of the board. He wanted it delayed until March 31. He would have the Columbia university survey of the school system available for the trustees before the budget is passed. He asserted that the schools have a right to ask as much money as is necessary to conduct them properly.

Charles A. Stillman of the central council of 23 teachers' unions insisted that the waste in the schools is not in the amount spent for instructional salaries. "In them," he added, "you will not find any cinder bridle paths."

The board will meet again Friday afternoon.

Scheme Is Devised by Which Chicago Pays for Own Relief

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Confidence that final action is in sight next week on Chicago's plea for aid in feeding, clothing, and sheltering the jobless and their families was expressed by leaders of the general assembly today as they started back home.

In both houses there was gratification expressed that although the meetings of the last two days had been limited by law to unofficial consideration of the subject, the breaking up of the recess had laid a solid groundwork for understanding and had materially simplified the plan the legislature will be asked to approve by a two-thirds vote so that it may be effective at once.

Cook to Issue Bonds.

A new simplification in the method of raising funds also was tentatively agreed upon among the leaders. This is a proposal that Cook county be authorized to issue $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 of its own bonds without referendum and that sufficient of the county's $4,000,000 annual share of the gas tax proceeds be held in the state treasury to pay the principal and interest on the bonds during their life.

And, further, to untangle the increasingly complicated situation in reference to concurrent sessions, due to the prospect that a third extraordinary session will be called to meet next Monday afternoon, Gov. Emmerson is contemplating the inclusion in his impending call of the subjects prescribed for the second session, a step that would permit the second session to adjourn sine die, leaving only the first and third in existence.

This would leave the first special with its work still centering around the program sponsored by the governor's tax conference to meet the financial difficulties of the local governments. The third, in addition to considering unemployment relief, for which it is to be called, would be empowered to consider also the subject of retrenchment and a resolution for a constitutional convention. The latter two topics were the chief purposes of the second call.

Call Session Success.

In the senate Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, president pro tem, and Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling of Rockford expressed during the farewell gathering of the members of that chamber their gratification that, despite the ruling of the lawyers that no joint recess could be broken into in the manner attempted in this instance, probably a week's time had been gained by the unofficial discussions of Tuesday and today.

"I have no apologies to make for being one of those who signed the telegram calling the members here this week," Sterling said. "I am glad, even proud, that I did it. And no member should have any regrets for coming here. In a remarkably short time, largely because we have taken up this one subject alone, we have reached what seems to be an adequate solution of the problem."

"There is no doubt," said Speaker Shanahan to the house members just before dismissing them, "that Chicago is truly appreciative of your coming here this week. Those responsible for your coming regret that because of the legal obstacle a definite program could not be acted upon, but the presence of all of you here has opened the way for a speedy meeting of the crisis that confronts us."

State Bonds Opposed.

It was Senator Barr on the senate floor who disclosed the latest modification in the jobless relief plan. Yesterday's proposal was admittedly a complicated one. It included provisions for state bonds and an increased state tax levy, and, although it was explained that both of these were of the "paper" variety since the actual funding was to be done with the shares of gas tax funds of the counties receiving relief, a rumble of protest among downstaters was audible immediately.

Overnight consideration developed the proposal that it might not be necessary to use state bonds, that Cook county bonds might be saleable if interest and principal were guaranteed by an act devoting to that purpose as much of the one county's share if gas tax receipts as becomes necessary from year to year. The lawyers said that an act could be passed to withhold from the distribution of the county's one cent of the three cent levy the amount required for the bond issue each year. The sum necessary would be held by the state treasurer and paid directly to the bondholders.

"I believe this system," said Senator Barr, "completely meets the objections to even a paper increase in the state tax rate and to pledging the credit of the state for county purposes."

Other Side of Picture.

In meeting some of the arguments that Cook county should use its own funds and not ask for any help from the state in caring for its stricken, the Joliet senator read a memorandum of relief appropriations of state funds for the last two decades, more than half of which came from taxes paid by Cook county although its people received none of the benefits.

The list by years follows:

1909—Cherry mine disaster	$ 100,000
Italian earthquake	10,000
1915—Royalton miners	26,000
1917—Same	8,800
Cyclone victims	275,000
1923—Cyclone victims	500,000
1927—Flood Relief	1,500,000
Same	250,000
Same	350,000
Cyclone victims	50,000
1929—Flood relief	219,229
Same	1,000,000
Same	600,000
Same	30,000
1931—Flood relief	550,000
Same	12,378
Same	20,000

It is said that throughout these years Chicago legislators always have supported these appropriations.

DRIVE STARTED FOR EMERGENCY RELIEF MONEY

Seek Cash to Operate Pending Legislation.

Collection of emergency funds to tide the relief stations of the Joint Emergency fund over until legislative action provides additional money was started yesterday. Hundreds of business and professional men who served as volunteer solicitors in raising the $10,500,000 fund were called back into action to try to secure advance payments on pledges and new gifts if possible.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

The last minute effort to avoid closing relief stations throughout the city next Monday was instituted by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the fund. Mr. Ryerson returned from Springfield yesterday, where he conferred with Gov. Emmerson and a group seeking legislative action to provide funds for the aid of the jobless and hungry in Chicago.

Hutchins and Dewey Aid.

Mr. Ryerson secured the coöperation of Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago and chairman of the special gifts division last fall, and Charles S. Dewey, head of the trades, industries, and professions division, for the new drive.

Wealthy contributors whose gifts were not to be paid until February or March and workers who had agreed to give one days' pay a month will be asked to send checks now if possible to bridge the gap between Feb. 1, when the relief stations must close for lack of money, and the time funds can be obtained from the hoped for appropriation by emergency legislation.

Mr. Hutchins and Mr. Dewey called their volunteer solicitors into action yesterday, requesting them to drop all personal business.

Called a Last Resort.

"It is the last resort," said Mr. Ryerson. "The most pressing relief needs are requiring $100,000 a day in cash, and the funds have been disbursed as fast as they have come in.

"To date there has been paid $6,546,000, but January's bills have not yet been paid and by Jan. 31 most of the available funds will have been disbursed even if we can collect it all in advance of the pledge requirements."

Bankers and investment brokers met in the office of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, with Mr. Ryerson and Attorneys Cyrus Adams and Henry E. Cutler, to discuss the financing of the proposed $20,000,000 relief. The meeting was held before the new method of raising funds was discussed in Springfield. Another meeting is to be held to consider the new plan.

STATE PAY CUTS, "USELESS" JOBS STIR LAWMAKERS

Governor, Judges Face Substantial Slice.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.] roll slashes consumed the time of the joint legislative retrenchment committee today and more subcommittees were named to study the subject further. One of the small groups was instructed to return with a recommendation for a 10 per cent cut for all pay rollers.

HAROLD KESSINGER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Several pay scaling plans were presented, ranging from an out and out 20 per cent reduction to a complicated scale running from 5 to 20 per cent.

Next Wednesday three sets of bills will be introduced; one to cut the governor and all other elected officers, another for the so-called "code" officials — the appointive department heads—and third for the assemblymen themselves.

May Cut Own Pay.

Last night the committee members voted their own pay be reduced from $3,500 to $3,000 for the biennium. Not much more was said about this today but if the sliding scale were adopted, the decrease would only amount to $250.

The first proposition made today was for adjournment until after the April primaries. This came from James T. Burns, Kankakee Democratic representative who has been a leader in the retrenchment plans. He said much more could be accomplished afterwards in the way of pay cuts and the abolition of "useless" offices if such a recess was taken.

Representative Sol P. Roderick [Rep., Chicago] put this suggestion.

"We'd be the biggest jokes in the state if we did that," objected Representative Arthur Roe [Dem., Vandalia].

"There's some men from Cook county who wouldn't come back if they did anything on this before the primaries," Roderick replied.

"I'm not afraid to go against the primary," said H. D. Sparks, Republican representative from Shelbyville.

"The people expect us to do something. This is no time to play to the galleries. Let's go right on down the road," he advised.

New Body Named.

On the suggestion of Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign], house chairman, a motion was passed for a subcommittee of five which will report back Tuesday night with the pay slash recommendations—not less than 10 per cent.

Mr. Sparks was the author of the scale reduction plan which calls for a cut of 5 per cent for pay rollers earning up to $225 per month, 10 per cent on $225 to $300, 15 per cent from $300 to $400, and 20 per cent for all those above $400.

This would reduce justices of the Supreme court from $15,000 to $12,555, the governor from $12,000 to $10,155, the elected state officers from $10,000 to $8,555, and others correspondingly.

HOLD UP TWO HOTELS.

Two gunmen robbed two south side hotels of $60 yesterday. They took $25 from Sam Allen, clerk in the Drexel Arms hotel at Oakwood and Drexel boulevards, and $35 from John Melford, clerk in the Plaisance hotel at 1545 East 60th street.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

COURT GRANTS LARGE TAX CUTS TO CAB COMPANY

Concern Earned $2.44 a Share in 1931.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Although the taxicab business is not so good as it was a year or so ago, the Yellow Cab company of Chicago reports that its earnings for the first nine months of last year were $2.44 a share for the outstanding stock.

This company filed a formal protest in the county court against the payment of taxes for 1929 on eleven pieces of real estate. These taxes were due last May 15, but the Yellow Cab company has not paid any part of its bill.

The city, county, schools and other local governments are hard pressed for cash. The schools alone are $24,147,000 behind in their pay rolls. Some concerns could pay their taxes but haven't. Although County Judge Jarecki has held the 1928 and 1929 taxes invalid, it is pointed out that all property owners eventually will be required to pay something. A bill is expected to be adopted by the state legislature which would permit property owners to obtain credit on tax bills of subsequent years, if they pay an excess on the taxes declared void.

Company's Cabs Listed.

The Yellow Cab company's earnings come from operating taxicabs in the streets. It has paid its license fees to the city. The city collector reports the number of cabs for which the company obtained licenses and the total fees paid for four years as follows:

Year.	No. of cabs.	Fees paid.
1932	2,092	$20,920
1931	2,225	22,250
1930	2,171	21,710
1929	2,106	21,060

It is a tedious task to find all of these cabs in the personal property tax books; but a number of the company's personal property holdings in 1929 have been disclosed. On all these holdings the company has paid its personal property taxes, after getting the Circuit court to reduce the assessment by 60 per cent.

Taxes on Personalty.

The general offices of the company are listed in the telephone directory as 57 East 21st street. At that address $34,000 worth of personal property was listed for taxation in 1928, and the company paid a tax thereon of $1,751. For 1929, the personal property was valued at the same figure, $34,000, but the company protested to the Circuit court, and that tribunal reduced the tax from $2,091 to $720, which the company has paid.

At 3226 North Halsted street, the company had personal property valued at $32,000 for both 1928 and 1929. For 1928 the company paid its taxes on that amount, totaling $1,706. The tax assessed for 1929 was $2,009, but the Circuit court reduced that to $675, which the company has paid.

The company paid $1,593 in taxes on $30,000 worth of personal property at 324 East Huron street in 1928. The taxes on this property for 1929 were $1,887, but were reduced to $675, which was paid.

Tax Reduced by Court.

On property at Chicago avenue and Keeney street, Evanston, the company paid $1,066 in taxes in 1928, but had the court reduce the taxes to $675 for 1929, which has been paid.

Personal property valued at $26,000 at 559 East 39th street paid taxes of $1,339 in 1928. For 1929 the assessors put down $20,000 worth of personal property at 3900 Vincennes avenue, with taxes of $1,599. These taxes were reduced by the Circuit court to $675, which has been paid.

On $40,000 worth of personal property at 640 West Fulton street the company paid $2,072 in personal taxes for 1928. At the same address the assessors put down the same valuation for 1929, and the taxes had risen to $2,412. But the Circuit court reduced the amount to $675, and the company paid this.

Still another Yellow Cab group of personal property was valued at $30,000 by the assessors for both 1928 and 1929. For 1928 the company paid $1,809 in taxes, but for 1929 only $675.

Wilmette Cuts Pay of All Employes Ten Per Cent

Salaries of the 75 village employés of Wilmette will be cut 10 per cent immediately, President Carbon P. Dubbs announced yesterday. The announcement followed a special meeting of the village trustees, at which means of reducing village expenses to conform with anticipated revenue were discussed. The pay cut, which saves $1,400 a month, will be in effect until April 30, the end of the fiscal year. The yearly budget must be trimmed by $100,000 at that time, President Dubbs said.

County Cuts Poor Farm Budget as Women on Board Object

A talking motion picture machine at $6,200, a $500 radio, a $12,000 elevator system, dish washing machines at $3,600, and other comparative luxuries requested for Oak Forest, the county's poor farm, were lopped from the 1932 budget by the finance committee of the county board yesterday.

Supt. Frank Venecek asked for an appropriation of $1,252,093 in comparison with the $926,380 spent last year. The commissioners, in a preliminary survey, cut $207,950 from the superintendent's estimates and indicated that more drastic slashes would be made.

Women Commissioners Protest.

The four women commissioners protested against these cuts and forced roll calls on various items. The other commissioners charged the roll calls caused delay, and heated discussions ensued.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing these plans for more money," said Commissioner William Busse. "We might like to house the poor people as if they were in a palatial hotel. But where are we going to get the money? Remember, after all, that it's a poor house."

The question of allotting $800 for 45 new table tops came up.

"They're lucky to have a table to eat off," commented Commissioner Peter M. Kelly.

"That's a terrible thing to say," said Mrs. Edward J. Fleming.

Plea for Reduced Expenses.

"Can't we remember that we're just like a family that has had its income reduced?" protested Commissioner George A. Miller. "Thousands are accustoming themselves to get along without luxuries. Those in the care of the county are no different than others. We just can't afford anything but the bare necessities."

"Yes, this is no time for the county to take on new activities or buy new items," Maurice A. Kavanaugh, committee chairman, told the women commissioners.

The women commissioners, however, continued to urge the inclusion of such items as the $6,200 talkie machine, radio, a $60,000 addition to the institution, an elevator system, new barber chairs, and repairs costing approximately $50,000.

"They can get along this year without any of those improvements," was the agreement of the men commissioners, who voted down the women members.

Nursing School Inquiry.

Commissioner Charles H. Weber reported that he is proceeding with his investigation of expenditures for expensive furniture and table linens at the Cook County School of Nursing, 509 South Honore street.

"Maybe we ought to buy some $75 tablecloths for Oak Forest," he commented. "The commissioners will have a treat in store for them when they come to setting a budget for the nursing school. That's where I intend to insist upon some slashing that will be very painful."

Records at the nursing school, which receives approximately $100,000 a month of county funds under a contract, have shown that $75 lace tablecloths and other articles of high priced furniture have been purchased for the living quarters of Miss Laura R. Logan, dean of nurses.

Night sessions on the budget in addition to the day sessions will be held in the future, it was announced. The budget must be in shape by Feb. 7 as the county controller, under the law, must have copies ready for public scrutiny by Feb. 10. The budget must be adopted by the county board by Feb. 29.

AURORA REOPENS TRADE; $750,000 PLACED IN BANKS

Celebration Ends Business Moratorium.

To the accompaniment of a marching band, automobile sirens, factory whistles and air bombs, Aurora resumed general business operations yesterday at the end of a five-day moratorium.

The business respite proved unusually effective. For one thing it loosened hoarded money, officials said. Yesterday afternoon, at the close of banking business, Aurora's five banks reported that $750,000 in excess of withdrawals had been deposited, and that many new accounts had been opened. Financiers considered this an encouraging showing for a city of 50,000 population.

Sees Confidence Restored.

"This means," said William M. Willett Sr., head of the business group which sponsored the respite program, "that people took their money out of hiding places, store tills, deposit boxes, and old crocks at home. Confidence has been restored."

Aurora went on its moratorium five days ago on proclamation of Mayor Conrad Bjorseth. All business enterprises but food, fuel, drug and utilities were closed during that period. At 9 a. m. yesterday when the respite ended, stores and banks were thronged and an impromptu celebration with the band took place in the downtown district.

"The moratorium was a howling success," said Mayor Bjorseth last night. "Aurora citizens deserve thanks for their effective coöperation."

Other Cities Interested.

The mayor received inquiries from all parts of the country asking for details of his program. Incidentally, Aurora was the third Illinois city to adopt a business respite, the others having been Urbana and Mendota. Following Aurora's example, Neoga, Ill., a town of 1,200, yesterday began a three day moratorium on proclamation of Mayor R. L. Shaffer.

One of the features of the Aurora plan was the sending of cards to the city's 14,100 bank depositors, pledging them to refrain from withdrawing funds except for necessity. Out of that number 13,800 pledged to keep their savings intact and, if possible, to add to them.

DIRECT FEDERAL AID TO JOBLESS DEMAND OF LABOR PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Direct relief from the federal government is the only adequate means for caring for the nation's unemployed in 1932, according to a statement today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in which he declared all other relief agencies have failed.

Mr. Green estimated that the number of unemployed in 1932 will average somewhere between 6 and 7 millions. On Jan. 1, he declared, the army of jobless totaled 8,300,000. The cost of feeding, clothing, and housing the unemployed at bare subsistence levels in the coming year, he asserted, will total between $3,500,000,000 and $5,700,000,000.

"Only one agency," he stated, "can meet the relief problem, now that all other resources have been proved inadequate—the federal government. By taxation, it can distribute the burden of this year where it can be borne with least injury to our citizenship.

"Already we are hearing from bankrupt cities and towns reports of unprecedented suffering they cannot meet," Mr. Green continued. "Community chests, after a valiant effort to collect funds from private sources, report their funds inadequate. Isolated industrial sections outside cities have no resources outside their industry to cope with their problem."

Lincoln Park Cuts Pay of All Except Laborers

The commissioners of Lincoln Park yesterday voted a 10 per cent reduction in the salaries of all employés except laborers earning less than $150 a month. The cut is to become effective Feb. 1.

SHARE CONCERN'S WARRANT OFFER LEFT UP IN AIR

City Hopes Banks May Decide to Buy.

Because they hope the reorganization of the Cook county assessment offices may impel bankers to resume the purchases of tax warrants which were stopped a year ago, members of the city council finance committee yesterday left the Associated Bond and Share corporation figuratively "sitting on the step" with its offer to buy $20,000,000 worth of city warrants.

ALD. JOHN S. CLARK.

The finance committee accepted the report of a subcommittee which, after an investigation of the Associated Bond and Share concern and its offer, recommended that action be deferred pending further negotiations with banks for tax warrant sales.

The bond and share company offered to buy $20,000,000 worth of 1930 city warrants, paying half cash and half in 1931 school board warrants. The school paper, Andrew T. Greeley, president of the concern, told the subcommittee, would be obtained by buying up school board scrip and exchanging it with the board for warrants. The school board has never authorized such an exchange, although it has been suggested.

Might Affect City Credit.

"The subcommittee fears," said Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of that body and th finance committee, "that the proposal might affect the city credit in the future. There is no guarantee that the warrants would not get into the hands of the public and be sold at a discount at the very time that the city would be attempting to market tax warrants to banks at par.

"The warrants which the company proposes to buy are the same which a citizens' committee headed by D. F. Kelly is selling to large taxpayers, and this deal might interfere with the citizens' committee's work. Further, the subcommittee believes that no serious trouble will be encountered in selling 1930 tax warrants to banks. We understood that if the tax machinery was reorganized it would aid materially in reëstablishing the city's credit."

Committee Has No Guarantee.

Other objections cited against the bond and share concern by Ald. Clark were that the council has no guarantee that the company would not buy $1,000,000 worth of warrants and then quit; that the subcommittee was given no "solid information" that the company has $10,000,000 worth of scrip (there is not that much outstanding), or that the school board would trade warrants for scrip; and that the committee had nothing but verbal assurances that the company did not intend to buy scrip from teachers at a discount.

Mr. Greeley said that the company officials would have to "think it over" before stating whether their offer to the city is still open. They sent the city a letter Monday stating that they must have a definite answer Tuesday or withdraw the proposal.

Pay for School Employés.

Employés in the downtown offices of the board of education got pay checks yesterday for the last half of October. Checks for teachers and other employés in schools were mailed last night to principals and department heads, and will be distributed today.

The city treasury provided the money, through the purchase of $2,500,000 worth of school tax warrants ordered Tuesday by Mayor Cermak. As a result of a protest by evening school teachers that they have had no pay since April 4, 1931, having been neglected in the distribution of two weeks pay provided by the city for school employées, arrangements will be made to pay all of these teachers who have not had pay checks for their work in the day schools.

Night Teachers Get Pay.

In October, when the night schools were opened for the school year, there were 1,023 teachers in 22 schools. Sixteen of these schools have been closed since as an economy measure. Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board, told Controller Szymczak, to whom the unpaid night school teachers directed their protest, that 75 per cent of them also teach during the day. A pay roll will be made up for those who teach at night only, and arrangements made to meet it.

"One can hardly realize the great amount of good this pay will do," Superintendent of Schools Bogan said yesterday of the general pay day. "The teachers are breaking rapidly. They had gotten along fairly well until the last few weeks. This morning I received twenty letters from teachers in destitute circumstances asking that something be done to help them. I have been receiving more and more of this type of letter each day. This money will renew hope and help the teachers carry on."

BRILLIANT CHIEF OF BROOKLYN HOSPITAL MAKES SUICIDE SURE

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The mystery of the disappearance of Dr. Clamor H. Magna, the brilliant young superintendent of the Kings County hospital in Brooklyn, was solved this afternoon when news was received that he had killed himself, with extraordinary precautions, in the bathroom of the Rockingham house in Portsmouth, N. H.

Unquestionably deranged from the effects of overwork—definite symptoms having been observed by his associates—Dr. Magna, who was 37 years old, turned on the gas in his room, slashed the arteries of both wrists, and shot himself through the brain.

Last seen at the hospital on Monday afternoon, Dr. Magna registered at the Rockingham house late last night, giving his father's Brooklyn address, and under his own name. Identification was further established by papers found in his pocket.

He left no note to account for his act. The body was found today by a chambermaid.

SEEK DIVERSION OF AUTO TAX TO CLEAN STREETS

The city council finance committee yesterday approved a bill to be submitted to the legislature, permitting the city to use vehicle tax funds, for the year 1932 only, for cleaning streets and alleys. The measure was suggested by Ald. James B. Waller [43d] as a means of relieving unemployment.

The bill was approved subject to an opinion by the corporation counsel that it will not invalidate the vehicle tax law, which at present provides that wheel tax receipts shall be used solely for paving and repairs of streets and alleys. The Association of Commerce and the Chicago Motor club have sought in the past to have a larger portion of the fund used for this work, asserting that too much of the wheel tax money is now consumed by overhead charges. They are expected to oppose diversion of the fund to street cleaning uses.

An Economist Discusses Moves for Stabilization.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

World conditions today offer a chance for cautious experiment on methods of stabilizing currency systems, and some country off the gold standard would be a good laboratory in which to make the tests, Jacob Viner, professor of economics, the University of Chicago, said last night in an address on "International Aspects of the Gold Standard." He spoke at the opening session of the Norman Wait Harris Memorial foundation, which opened its four days' institute on "Gold and Monetary Stabilization" with more than a hundred economists and bankers in attendance at Mandel hall.

Prof. Viner dwelt on various theories for stabilized currency, such as the "India rubber dollar," greenbackism, and paper currency based on commodity prices and purchasing power, and remarked that the main trouble is that "stabilization requires stabilizers, and these must be either central bankers or ministers of finance."

Too Little Is Known.

"We know too little," said Prof. Viner, "of the possibilities of stabilization to take any major steps in that direction. The hostility of central bankers and the menace of political control are genuine and important factors in the situation.

"The gold standard is a wretched standard, but it may conceivably be the best available to us. But we won't know the possibilities of alternative currency systems until we try them, and both the prevailing atmospheres and prevailing conditions are favorable to cautious experimentation.

"We could soon learn a great deal more than is known of the possibilities of comprehensive stabilization if some country now off the gold standard were to attempt by credit control or otherwise to raise its price level and then to regulate the volume of bank credit so as to maintain a constant level in some significant index of prices.

Cites Large Gold Reserve.

"As far as concerns the United States, our gold reserves are still so far in excess of our minimum needs on the basis of the present level of prices and of business activity that we can go sufficiently far in experimenting with the possibilities of stabilization without imperiling our continued adherence to the gold standard.

"Such an experiment would require coöperation by the federal government and the federal reserve system in formulating objectives, making them known to the public and making unquestionable their determination to carry out all the steps—whether expansionist or contractionist—necessary to attain those objectives."

Prof. Viner pointed out that the prewar English gold standard was a managed standard and required "constant management and unremitting attention" to keep it a gold standard.

Two Countries Get Gold.

"The greatest source of damage to, and from, the gold standard," he said, "was the acquisition by the United States and France of over 70 per cent of the world's monetary stock of gold, and the failure of other countries to make any substantial inroads on these accumulations, or even to retain what gold was still left to them."

He cited factors operating to prevent equalizations of gold supply among them the tariff, the orgy of stock speculation, and the increase in call money rates which drew funds to this country."

PEG: Imagine it! A nice girl like Anne wearing her underthings a second day.
FRAN: And she's so dainty in other ways...
PEG: Of course, she's awfully busy—
FRAN: But our way is so quick and easy! It just floats out the perspiration acids and odors... why doesn't she Protect daintiness this simple 4-minute way:
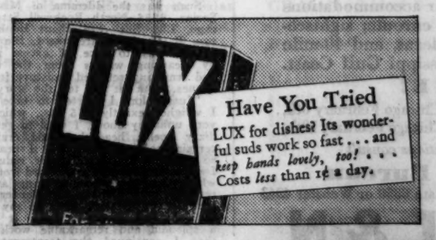
All day long underthings absorb perspiration. To avoid offending, dainty women wash them in Lux after every wearing. Lux is especially made to remove perspiration acids and odors completely, yet to protect colors and fabrics. And it takes only 4 minutes, or less!
Wash this 4-minute way:
1. One tablespoon of Lux does all one day's underthings—stockings, too.
2. Squeeze suds through garment, rinse twice, shake out.
Wash after each wearing for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot the threads. With Lux it takes only a few minutes—less time than it takes to wash your face and hands.
Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Lux removes perspiration acids and odors completely—yet leaves colors like new. If it's safe in water alone, it's just as safe in Lux.
Don't use too-warm water. Lux gives instant suds in lukewarm water, won't fade colors or shrink fabrics.



LUX for underthings keeps them like new... in spite of frequent washing

WRIGLEY PLANTS IN MANY LANDS TO CLOSE TODAY

Funeral Services Will Be This Afternoon.

The world-wide manufacturing enterprises of William Wrigley Jr. will suspend operations for half a day, beginning at noon today, as funeral services for the Chicago financier and sportsman are held in Pasadena, Cal.

Orders were issued from the main offices of the William Wrigley Jr. company, 400 North Michigan avenue, yesterday for the closing of all production plants. The plants are situated at 3535 South Ashland avenue, Chicago; in New York, Toronto, London, Frankfort-on-Main, and Sydney, Australia. The main offices will also be closed, effecting a total of 1,850 employés.

Members of Mr. Wrigley's family left with the body last night from Phoenix, Ariz., where he died early Tuesday, for Pasadena, where a simple funeral service will be held in All Saints' Episcopal church at 2 o'clock this afternoon [Pacific standard time].

Memorial Services in City.

Simultaneously at 4 p. m. [central standard time] a memorial service will be held in St. Chrysostom's church, 1416 North Dearborn street, of which Mr. Wrigley was a member. The eulogy will be given by Dr. John C. Evans, associate rector. Admission will be limited to employés and close friends of Mr. Wrigley.

Following the Pasadena service the body will be placed in a vault, there to remain until the family has chosen a site for his mausoleum, probably at the foot of Mount Ada, his favorite residence, which is situated on Catalina island, off the southern California coast.

The hotel, dance pavilion, and other recreation places which Mr. Wrigley erected on the island since he purchased it in 1919 will be closed during the funeral. The famous Wrigley chimes on the island will toll a dirge.

When the mausoleum is completed late next summer dedication services will be held to enable Mr. Wrigley's host of friends in the fields of finance and sports to pay him the final tribute which his unexpected death and the distance from here to Phoenix denied them at the present time.

Son to Head Ball Clubs.

Confirming reports from Phoenix, James R. Offield, son-in-law of Mr. Wrigley, announced here yesterday that the capitalist's son, Philip K. Wrigley, would assume his father's place as head of the Chicago Cubs baseball team and the Los Angeles team, while continuing as president of the William Wrigley Jr. company, which post he has held for a number of years.

The Wrigley will, disposing of a fortune estimated at more than $30,000,000, will be filed in Cook county Probate court, Mr. Offield announced. Although Mr. Wrigley maintained homes in Pasadena, Catalina island, Phoenix and Lake Geneva, Wis., his legal residence was at 1500 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, Mr. Offield said.

Real Work at 20 Is Training of P. K. Wrigley for His Job

"An earnest young man of democratic disposition, devoted to his family, keenly interested in sports, possessing marked talent in mechanics and always attentive to business."

His acquaintances thus describe Philip K. Wrigley, who, at the age of 36, becomes master of one of the great fortunes in Chicago and head of the vast enterprises created by his father, the late William Wrigley Jr., including the world-wide Wrigley chewing gum interests, extensive real estate developments in the southwest and Catalina island, and two baseball clubs, the Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Angels.

Phil Wrigley has already qualified for the task ahead, his associates believe. Born in Chicago on Dec. 5, 1895, when William Wrigley was just beginning his career here, the son enjoyed all of the advantages and escaped some of the disadvantages accruing to a rich man's son. He had no time for being a playboy.

Goes to Work When 20.

Young Wrigley went to the public schools and to Phillips academy at Andover, Mass., whence his father sent him off to Melbourne, Australia, as a youth of 20 years to learn the selling side of the chewing gum business as a branch manager for Wrigley, Australasia, Ltd. With this practical experience he returned home and was completing a course in chemical engineering at the University of Chicago when the United States entered the war.

Already in training with the officers' reserve corps at Fort Sheridan, Wrigley entered the navy and in that service showed such knowledge of mechanics that he was commissioned a lieutenant. Before the war closed he was superintendent of the school of aviation mechanics at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, with 2,000 men under his instruction.

During his naval service he married Miss Helen Blanche Atwater of Garden City, N. Y., and upon his discharge reëntered his father's business as vice president of the William Wrigley Jr. company. Seven years later, a few months after his 29th birthday, he was elected president to succeed his father.

"Fearful of Pull."

"I don't know whether I'm altogether satisfied," the new president said at the time. "I'm not so sure I am succeeding on my own merits. I have a fear that pull and the fact that I am my father's son had most to do with my election. There'll be a title, of course, but my work will be much the same—with perhaps a little more of it."

With his business success assured, Phil Wrigley found time to develop his avocations. He purchased the famous yacht, Speejacks, and several other sailing craft. He acquired a farm adjoining his father's country place near Lake Geneva, Wis., and built a mansion for his family on a Catalina island slope facing his father's favorite residence, Mount Ada.

On the island place he has bred wild Texas horses and at Lake Geneva he has a stable of pure Arabians. Mr. Wrigley is considered an expert horseman and his children, Ada Blanche and Dorothy, are skilled in the saddle. Wherever he is called, by business or pleasure, his family goes with Philip Wrigley.

BIDS RECEIVED FOR $1,733,290 OF HIGHWAY WORK

18 Paving and Bridge Projects Included.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Apparently satisfactory bids were received by state highway officials here today for 18 road and bridge construction projects that total $1,733,290.90, including the cost of cement to be furnished by the state department of public works and buildings.

FRANK T. SHEETS.

Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer, summarized the work included in the 18 sections as follows:

Paving, 43.91 miles, of which 1.37 miles will be 40 feet in width; 11.90 miles of 20 foot pavement; 26.58 miles of 18 foot pavement and 4.08 miles to be widened to 40 feet. Bids were also opened for 20.94 miles of grading and for five bridge sections, including the steel superstructure for the proposed viaduct, on the Chicago outer belt, state highway 46, to span the Des Plaines river and the railroad lines of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and the Chicago & Illinois Western, northwest of Justice. The apparent low bids on this superstructure, $286,328.15, was entered by McClintic-Marshall corporation of Chicago.

Subject to final checking, the low bids on the various projects in northern Illinois are as follows:

Route 4A, section Dy-B, retaining walls, and widening existing arch bridge south of Lockport, Will county; John C. Paskins, Chicago, $15,001.10.

Route 5, section 6S, 0.33 miles of paving near Ontarioville, Cook, and Du Page counties; Charles E. Giertz & Son of Elgin, $46,778.70.

Route 21, section H-R, 1.04 miles of paving in Niles, Cook county; Jacks Brothers of Chicago, $66,050.93.

Route 42A, section Cy, 4.08 miles of paving and pavement widening from Everett to a point west of Lake Bluff, in Lake county; S. J. Groves and Sons company, Libertyville, $196,208.21.

Route 46, section 462V-C, a superstructure for a bridge over the Des Plaines river, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, and the Chicago and Illinois Western railroad, northwest of Justice, Cook county; McClintic-Marshall corporation, Chicago, $286,328.15.

Route 52, section 522, 2.70 miles of paving from a point northwest to a point southeast of Harvey, in Cook county; George S. Anderson company, Harvey, $99,725.58.

Route 53, section 532, 6.94 miles of paving between route 5 and 58, northwest of Itasca, in Cook and Du Page counties; Peter J. Crowley company of Maywood, $195,992.03.

Route 62, section 117, 2.26 miles of paving from Des Plaines southeast in Cook county; Milburn Brothers, Inc., Mount Prospect, Ill., $97,698.31.

WIFE DIVORCES HUGH R. WILSON OF LAKE FOREST

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady granted a divorce yesterday at Waukegan to Mrs. Marjorie Allen Wilson, 460 North Washington road, Lake Forest, who charged Hugh R. Wilson with desertion. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen, 1448 State parkway. Mr. Allen is head of a wholesale jewelry concern.

Her wedding to Wilson in 1926, at St. Chrysostom's church, was one of the events of the social season. He is a son of the late Oliver T. Wilson, one of the founders of the sporting goods company bearing the family name, and a nephew of Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland.

Mrs. Wilson and her mother testified briefly to the charge of desertion, stating that her husband left her Dec. 5, 1930. She was awarded custody of her son, Benjamin, 14 months old. Mrs. Wilson asked no alimony.

Goes to Aid Chef Who Cut Off Finger; Breaks Hip

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. L. E. Branson, manager of a restaurant, rushed to the aid of Elmer Loricks, chef, who had just chopped off one of his fingers in cutting meat. She slipped and suffered a broken hip.

CRIME LABORATORY TO GIVE COURSE FOR POLICE APPLICANTS

A course in police training, unique in the curricula of universities, will begin on Feb. 29 at the scientific crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university, 469 East Ohio street, it was announced yesterday by Calvin Goddard, director. The course will offer instruction to candidates for appointment to the police department in Chicago and other cities.

Members of the teaching staff will come from Northwestern university and the University of Chicago, the Chicago police department, the department of justice, treasury department and various bureaus of the state. The program has been approved by Police Commissioner Allman of Chicago and Bruce Smith of the Institute of Police Administration, New York City.

A second course will start on April 4, and will be concluded on April 30. It will duplicate the one given last year, according to Director Goddard, of which the Wickersham commission in its report on police said: "Scientific to the last degree, it is establishing a precedent for which there is no equal in this country at the present time."

CALL 17 MORE FOR WARNING ON CITY SMOKE LAW

Seventeen buildings were listed yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, as contributing to the city's smoke pall. Representatives of the building owners or occupants have been summoned to appear today at Chambers' office for a warning. Those summoned:

United States postoffice garage, 2930 South Wells street.
H. G. Grey, 55 Wacker drive.

J. Tomose, 4307 North Paulina street.
J. Rewers, 8753 Manistee avenue.
C. F. Campe, 5564 West Gladys avenue.

If a violation is noted by smoke observers within thirty days after attendance at the daily hearings suit is started in the Municipal court under the city's smoke abatement ordinance.

HELD AS HOUSEBOAT RUMMERS.

Fred Bender and Dan Reese, alleged operators of a houseboat speakeasy in the north branch of the Chicago river, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,500 each by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday.

POLICE CALLED, FIST FIGHTS AT MINERS' MEETING

Old War on Lewis Starts It at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The old factional fight that resulted in a rump convention and court litigation in 1930 flared again here today at the thirty-second biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

JOHN L. LEWIS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Insurgent delegates from Illinois submitted numerous resolutions seeking to curtail the powers of International President John L. Lewis, abolishing the international executive board, reducing salaries and curtailing the traveling auditors and international organizers.

Ejected from the Hall.

The resolutions were a definite attempt by the Illinois group to wrest control of the union from Lewis.

The disorders reached a climax when John Hindmarsh, delegate from Riverton, Ill., was ejected for refusing to yield the floor during a bitter criticism of Lewis and his associates for not adopting a more aggressive policy toward nonunion miners in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

When ruled out of order by the presiding officer, Hindmarsh refused to take his seat, and as the sergeant at arms started to lead him from the hall companions came to his aid. Fist fights started and the police were called to restore order.

Adopt 5 Day Week.

The convention this evening approved the six hour day five day week proposal to lessen unemployment and creation of a federal coal commission to govern the industry. Illinois insurgents received an explanation from Lewis regarding reported omission of Illinois from the list of states sharing the national government's $50,000,000 mining community unemployment relief. The convention then approved Lewis' relief efforts.

The auditor's report for the year ending Dec. 1 listed total income of the international union as $1,018,554; total expenditures as $1,065,991; balance on hand Dec. 1, $563,559, and loans to union districts, $292,304. The heaviest loans to district unions were $56,419 made to provisional District 12 in Illinois and $119,600 in District 23 in Kentucky.

LAY SUICIDE TO INSANITY.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of Thomas Moorhead, 40 years old, who hanged himself Tuesday in the Lincoln Park Arms hotel, 2738 Pine Grove avenue, shortly after arriving in Chicago from Lewiston, Pa., to seek work.

NOTHING weakens a child like a night of coughing. For every mother knows a child requires sleep and plenty of it. At the first sign of a cough, give your boy or girl good old Piso's for Coughs. Insure a good sound night's sleep for your child and yourself.

For Piso's is especially good for night coughing. It clings to the throat better than a spray or gargle and soothes the inflamed tissues. This checks the cough spasm and opens the air passages. Because of its internal effect nothing stops a night cough as quickly and surely as Piso's. Safe to give even to babies—contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. All druggists sell Piso's.

LOST! 22 Lbs. Of FAT In 3 Weeks

Well Known Chicago Woman Jubilant—Regains Health and Vivaciousness. Feels, Oh, So Light and Full of Pep.

Suppose you were way overweight for your height—155 lbs.—and every time you looked in a mirror it showed you with a double chin, heavy arms and legs, large hips and bust.

And suppose this over-fat condition made you too heavy for your own feet—until you felt constantly all dragged out, very nervous and irritable.

And then you tried one thing after another—and you're all ready to give up in despair.

Such was the dilemma of Miss Louise Serina, 6256 North Rockwell Street, Chicago, Ill. She read about Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, the one safe natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. But let her tell the story:

"Just before I started to take Bonkora I weighed exactly 155 lbs., which I was very unhappy about, I used to get terrible dizzy spells, headaches and craving for certain foods at all times. I heard about so many other remedies for reducing but I never tried them for I heard from friends which they were not reducing at all. I read an article about the wonderful Bonkora treatment, and made up my mind to try just one bottle for fun. It did such a splendid and remarkable work for me that I continued the treatment. In 3 short weeks I lost twenty lbs., or a pound a day. Now I only weigh 135 lbs., and feel so much lighter, healthier and full of pep. I sure owe it all to Bonkora and recommend it to anybody who wants to lose excess weight."

You may not lose 20 pounds in three weeks. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages" as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. Go light on fatty meats and starchy foods. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes showing you how to select the correct combination of foods you probably like best, furnished free.

Bonkora, the safe and effective method to reduce—recently perfected by a skilled chemist—contains only the choicest and most efficacious medicaments of Nature. NO thyroid or other drug that may jeopardize your health.

Simply get a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, with free list of anti-fat food combinations at Walgreen's today—unhealthy fat will quickly disappear and with it bloat, gas, and other stomach ills. You'll feel younger; yes, you'll look younger with those bright eyes and that clear skin and stunning, youthful figure which only perfect health can impart.

Big bottle of Bonkora only 98c at all good druggists, such as Walgreen's.

BAKER'S LEAGUE STAND SEEN AS CANDIDACY AID

Roosevelt, Smith Silent on Statement.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Newton D. Baker's declaration that the league of nations is not a political issue and that it should have no part in the coming presidential campaign—a statement generally conceded to have removed the chief obstacle to his eligibility for the Democratic presidential nomination—met today with wide acclaim.

NEWTON D. BAKER. [Acme Photo.]

Although Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose chief opponent for the nomination Mr. Baker may become, would not comment on the Baker declaration, it was indorsed by several prominent Democrats, among them Col. E. M. House, and by supporters of the league, including Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, a Republican.

Smith May Aid Him.

Former Gov. Al Smith, whose faction, it is thought, may support Baker for the nomination, declined to discuss the Baker statement. It was said in some quarters that if the former governor decided not to allow his name to go before the Democratic convention, his support and that of his followers would be thrown to Mr. Baker.

"I believe that one of the greatest drawbacks to the peace of the world was the refusal of the United States to join the league of nations at the beginning," said Col. House. "However, I agree entirely with Mr. Baker's statement."

A few days ago Col. House said that "Governor Roosevelt is more available at this time as a candidate than Newton D. Baker." He declined today to discuss this utterance.

Polk Indorses Stand.

Another prominent Democrat to indorse the Baker statement was Frank L. Polk, undersecretary of state in the Wilson administration. John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924, also voiced his entire agreement with Mr. Baker's stand.

"As is usual when Mr. Baker makes a statement on public affairs, I find myself in agreement with him," said Dr. Butler. "No international policy is or can possibly be effective, or even helpful, if it is the outgrowth of internal party differences and dissensions. To be constructive and to endure it must have behind it a great body of public opinion regardless of party."

IN HOSPITAL

MARIE PREVOST.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Marie Prevost, screen actress, was in a hospital here today in an effort to get back the figure she had when she became famous as a film bathing beauty. She said she will be on a liquid diet for two or three weeks, and denied reports that the effects of a too stringent diet had placed her in the hospital.

"It is my ambition to get back to 122 pounds," she said.

At the present time, Miss Prevost weighs 142 pounds. She said she had lost ten pounds since she started reducing. She said she decided to enter the hospital so that she might have every care and not endanger her health.

NEW A. OF C. HEAD VOWS TO PRESS WAR ON CRIME

George W. Rossetter was inaugurated as president of the Chicago Association of Commerce at a meeting of the association in the Hotel La Salle yesterday noon. On assuming leadership of the association Mr. Rossetter declared the organization's fight against crime and corruption would be carried on relentlessly.

In his inaugural address the new president announced that Col. Robert Isham Randolph would continue as head of the "Secret Six" crime fighting unit of the association. Mr. Rossetter succeeded Col. Randolph as president.

Mr. Rossetter pledged the coöperation of the association in cleaning up the financial difficulties of local governments before the Republican and Democratic national conventions next June. He also attacked waste in the national, state, county, and city governments.

"Even though crime is on the run," he said, "we must exercise continued vigilance to prevent any recurrence of this sinister influence. This summer, when the political leaders of the country meet here and again in 1933 during the Century of Progress, Chicago will attract the attention of the world and will teem with visitors from the four corners of the earth. Our honor and our reputation will be at stake. Our house must be in order.

Mr. Rossetter revealed that the new cabinet of the association is studying a plan to aid business in the community. Development of the plan is to be pressed so that it may be evolved before the conventions meet.

PINCHOT CALLS FARM BOARD A "COSTLY LEMON"

The federal farm board is one of the champion fiascoes in governmental history in the opinion of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. He passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Minneapolis where he is to deliver an address on the problems of agriculture. For a few hours here he was the guest of Harold L. Ickes, one of his political friends since the days of the Bull Moose in 1912. Gov. Pinchot, who has been listed among the Republicans who advocate that the Republican national convention in June throw into the discard the old habit of renominating a President for a second term, was silent on politics. He declined to discuss the political situation, but on farm relief he was vocative.

"The federal farm board is a costly lemon," said Gov. Pinchot. "The farmers never wanted the farm board, they never asked for it. What has been done to the farmers over and over again is to give them what somebody else thought would be good for them, not what they asked for.

"I think it is high time that people who know first hand the farmers' troubles should have something to say about how to meet them. What we want is a farm remedy for farm troubles, and not a prescription from a city drug store.

"One of the evils of the farm board has been the tendency to freeze out old line farmer coöperatives, which have been established for years. The federal farm marketing act was intended to aid farmers' coöperatives, but in many instances it has had exactly the opposite effect."

SENATOR DAVIS WINS SUPPORT OF WILLIAM S. VARE

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—U. S. Senator James J. Davis heads a ticket, now virtually completed, which is to be supported at the April primary by the Republican state organization and the Philadelphia organization headed by William S. Vare.

Republican ward leaders summoned today to the office of City Chairman James M. Haslett were informed that Senator Davis had agreed to seek renomination on a "wringing wet" plank and therefore had won the support of Mr. Vare and his associates, who had been casting about for a candidate with definite anti-prohibition views.

The agreement put an end to the boom for State Senator John J. McClure, Republican leader of Delaware county, who had been advanced for the Washington post after previous repeated efforts had failed to dislodge Senator Davis from the dry side of the prohibition issue.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. We find artists, doctors, theatrical producers (and husbands!) all agreed upon this point. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way.

"I have inquired of my dressmaker my measurements which in August last were Bust 40, hips 43½, waist 33½ inches which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs.) S. R., London, England.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last 4 weeks costs but a trifle—take as directed every morning. When the jar is empty get on the scales and see how many pounds you have lost. Attention to diet will help—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes.

But remember this: to take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why money back.

PREDICT HORNER WILL HEAD SLATE FOR DEMOCRATS

Expected to Be Committee Choice for Governor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court, according to yesterday's gossip among the Democrats, is likely to be slated for the Democratic nomination for governor when the state committee takes up ticket making tomorrow. Word from downstate yesterday was that lawyers in many quarters are urging the selection of Judge Horner, whose services for 18 years in the Probate court has made him well known among the bar. At the same time the local chiefs said most of the Chicago ward leaders are lining up for him without solicitation.

Other Cook county candidates before the committee are Clayton F. Smith, county recorder and managing chairman; Francis X. Busch, former corporation council, and Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and minority leader at Springfield. Bruce Campbell of Belleville and East St. Louis has been a candidate since last summer.

Igoe to Stay in Race.

Mr. Igoe, whose boom was launched in June, toward the close of the regular legislative session, declares he will remain in the race, and the prospects are for a fight at the primaries. The gossips yesterday were wondering whether the supporters of Igoe, in case of a battle over the governorship, would also put a county slate into the primaries.

Edward J. Barrett, now state treasurer, who is said to have landed the nomination two years ago at a campaign expenditure of less than $150, is expected to be on the slate for state auditor. Senator Thomas J. Courtney, minority leader, was yesterday's guess for attorney general, a place for which he ran before.

Street talk among the Jacksonians was that Judge John P. McGoorty is the present favorite of the Democratic county slate making committee for the nomination for state's attorney. Judge McGoorty and Judge Michael L. McKinley were reported the two leading candidates at present. Several more days are expected to elapse before the slate is finished.

Oppose Coalition on Judges.

One matter on which the Democrats appear almost unanimous is that they will not consider coalition with the Republicans on the Barnes and Isaacs vacancies on the Superior bench. At Springfield the report has been that the Emmerson-Harding group has been insisting that there be fusion and that it has been intimated no special election would be called unless such an agreement were forthcoming. The Democratic view is that the judgeships are new places—not a matter of reëlecting sitting judges of good record, which has been the purpose of past coalitions—and that fusion on the two vacancies would simply mean the party bosses would pick two judges and the voters would have little voice.

The Harding-Crowe "harmonizers" have put up Ald. Oscar Nelson, who used to be floor leader of the old city hall machine, for one of the judgeships.

State's Attorney Swanson is preparing an announcement of his candidacy for reëlection; Judge Michael Feinberg is expected to make a formal avowal within a week, and yesterday Judge John H. Lyle sent a letter to County Chairman B. W. Snow urging that the county committee should not make any indorsements on state's attorney.

Fly Gave Him 5 Diseases, Ex-Soldier Says, and Sues

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Damages of $8,625 were asked in a federal court suit filed here today by William M. Petry of Boone county, a world war veteran, who claimed that as the result of having been bitten by a tsetse fly while serving in the army he suffered five diseases. He is suing to collect on a war risk insurance policy. The diseases listed in the suit, which claims total and permanent disability, are encephalitis lethargica, rheumatoid arthritis, carcinoma, tonsilitis, and dermatitis. Petry enlisted at Charleston on Sept. 6, 1918.

GOV. ROOSEVELT WINS VERMONT INDORSEMENT

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was indorsed almost unanimously by the Vermont Democratic state committee in caucus here today.

The committee also decided to hold a state convention in Burlington on May 18 for election of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

The swing in sentiment to Roosevelt among Vermont Democrats who for years have been stanch Smith supporters was explained by many leading Democrats as due to a conviction Smith would not be a candidate.

It was said unofficially after the meeting that only one member opposed indorsement of Roosevelt and that Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland was a popular second choice.

There's a NEW POWER PEAK in the Low-Price Field

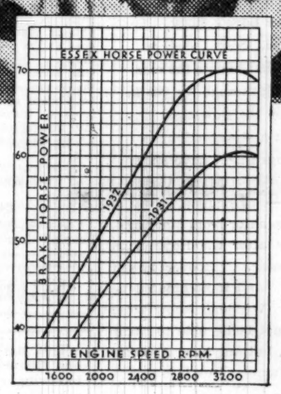
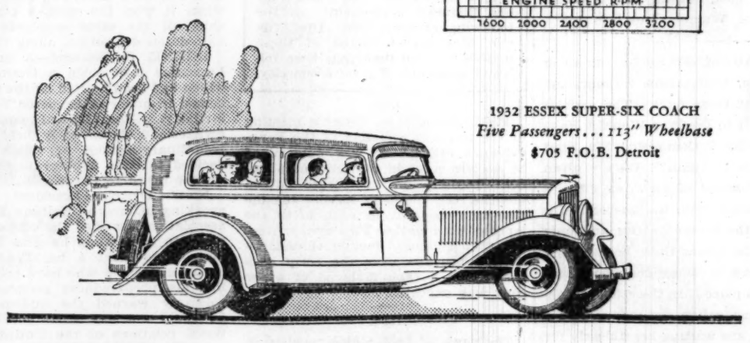
The Power Curve of the New 1932 Essex Super-Six soars above even the splendid 1931 Essex engine—developing 70 h. p. at 3200 r. p. m. as against 60 h.p. in the 1931 engine at 3300 r.p.m.





1932 ESSEX SUPER-SIX COACH
Five Passengers . . . 113" Wheelbase
$705 F.O.B. Detroit

YOU may be one of nearly a million motorists personally familiar with the brilliant action of the Super-Six power plant.

If so you may find it hard to believe that this superbly powerful, smooth and quiet engine—the first high-speed, high-compression motor of modern times—could be "stepped up" in power beyond even its own former high.

Yet here is the result, of controlled high compression, improved carburetion, finer machining, more accurate balancing—full seventy horsepower at 3200 r.p.m.

That means it will take you out and away at 50 miles an hour in silent second gear. It will step along in high coolly, quietly, smoothly, as far as you like, in Selective Free Wheeling or out, at upwards of 70 vibrationless miles per hour.

And the new 1932 Essex Super-Six engine will attain—and maintain—these new power peaks on ordinary gasoline. High-compression performance at no premium cost for fuel!

The new 1932 Essex Super-Six will do these things, which no rival in the low-price field can match for ease or economy, because the power to do them is engineered and built into its "power-dome" high-compression cylinder head, its silicon-aluminum pistons, its patented compensated crankshaft, inherently balanced and vibration-free.

And this new super-abundance of power in the 1932 Essex Super-Six is given a correspondingly striking setting in the longer, lower lines, the roomier and more luxurious bodies, and the many fine-car innovations which make this new Essex the unparalleled value in the low-price field today.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGOLAND

1. Make Chicago the First City in the World.
2. Re-establish the Credit of the Local Governments.
3. Abolish the Smoke Pall.
4. Continue the War on Crime.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A CHANGE IN THE PLATFORM.

It is with considerable regret that a number of changes are made this morning in THE TRIBUNE'S Platform for Chicagoland at the head of this page. The planks which have been removed recommended a start on the subway, electrification of the railroads and the separation of grades on boulevards and through streets. All of these projects call for the expenditure of large sums either from the public treasuries or from private funds, and it would be idle to pretend that the money is or soon will be available.

The subway was to be financed in part from the traction fund and in part from special assessments on benefited property. The traction fund is invested in tax anticipation warrants of the various governments, and it will be months if not years before the cash with which to pay subway contractors will be available. Meanwhile it may be possible to place assessments against the benefited property, but there is much reason to doubt if the assessments can be paid promptly. A subway cannot be built without money, and the money is not in sight.

Electrification of the railroads is still as much needed as ever, but it would be a mistake to overlook the plain fact that the railroads are in no position to pay the costs of electrifying in 1932. Much of the cost will have to be borne by railroads which today are having the utmost difficulty paying interest on their bonded debts. Perhaps the proposal to construct a terminal for all the south side railroads on Illinois Central property at Randolph street offers some hope. If so, it is the only hope which can be entertained at the moment.

The costs of grade separation on boulevards and through streets must be met through taxation or bond issues, and at the moment there can be no thought of new expenditures from taxes, and there is no market for Chicago's bonds. Perhaps the legislature can be induced to return to Chicago a reasonable share of its gasoline taxes, and, if so, a start on grade separations might be made. Otherwise the postponement is inevitable.

The other three planks are retained. To them has been added a new one: Reëstablish the Credit of the Local Governments. For the moment that is the most important task which faces the people of Chicago and Cook county. As rapidly as possible assessments which will stand the test of the courts must be completed and tax bills sent out. The size of tax bills, at the same time, must be reduced to conform to the ability of the property owners to pay. This, in turn, can be accomplished only after the expenses of government have been reduced at least 30 per cent and probably more.

When the credit of the local governments, and especially Chicago's credit, is restored, it may be possible to undertake some of the much needed public works. Meanwhile it would be a serious tactical mistake to divert attention for so much as a moment from the prime need for a restoration of credit. It is not because of any doubt of the value of the subways, electrification, and grade separations that they have been dropped from the platform.

ANOTHER APOLOGY.

Abyssinia has begun the ceremonies of apology and reparation for the assault committed upon the American minister, Addison E. Southard, in Addis Ababa by a traffic policeman. In the apology Mr. Southard rated the mayor, the foreign minister and three other cabinet members who called to express regret for the incident. The policeman and several civilians are in jail.

Mr. Stimson in Washington has instructed Mr. Southard to inform the Abyssinian government that the United States not only expects "that prompt steps will be taken to punish those guilty of the attack" but that the authorities will "take immediate and effective steps" to protect foreign representatives in that country, meaning, it is to be assumed, the representatives of all other foreign countries as well as those of America.

There has been no evidence that the other countries or their representatives or citizens need the protection of the American government or crave it. It was an American consular agent who was attacked in Manchuria. The world flyers who were arrested in Japan were Americans. Americans are in trouble in Hawaii. The minister in trouble in Addis Ababa was the American Mr. Southard.

Mr. Stimson's time has been invaded considerably to his distraction by the necessity of obtaining amends for offenses against American dignity and the persons of its representatives. He has even had to delay his departure for the disarmament conference at Geneva on account of such preoccupations. We'll not strain the point, but it appears that the secretary of state is detained at home and cannot get to the peace meeting because of violence done his subordinates and other Americans in various parts of the world. There may be a moral to that fable.

THE ART OF PLUNDER.

With New York City staggering toward bankruptcy under its huge burden of public debt, an impressive picture of the maladministration of her affairs is unveiled before her citizenry. It is the work of Judge Samuel T. Seabury, chief counsel of a legislative committee of inquiry, a distinguished citizen who has held 37 public hearings and interrogated with noteworthy effect 173 witnesses, most of them, as he points out, "implicated in wrongdoing and consequently hostile."

The report just made public is intermediate, not final, but it runs to 198 printed pages and is not only an instructive revelation of the technique of corrupt political power, but suggests basic reforms in the city charter, which only a strong organization and a persistent effort of good citizenship can procure. The Seabury report ought to create the opinion necessary to this effort. Judge Seabury speaks with justice of the "low and sordid estate" to which New York's politics and government under Tammany have sunk. This is a moment when its decent citizenship who have just watched the government emerge from a credit crisis which will certainly recur, and with worse consequences, must be ready to fight the forces responsible through criminal waste, corruption, and maladministration for New York's deplorable predicament. If this great community is fit for self-government the Seabury inquiry has prepared it to demand and accomplish "a government characterized by honesty and the elimination of waste and extravagance."

But the forces of resistance to reform are highly organized and ruthless. They have tried and to a considerable extent they have been able to obstruct the full disclosure of conditions, and of course in the forefront of their propaganda is the charge—how familiar it is in such cases—that the inquiry is "giving New York a black eye." A Tammany boss, member of the Seabury committee filing a dissenting report, asserts that "there is something sinister, something cruelly unfair, about this investigation." Corrupt power is using its usual tactics, appealing to false pride against true, to ignorance and unscrupulous self-interest against integrity and civic intelligence.

So it is wherever decent citizenship revolts against misgovernment and these fraudulent appeals unfortunately go down with a formidable number of voters. We in Chicago know this well. The late city hall régime thrived on it for three four year terms of misgovernment in the face of repeated exposures. It tried to suppress the facts when it sued THE TRIBUNE in 1921 for libel against the city. The alleged libel consisted of articles showing that the city was broke. That showing was declared to be a black eye for Chicago, an injury to the good name and financial credit of the city. The city was broke. It is broke. But the politicians who were responsible for its condition struck the pose of righteous indignation, of zeal for the city's welfare and good name. The suit failed, but the tactics of misgovernment are always the same.

The same forces are now reappearing upon our political horizon, although the consequences of their misgovernment have come down upon the heads of this community. Even while we are struggling to free ourselves from the vast wreckage they reappear unrepentant and confident of the people's gullibility and of the undefeatable influence of false issues and bunk.

Organized plunder never sleeps.

Editorial of the Day

NOISE.

[Journal of the American Medical Association.]

The effects of continuous noise on the human body and the nervous fatigue induced by excessive noise are difficult to evaluate. An engineer says that "within a generation, noise will vie with disease unless the same mechanical ingenuity that has called the mechanical robot of the age into existence shall also be able to endow it with a soul of quiet." City dwellers are saturated with noises that emanate from street traffic, railways, radios, hucksters, factories and what not. The consequence is lessened efficiency, irritability and, in some cases, neurosis. The growing menace of noise and vibration has already called forth an emphatic protest in various parts of the world. The effect of noise on the human organism is being widely investigated.

To date, research has shown that sudden noise increases the rate of the heart and respiration and the blood pressure of man and animals. A significant fact shown by experimentation is that the mental effort of the more highly developed individuals is hindered by noise, whereas less mentally developed persons seem to be helped in this way. Sudden noises cause fear reactions which become apparent in muscular tension. Muscular relaxation is difficult, if not impossible, in a noisy environment.

The noise commission of the city of New York has made the first comprehensive measurement of the average noise level of city streets, taking more than 7,000 readings at many different places. The relative noise level was determined by instrumental measurement of the intensity of sound. The results of the survey show that there are many places in New York where a Bengal tiger could roar without being heard at a distance of twenty feet. Of the complaints of noise in New York, 53 per cent of a total of 11,068 concerned automobile traffic and rail transportation.

For years this problem has been carefully studied in England, where one of the great sources of noise is machinery used in the manufacture of textiles. As long ago as 1917 a National Fatigue Elimination day was initiated as a means of directing attention to preventable noises. In the United States measures have been taken in several places to prevent noise. Some cities have experimented with the "noiseless" street car. Patented noise preventing rails for street railways are in use in others. The American Electrical Railway Engineering association has appointed a committee to study actively the problem of noise and vibration.

The prevention of noise is largely an engineering problem. While at present certain legal restrictions on noise may be properly imposed, scientific research is necessary to set up definite standards for measuring the quantity and quality of noise in relation to its effect on the individual.

Washington Crossing the Talkies.

("Washington Crossing the Delaware" forms a thrilling incident in a new motion picture.)

(The scene is the Delaware river in winter. Washington and his men in a boat in the same attitudes shown in the famous painting. As the picture begins soft music is heard appropriate to the occasion, "Ole Man River.")

WASHINGTON (standing up in the boat and waving the American flag, which wasn't born until three or four years later. However, if the artist who painted the picture could get away with it, so can the talkies): There are the Redcoats, boys; we must beat them today or Martha Washington is a widow.

SOLDIERS: Aye, aye, sir!

WASHINGTON: A house divided against itself cannot stand. Now is the time for every good man to come to the aid of the party. Our attack on the British today is a noble experiment and I wish it success. Give way, my hearties, give way!

SOLDIERS: Aye, aye, sir!

WASHINGTON: Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State; sail on, O Union, strong and great. Our country, in her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be right, but we join ourselves to no party that does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the Union.

SOLDIERS: Aye, aye, sir!

WASHINGTON: There are the Redcoats just around the corner. Nothing succeeds like success. On to Berlin. And we won't come back 'till it's over, over there.

SOLDIERS: Aye, aye, sir!

WASHINGTON: We are closing up with them now, men; let the machine guns open and signal the aircraft to advance. As we reach shore, my lads, remember your war cry, "California, here we come."

SOLDIERS: Aye, aye, sir!

WASHINGTON: All ready, my brave men. Beware of foreign entanglements or any other kind of barbed wire. Let us have peace. Shoot if you must this old gray head, but spare your country's flag, she said. Ready, fire!

Washington and the soldiers jump ashore singing "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries." Scene closes.

THE WANTON'S LUTE.

FINALE.

It is the end. 'Tis better. Let me fade
Into the maze of memories; a shade
Indefinite and dreamy. For we two have made
A thing perfected, finished—rounded out,
As perfect things must be. The fears and doubt,
Desire and ecstasy, are over; it is done.
A fabric woven, quite; a goal that's won.
Together we have limned Love's effigy
To grace a cloistered niche. Soon I shall be
A half-forgotten melody that haunts the ears,
Subdued—elusive—running through the years;
Almost forgotten, but for the slow tears
That rise unbidden when a stranger tongue
Shall sing to you the songs that I have sung.

MABEL GREGG.

JOE FRANCE, sometime senator from Maryland, jumped right out yesterday after the Republican nomination for the presidency. "Hoover hasn't got a chance," he declared, "and if nominated he wouldn't even carry Utah." We don't know what special obloquy there is in not being able to carry Utah; it's a brand new idea, but, anyhow, it seems to be something terrible. We must look into this.

THE MONTHLY MAGAZINES are having a riot of personal revelations, confessions, intimate admissions, and what not these days. The articles range from "If I Had It to Do Over Would I Have Children Again?", "Why I Committed My First Murder and Would I Do It Again?" We are given the narratives or confessions of an army officer's wife, a big business man's frau, the husband of a lady who runs to all the bridge parties and only sees her home when she comes there occasionally to sleep; the boy who goes to college and who knows full well what a useless place it is; the school teacher who says she's been stealing the money, and a whole lot more. So we are waiting breathlessly for what, from the magazine's standpoint, should make a grand article, "If I Had to Be Born Again Would I Have Parents?" or something like that.

FREDERICKSBURG PASTEL.

A gabled house,
Quaint and neat,
In an old town,
On an old street—
Crowded with dreams,
Asleep in the sun,
Counting its memories
One by one;
A garden spiced
With boxwood scent,
A tall, straight son
Who came—and went
From the small house
On the quiet street;
Son of a woman
Brave and sweet,
Whose motherhood
Has brought renown
To an old house

HELEN BAYLEY DAVIS.

THERE'S A LOT of dull rumors coming from Washington of the possibility of the old U. S. A. getting mixed in a war. But who with? We've quarreled with the Japanese over their occupation of Manchuria, and now we've landed marines in Shanghai to confront the Chinese. The state department ought to toss up a coin to see which one we'll go to war with—heads, the Japs; tails, Chinese.

AND JUST WHEN we think everything is all right, and the January day is as mild as June time, and the sun is shining and the little birds are singing and all is well with the world we get a letter from the income tax collector. R. H. L.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

COLD SKIN.

THE temperature of the skin varies very much with that of the outside air. While we may remain uniformly warm in our insides, the same cannot be said for our outsides.

Dr. Thomas Lewis has found that on a cold day the exposed skin of the hands is likely to suffer a fall of temperature to within five degrees of that of the surrounding air. Is there any wonder that we sometimes freeze a finger or occasionally an entire hand? This represents about the extreme of approximation of the two temperatures. There is not much likelihood that the hand temperatures would fall to fifteen below zero when the air temperature was recorded as twenty below. If the hands are covered the drop will not be so great. However, if the covering is a tight one—let us say the person is wearing tight kid gloves—the hand temperatures tend to fall rapidly. Putting the hands in cold water makes them cold ordinarily, but when the temperature of the air is much below freezing the hands are not particularly chilled by being put in water.

In freezing weather ducks remain in water if they can. Their feet freeze if they try to walk on the much colder ground. They even stand on ice rather than on the cold ground, though sometimes they show duck intelligence in following this impulse.

When the ears are exposed to cold air their temperature falls to within ten degrees of that of the surrounding air. The same limitations apply to this statement that apply to those about the temperatures of the fingers. Again, is it any wonder that the ears so frequently freeze? Short of the frozen stage the reddest ears are the coldest, according to Dr. Lewis. We can see why the red ears should lose heat fastest, but it is not easy to understand why they are coldest.

He makes the same statement as to red cheeks. The toes should be coldest of all. However, we rarely go barefooted in cold weather, whereas we always expose the nose, brow, and cheeks bared, and sometimes our hands are bare even in the coldest weather.

The covered parts of our body are governed by another set of rules. One distinguished authority says that our clothing makes for each of us an individual private climate. This is true if our clothing is impervious to water, heat, and air. But it is only true to the extent that it meets this standard.

Dr. Lewis bases his opinions on careful observations made with very delicate heat recording instruments. He supplements this information by studying the capillaries. He is devoting most of his energies to investigation of this little understood and long neglected part of the circulatory system. He holds that conditions of capillary circulation must be taken into consideration before we can understand the symptoms and the course of heart disease.

Thanks, largely, to his studies of the capillaries, we are beginning to know something worth while about cold feet, poor circulation, frostbite, chilblains, Raynaud's disease, Buerger's disease, and gangrene.

IT IS DANGEROUS.

M. L. writes:

1. I am considering marrying a man who has consumption. Do you think I would eventually contract consumption if I married him?

2. Is there any danger living with such a person?

REPLY.

1. There is a pretty good chance that you would.

2. Yes.

MAY BE HYSTERIA.

E. S. writes:

1. After eating I have a heavy, choking sensation in my throat down to my stomach. Sometimes it feels as though something is lodged in the throat. I am 36 years old, married, and have regular habits. I sleep 8 hours every night, and exercise every morning by radio. Work in an office. Smoke 10 or 12 cigarets a day.

2. I notice I cannot wear a gold ring in warm weather without raising a lot of small blisters on the finger.

REPLY.

1. Have a physician find out whether this symptom means anything. He may find that you watch your works too much. A lump in the throat may mean hysteria.

2. The common complaint is that the skin turns dark. That condition results from sulphur liberated by decomposing cells and secretions. The remedy is more soap and water.

But you seem to have something else. Your skin seems to be sensitized to gold, sweat, or something. You appear to have what they formerly called eczema due to the causes given. Keep your skin very clean and put aside your rings in hot weather. That is the simplest cure.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise me when and where the next civil service examination for postoffice clerks will be held. C. M. P.

In connection with the above you are advised that examinations for the position of postoffice clerk are held only as the needs of the service require. It is assumed the writer is interested in examination for the Chicago postoffice. There is no examination open at the present time for this position in Chicago. By keeping in touch with the bulletin board in the Dearborn street lobby of the federal building interested persons may be advised of any examinations which are pending. Information and application blanks may be secured by calling at window No. 2, Adams street lobby, federal building.

COURT SUMMONS.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I expect a court summons from Aurora, Ill., next week. I have not the money to go there. Can they hold me for contempt of court or am I entitled to fare mileage and lost time? I am the defendant. Kindly explain what the law is regarding this. R. F.

Depends on the nature of the suit. If it is merely a summons in an ordinary civil case the result of your failure to appear will be that a civil judgment will be rendered against you by default.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

1873.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania railroad it was determined to declare a scrip dividend of 5 per cent payable on or before fifteen months, the company having the option to redeem it in cash after the lapse of six months. Financial writers say that a general feeling of dissatisfaction prevails over the scrip dividend when a cash dividend of 6 per cent was expected.

1894.

The panic of 1893, which resulted in the throwing of millions out of employment and the slashing of wages all over the country, was followed in 1894 by a large number of disastrous strikes. Among these was the railroad strike called by the American Railway union, of which Eugene V. Debs was president. Following is an excerpt from the story of the first day of the strike.

Chicago, June 27.—The Illinois Central railroad from Chicago to Homewood is in the hands of its enemy—the American Railway union. If the expectations of the leader of the organization are realized the service of the road will be paralyzed today and not a train, either through, suburban, or freight, will leave or enter the city. The boycott against the Pullman cars turned into a strike against the railroad company, the switchmen going out first. They were followed by the switchtenders and later by the switch tower operators. It was a well planned move on the part of Debs, Howard, and other leaders of the anti-Pullman war. It is said the switchmen and switchtenders of all lines centering in the Union depot will go out. When the switchmen and tenders went out, a mob, which soon grew to 2,000 switchmen, Pullman strikers and sympathizers, gathered at Grand Crossing and stopped all Illinois Central trains that attempted to pass. They also stopped a Pennsylvania train and by 10 o'clock there were nine trains of the Illinois Central and six of the Pennsylvania blockading tracks at Grand Crossing.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 28, 1916.

CHICAGO—Ten prisoners are held in connection with the daylight robbery of the Washington Park National bank at 63d street and Evans avenue in which the loot was $15,000. Among those held is Eddie Mack, notorious pickpocket. The robbery was one of the most daring in the city's history. The robbers wore masks and each had two revolvers. They lined up Vice President Garland Stahl, formerly known in the baseball world as "Jake" Stahl, one time manager of the Boston American league team when it won the world's championship, all the other employés and a half dozen depositors, along the wall.

BERNE, Switzerland—A crowd at Lausanne tore down a German flag which had been hoisted by the German consul in honor of Emperor William's birthday. The federal council of Switzerland immediately held an extraordinary session at which it was decided to offer apology to Germany for the insult to the flag.

NEW YORK.—President Wilson, speaking before the Railway Business association, revealed the course he intends to take when he goes west tomorrow to start a backfire against the congressmen who have been fighting his preparedness program. He solemnly warned the audience that he could not say what the international relations of the United States would be tomorrow—and he used the word literally—nor could he honestly assure them that these relations would be as bright as they are today. He declared that "what every American ought to insist upon is a body of at least half a million trained citizens who will serve under conditions of danger as an immediately available national reserve."

BERLIN.—Vienna advices say that Gen. Vukotitch, who, according to reports, has continued to lead the Montenegrin resistance against the Austro-Hungarian troops, has surrendered at Danilovorad, together with several other Montenegrin generals.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 28, 1902.

NEW YORK.—The neighborhood of 42d street and 4th avenue was wrecked, six persons were killed, and over 100 injured shortly before afternoon by a terrific explosion of dynamite or nitrogelatin in the Rapid Transit subway excavation on 4th avenue, at the corner of 41st street. Men and women were killed and hurt in three big hotels nearby, the Murray Hill, the Grand Union and the Manhattan, in which all the windows were blown out and the ceilings fell. The total property loss is estimated at more than $1,000,000. Every store and office building and private dwelling for blocks around was shaken by the explosion and lost windows and doors.

CHICAGO.—Montgomery Ward & Co. has purchased from Clarence S. Marks the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Washington street with a frontage of 91 feet on the avenue and 162.3 on Washington street. The consideration was $600,000, $100,000 in cash and $500,000 in five years at 3 per cent. This purchase gives Ward & Co. control, either by ownership or long term lease, of the entire west side of Michigan avenue from Madison street to Washington street.

CHICAGO.—The mercury outdid itself yesterday and surpassed even the weatherman's prophecy. It went down to 8 below zero and Prof. Cox predicts it will be colder today.

LIBERTY IN IRELAND.

St. George, Staten Island, N. Y., Jan. 13.—It is remarkable that the significance of what is styled the public safety bill recently passed in the Irish Free State Dail is being only indifferently noted by the American press. This bill is, in fact, an undisguised tyranny that destroys every semblance of civil rights in an insane effort to stop the growth and expression of republican sentiment and of all thought less antiquated and servile than that of the party in office.

The arrest of an American citizen in Ireland and his sentence to six months' imprisonment under one of the childish excuses now afforded by this law is a direct challenge to American standards of justice. This bill puts aside constitutional law and vests arbitrary powers in a military court, in the army, and the police. It is permitting and ordering through this irresponsible court death sentences and other barbarous punishments such as flogging. It dispenses with coroner's inquests into the deaths of victims. It abolishes jury trial and makes suspicion the warrant for unlimited arrests and searches of persons and invasion of homes. It makes crimes of expressing in the press or vocally opinions that Mr. Cosgrave and his advisers deem "a little more or a little less than the government standard."

Not content with suppressing newspapers that it dislikes, the ironically named Free State is throwing into jail their editors. It is refusing to inform the relatives of persons arrested because of their political and economic views, as to where they are imprisoned. It has already outlawed a dozen different political organizations and declared membership in them a crime punishable with all of the ferocity granted by its grotesquely misnamed public safety bill. This law was not put across by a formal and candid dictatorship. The ugly fact to Irishmen regardful of the capacity of their race for freedom and sportsmanship is that it was made in a native parliament. To be sure, this parliament was not conceived by a free and self-determining Ireland. It is the cramped offspring of an enforced treaty that partitioned the country and exacted an imperialistic allegiance that is most unnatural to Irish democracy and nationality. DAN D. MOLONY.

SPEND.

Lawrenceville, Ill., Jan. 20.—I'd just finished reading various appeals from prominent women on "How to End This Depression" in one of our most popular magazines, the summed up advice of which was to spend—spend—spend. And then I picked up THE TRIBUNE only to read of a well known Chicago society woman who boasted to her bridge club that the total outlay for the food which they had just consumed was the staggering sum of 96 cents—8 cents apiece.

In other words, those who are most able to spend are holding on to the coin and bragging about their marvelous ability to economize, while those who have not the world's resources at their fingertips are advised to spend—spend—spend! Some logic, say I!

MRS. L. B. ROSBOROUGH.

NEW SOURCES OF TAXATION.

Bloomer, Wis., Jan. 22.—Now that it is open season for hunting new sources of taxation, let me suggest two of the best hunting grounds in the United States

Let our Uncle Samuel turn his tax hounds loose among the millions of public employés. Then take a pot shot at them with No. 5s, with no exemption whatsoever, from the President down the line to the seventh assistant dog catcher in the Fifth ward. This will net $7,988,000,000. The poor public employés have to put up with the following hardships: Almost a life job, with a good pension after that; depression-proof; short hours, light work, or no work at all; sure and GOOD pay; and, last, but not least, almost taxproof. If any of these poor public employés cannot stand a 5 per cent tax, let them get out, and there will be 10,000 ready, willing, and capable to fill every job that is vacant and ready to pay the 5 per cent into the public food trough.

Use four billion to balance the budget and the balance to take care of the unemployed, or, better still, to appease Wall street for their private loans to foreign governments. Then they (Wall street) will keep away from congress so it can adjourn and go home. For, so sure as congress is in session after Feb. 2, it will get a hurry up S O S from the delegates to the arms parley (why isn't it called arms folly?) for $550,000 with a note attached saying the measly sum of $450,000 allowed them isn't half enough to do all the winter resorts of Europe on. ROSCOE MAYE.

AN APPEAL TO FARMERS.

Columbus Junction, Ia., Jan. 21.—After three years' experience the President has lost all faith in the last Republican campaign promises and says that legislation will not help the agriculturist. "The farmer must help himself." Let's try it. We believe the millions of dissatisfied and disappointed farmers can nominate the next Republican candidate for President, in spite of the millionaires in the cabinet and Wall street, if they begin right.

Attend the first township and precinct caucus. Let nothing keep you away. Take your wife. Elect all the delegates to your county convention and you can upset the Republican (millionaire) political machine that beat us farmers in the Kansas City convention four years ago, when the Hon. Frank Lowden, our farmer candidate for President, was so anxious to help the enslaved farmer that he resigned his candidacy when the farm saving plank was voted down. We think we can get no other man who would make such a sacrifice, nor one more capable or willing to help the farmer, than the Hon. Frank Lowden. If he will not volunteer this year, let's draft him. JAMES K. HELMICK.

DOLES AND DOLES.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—If a dole saps the energy, ambition, and moral strength of those who get it, we might well be moved to compassion at thought of the moral "dangers in store for the unfortunates who receive large gifts or inheritances without having even so much as turned over a hand to produce the fortunes." EX-PROSECUTOR, 14 OTHERS GUILTY IN BOOZE TRIAL

Federal Judge Sentences Part of Defendants.

Robert W. Besse, former state's attorney of Whiteside county, and fourteen co-defendants in the midwest liquor conspiracy case were found guilty by a jury before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday. Four defendants were found not guilty.

ROBERT W. BESSE.

The jury deliberated all night before reaching a decision. After the verdict was read Judge Lindley overruled a motion for a new trial and imposed sentences on fifteen defendants. Some of these had pleaded guilty before the verdict. Twenty-eight remaining defendants will be sentenced on Tuesday.

At the beginning af the trial more than two weeks ago there were sixty defendants, including two women and two corporations. Fifty-two were arraigned for trial, eight being fugitives. Nineteen defendants pleaded guilty before the case went to the jury, and there were nine pleas of nolo contendere, on which defendants can be sentenced as if it were a plea of guilty. Three defendants obtained severances and two cases were dismissed.

Large Booze Sales Charged.

During the trial Assistant District Attorney Daniel Anderson presented testimony and documentary evidence to show that the defendants, between 1927 and 1929, had disposed of millions of gallons of alcohol from distilleries located in Whiteside county and also in Aurora and other western areas of the Chicago metropolitan district. Distribution was alleged to have been made through northeastern Iowa and Minnesota.

The head of the alleged ring was Mike Blumberg of Clinton, Ia., who pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary and fined $1,000. Clarence ["Sonny"] Ebsen, who pleaded guilty and became a government witness, was placed on three years' probation with a sentence of a year and a day held in abeyance.

Others sentenced yesterday were Tony Romano, Chicago, 60 days in jail and $200 fine; Henry Buhrow, Morrison, 60 days and $100; Sam Dolff, alias Dave Meyers, of Aurora, 90 days and $300; George Bowman, Chicago, 90 days and $100; Frank McDonald and Dayton Hill, both of Clinton, 90 days and $200 fine each; Joe Meyers, 90 days and $200; Jake Engelkins of Morrison, 60 days and $100; Fred Fisher, Waterloo, Ia., 60 days and $100; George Stein, Chicago, 90 days and $200; Oscar Hopka, Waterloo, 60 days and $100; and Louis Israel, Aurora, 60 days and $100. Joe Rothstein of Chicago was fined $200.

Found Guilty; Await Sentence.

Mrs. Harriett Fritts, who operated a speakeasy in Aurora, which the government charged was the headquarters of the gang, pleaded guilty during the trial and is awaiting sentence. Another defendant who entered a guilty plea and is awaiting sentence is Arthur Cooper of Chicago, alleged fixer for the syndicate.

The Cinquinna brothers, Paul and Anthony, who pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later, are said to have been the contact men between the Capone syndicate in Chicago and the midwest ring, enabling Capone to levy tribute on the ring.

The men who were found not guilty were August Mammath of Argo, Vincent Papagno of Baltimore, and Anthony Carsello and Joe Christafano, both of Chicago.

Indictment of the members of the ring followed 18 months of investigation by Special Prohibition Agents Edson Smith, Paul B. Shoop, and Harold Beaudrie.

BRITAIN, RUSSIA, AND TURKEY PLAN NEAR EAST PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—A tri-party agreement has been reached in the near east. According to information received today, the signatures of the British, Turks and Russians will be attached within the next few weeks to a pact fixing a political moratorium on the Bosporus for the next ten years.

It will be signed as soon as Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish dictator, returns from a visit to Moscow. The British and Russians agree to terminate counter propaganda in Turkey during the period of the pact in return for the Turkish guarantee of strict neutrality on political and geographical questions in Turkestan, Tibet, Kashmir, Afghanistan and India.

Poland, it is creditably reported, volunteered to enter the pact but the offer was declined because of a possibility of a slight to the French, who have lost out in the eastern Mediterranean diplomatic struggle through their preoccupation with their Italian rival, who is now also in eclipse. France and Italy have been fortifying Syria and the Aegean island of Rhodes respectively.

Open Bridge Jams, Delays Traffic During Rush Hour

Loop traffic at the noon rush hour at the Clark street bridge was halted for twenty minutes yesterday when the south half of the span could not be completely closed after it had been opened for a derrick barge to pass through. The electrical hoisting and lowering device refused to work and a hurried call was sent to the harbormaster's office for an electrician to repair it.

INSURANCE MEN INVITED TO BACK DRY ACT REPEAL

Deaths from Alcoholism Show Increase.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A campaign to enlist the support of insurance companies for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, on the ground that the companies are sustaining a serious loss traceable to prohibition, has been started in New York, it became known today.

Deaths caused by chronic alcoholism have increased to about fourfold the pre-prohibition figure, according to a tabulation involving 15,000,000 policy holders, it was announced from the office of Joseph Gladstone, insurance broker.

Urged to Support Program.

At Mr. Gladstone's invitation, editors of insurance publications met Tuesday at Fraunces Tavern, and were asked to support a move to align insurance interests with the anti-prohibitionists.

The specific organization proposed, to be known as the Basic Rights league, will try to bring the prohibition question before the national conventions this year, provided sufficient support is received, Mr. Gladstone said.

Deaths from acute alcoholism, as estimated in the figures presented, do not include the fatalities from denatured alcohol, which are a further drain upon insurance companies, the statement added.

More Auto Fatalities.

Still another cause of loss was declared to be an increase in the umber of automobile fatalities for which drunken drivers are apparently responsible.

In the figures based on mortality among industrial policyholders, Mr. Gladstone declared that the death rate from acute and chronic alcoholism in the ten years ending with 1930 had risen from a low point of 0.9 per 100,000 in 1921 to a high of 3.7 per 100,000 in 1926, dropping slightly thereafter to 3.2 in 1930.

Girl's Whirlwind Romance Ends in Alimony Order

Mrs. Fern Hassett, 19 years old, 2114 Calumet avenue, told Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday that she met William J. Hassett at a party, was proposed to and accepted him half an hour afterward, and married him a week later, on Aug. 8. She left him a week after that, she said, when he admitted to her that instead of working for a trucking company, as he had said, he was a petty bootlegger, and asked her to ride with him while he made deliveries as a camouflage. She was granted temporary alimony of $5 a week on her bill for separate maintenance.

EYE WITNESSES TO DRY SHOOTING DENY CUSTOMS MEN'S STORY

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Statements read into the court records showed marked differences in testimony of eyewitnesses to the shooting of Arthur Gajeski, a passenger on a pleasure boat last July, and that of the defendants, Walter Weslowski and Clarence Fish, customs border patrol inspectors.

Fish and Weslowski are being tried on charges of careless use of firearms and felonious assault while they were pursuing an alleged rum runner in the Detroit river.

Except for the admission that they were shooting somewhere in the vicinity of the steamer St. Claire, the statements differ in almost every detail from the testimony of eyewitnesses.

Of the latter no less than four today agreed in their statement the rum boat was between the federal speedboat and the passenger steamer when Gajeski was wounded.

This was denied by the defendants who swore they were shooting in the opposite direction, and were never less than 400 feet from the steamer while firing.

Adelaide Seleske, a passenger, testified the rum runner was less than 20 feet from the St. Claire running alongside, and the customs officers' boat was 15 or 20 feet behind it trying to spotlight the rum boat.

Every witness testified no shooting was done except by the federal men.

Weslowski said he and Fish were shooting at the engine and gas tanks of the rum runner in an effort to stop it. He also testified that he saw burlap bags in the rear of the rum boat. State witnesses, however, testified they saw no bags in the boat and that the hatch was closed.

Before adjournment this afternoon Judge Charles C. Simons agreed to dismiss the lesser charge against the federal agents of reckless use of firearms. A dismissal of both charges was asked by William G. Comb, assistant district attorney who is defending the officers. This, however, was refused.

GARY TEACHERS TO GET HALF PAY IN CASH CRISIS

While the north shore suburbs are pushing the sale of tax anticipation warrants to keep their schools open, Gary is experiencing a school finance crisis, it was learned yesterday. Auditor A. Howard Bell of the Gary board of education revealed that the teachers there will not receive full pay on Friday.

A recent drive to sell $500,000 in 1931 tax warrants failed, he said, and the plan now is to try to dispose of $200,000 worth of the warrants and give the rest to the teachers and school employés in place of cash. The teachers will receive only half of their pay on Friday, according to the auditor. The crisis, he explained, is caused by the board funds being tied up in closed Gary banks. The schools need $500,000 to operate until May 10.

NEW YORK ASKS BUILDING WAGE CUT OF 25 PCT.

Employers Tell Unions It Must Come May 1.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The board of governors of the Building Employers' association has decided to reduce the wages for all labor in the building field in New York City 25 per cent, effective on May 1, it was announced today at the convention of the New York state association.

Whether the reduction will be accepted by the labor unions remains to be seen, but the employer groups intend to stand together to force it into effect, it was announced.

C. G. Norman, chairman of the board, said that members of the thirty employer trade groups in the city would meet next Wednesday to vote formally on the board's decision. Since the question already has been submitted to various trade groups, the meeting next Wednesday will be a mere formality, Mr. Norman indicated.

Restore 1923 Scale.

"This reduction of 25 per cent would bring the wage scale down to that of 1923," he said. "We don't know if we are going to have strife on May 1, but one thing is certain—the members of the Employers' association will stand together. Today one can get plenty of bricklayers for $7 or $8 a day, right in the heart of the city."

The present agreements between employers and unions in the building trades expire on April 30, making any reduction, when approved by the trade groups, effective on May 1.

The basic figures under the reduction would be about $12 a day for bricklayers and other outside skilled workers, $10 a day for those classified as inside workers, including plasterers, now getting $15.40, and $7 a day for helpers and laborers of all kinds.

Highest Paid in Country.

New York has today the highest wage scale in the building trades in the country. Bricklayers, stone carvers, and other workers of that general classification are now receiving about $15.40 a day, Mr. Norman's report indicated, and will be brought down to the $12 scale, or thereabouts, if the reduction is effected. Asbestos workers, carpenters, plumbers, plasterers, and tile setters will be paid on the $10 scale under the same provisions.

Various groups have been receiving $8.15 a day. Helpers on concrete work received $9.35 a day, masons' helpers $9.90, plasterers' helpers $10.12. All of these groups may be brought down to the $7 scale.

WARNS FARMERS TO KEEP HERDS FREE OF DISEASE

Enlist Veterinarians' Aid, They Are Told.

BY PAUL POTTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Live stock farmers, who have "weathered the slump as well if not better than any other group," were warned today by Dr. Robert Graham, animal pathologist of the University of Illinois, that failure to enlist veterinarians in disease control was placing their future profits in jeopardy.

Dr. Graham spoke at the business sessions of Coöperative Marketing associations preceding the opening of the seventeenth annual convention of the Illinois Agricultural association. Nearly four thousand Illinois farm bureau members from 95 counties of the state are here for the two sessions, tomorrow and Friday.

Earl Smith to Speak.

"If this successful class of farmers is to continue to lead the way they may naturally scrutinize all methods of management, including disease control in formulating plans adapted to their needs in cutting costs," Dr. Graham said.

He referred to the growing practice of farmers to attempt to control hog cholera, porcine abortion and swine erysipelas without the aid of veterinarians as not only a menace to live stock farming, but holding dangerous possibilities of spreading infections to humans. Five years of research has established that truth he said.

Earl Smith, for six years president of the largest state association of farmers, is expected to sound the keynote of the convention in his opening address tomorrow morning.

To Renew Income Tax Fight.

The association's legislative effort on income tax and reduction of real estate taxes is expected to be reviewed and strengthened. Delegates indicated today there would be emphatic resolutions on curtailing of public expenditures, locally and nationally.

Other speakers scheduled on the convention program included Frank O. Lowden, who will speak at a banquet for 2,000 delegates tomorrow evening, S. H. Thompson of the federal farm board, Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling and E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Boy Scout Found with Lasso About His Neck Dies

Hyannis, Mass., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Ernest B. Nickerson, 13, Boy Scout of Falmouth, who has been at Cape Cod hospital since Friday, suffering from congestion of the brain, died today. The boy was found unconscious with a lasso about his neck in his bedroom a few minutes after he had returned from school. Doctors and firemen worked over him with a pulmotor, but were unable to bring him back to consciousness.

Gives you 3 times more for your money ... yet kills germs in 10 seconds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far, because it can be diluted with 2 parts of water. That's economy for you. Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength?

WE stress the great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic because it convincingly proves Pepsodent Antiseptic's unique germ-killing power. When fighting sore throat colds and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and still be effective! Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptics, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted with water! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and sore throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics ... and it kills germs when diluted.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu Valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu Valley to spend her remaining days. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family, although his mother had sent her checks.

Ricardo calls at the New York address of Miss Filomena Stanley and finds not the ancient aunt he'd expected, but a beautiful young aunt. He arrives in the midst of a cocktail party, staged by Filomena and her roommate, Frances, a Follies girl, in their Bohemian studio. He stayed for the party and meets Filomena next day to talk everything over at luncheon. Ricardo finds taking care of his aunt an enjoyable task. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who was in a sad state financially, having been out of work for weeks. Filomena moves into a larger apartment and Ricardo takes more modest quarters in the same building on another floor.

INSTALLMENT IV.

NEPHEWLY GIFTS.

The weeks in which Ricardo grew accustomed to the unfamiliar if pleasing rooms of his own, and the equally unfamiliar and much more pleasing great living room of Filomena's went by on swift feet.

When he hinted that she might need a pair of shoes or a new hat she finally admitted that she did. Various smaller articles of apparel she allowed him to supply to his delight, but she had been in the apartment for weeks before she would admit to any larger requirements.

"It'll be winter," he insisted. "In winter you have to have new clothes, don't you? There's no use being fussy about it—you would have bought them with the check mother sent, if she'd sent it, wouldn't you?"

She finally agreed that perhaps she would. But it was another week before she completely yielded and said that she had not a decent rag to her name and she wished she could have a lot of clothes. Since she had definitely refused to accept a bank book with a checking privilege, the alternative was charge accounts.

He found that when Filomena said a lot of clothes she meant a lot of clothes.

She had to have a new evening gown, a real necessity as they had a plan to investigate certain night clubs which she or Frances or Pendleton or somebody knew about.

Then there were daytime dresses, and the price of these simple little affairs, these modest, unassuming sweaters with sports skirts to match or contrast with them, was amazing.

Then he discovered that it was possible to obtain horses for riding around the bridle paths of the park.

"But, sweet nephew, I was never on a horse in my life," objected Filo-mena, who had just achieved waffles and set them before him with a fragrant cup of coffee.

The riding lessons went very badly at first.

He looked at her in astonishment. "Never on a—why, I never heard of such a thing! You, a Stanley of Romeu and never been on a—well, I'm damned." He placed a large portion of flaky waffle in his mouth.

"You know I've never been in Romeu, stupid," Filomena said, tucking back a straying golden lock of hair and attacking her waffle.

"Sweet thing, you shall be there some day," he promised, "and in the meantime you can learn to ride."

"I'm not wild about it," she returned. "I rode a camel once at Coney and it made me frightfully seasick. Awful, it was, nephew. Never again, I vowed then and there, and I've never to this day——"

"The Stanleys of Romeu," began Ricardo, "have ridden horseback for generations. I can't imagine any——"

"When you go back, you can begin riding for your generation—mine, too," she offered. "Meantime, taxis are safer and a lot quicker."

He looked at her pityingly. "I don't mean to ride to the theater, or shopping, or even downtown for lunch," he said, at which she giggled immoderately.

"When you've finished your childish amusement," he said then, "we will go out and have you measured for a riding habit. You can't really ride a horse without, and I imagine you'll look pretty snappy in it."

She brightened. "Really, may I? May I have breeches and shiny boots like a policeman, and everything? Wonderful. I'll have some crystal cuff links with horses' heads on them. Will it be anything like the camel?"

He was scornful. "Any one of your name," he proclaimed, "will ride as naturally as you breathe or walk. Can't help it."

All these weeks, while they had come to know each other so well, while they lived this strangely intimate and delightfully pleasant life, he had never mentioned Rachel Beatty. Perhaps there was no real reason why he should have done so. Perhaps his young aunt would not have been interested to know that he was engaged to marry a tall girl with gray eyes who could ride a horse like any Stanley of Romeu, a girl that his mother had known and loved for so long that it seemed as much her desire as his that Rachel should take her empty place at the house on the hill.

A few days later, Filomena, attired in riding garb which she had been assured was absolutely the last word in smartness, allowed herself to be hoisted onto the back of the very gentle gaited little horse that the riding master recommended for her use as a beginner. It was a source of mild humiliation to Ricardo that he had brought her to the stable as a beginner. She, a Stanley of Romeu, a stranger to horses. It was almost incredible. It was fortunate that he had discovered this strange lack in her upbringing.

The riding lessons went very badly at first. They also went badly second, third, and fourth. There was something about Filomena that did not take to a horse. It was strange, but there was no blinking such an obvious fact. She should have learned as a child. That always made a difference, he reflected unhappily, as he disengaged her panicky clutch from her horse's mane and instructed her gently to cling only to her saddle.

She was cheerful over her disgraceful exhibition, and though she complained of various aches and stiffnesses, she was ready to try again.

"You know, it isn't a bit easier than riding a camel," she confided to him.

"The lady's traveled a bit, I see," remarked the stableman who had assisted her to mount, fancying she referred to journeys through Egypt and Arabia.

"Well, a little," she conceded, smiling down at him.

A week later.

"I'll keep on till I ride that damned horse," said Filomena, stretched out on a divan, with her boots on the floor beside her.

Ricardo, admiring her gameness while he de[ri]ded of her horsemanship, made tea for her.

"Of course, you must learn to ride," he asserted for the hundredth time at least, "but the day you can handle the horse, beautiful aunt—I'll give you—well, what do you want?"

She looked perceptibly cheered. "What do you want to give me?"

"The half of my kingdom, of course."

It was a few days later that he had an inspiration when he saw her stop and look into a window where a grand piano stood in solitary splendor.

"Let's go in and look at it," he offered. In the shop, where piano after piano could be looked at by any one who cared to eye them, finished in every style imaginable, from old ivory enamel to brilliant Chinese lacquer, she said not a word.

But Ricardo, having seen her wistful eyes, said when they were at home: "Do you want a piano?"

"O, Ricardo," she began, "you know—but they cost too much. There'd be no use——"

"But you would like to have one?"

"I'd love it. A real piano. A real piano."

"Well, you see, that's what I'll give you for learning to ride."

"O, you mustn't," she demurred. "They cost too much. They cost an awful lot. You've no idea how much they——"

"And you haven't an idea how much I want to see you ride that horse. You ought to have it, any way. Can you play on it if I get it?"

"Some. I was taking lessons, you know."

"You ought to have some lessons again. That is, if you'd like to."

"I can't let you. They cost an awful lot."

"I'm to decide that," he returned grandly. "It's settled. You pick out the piano and it's yours."

"You mean—really mine?"

"Of course, really yours. Why?"

"I only mean——" she gestured vaguely around the room. "It doesn't seem as if this is—is really mine. It's—sort of yours. But the piano——"

"The piano's yours, you funny darling. Everything else is yours, if you want it. But if you say so, the piano is specially and particularly yours. You can hock it if you're hard up——"

She sat looking at him without saying anything for several minutes. Some thoughts must have been going on very busily behind those blue eyes. Presently she said, "Nephew, you're a nice nephew. You're nicer than I thought nephews grew. I'll remember you in my will, nephew."

Mildly embarrassed by the serious eyes that belied her playful words, he was for once pleased when a vigorous rattling of the doorknob announced the arrival of Frances.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Shoes, Size 8½.

"Do you think you could get me a pair of shoes, size 8½C? I am a painter and have been out of work for a long time. I must walk so much every day looking for a job and its pretty hard on my feet for my shoes are all worn out. I have a wife and child to support. F. T."

I am sure the shoes you are discarding could be soled and heeled to provide this young father with warmth and comfort throughout the cold weather. He needs the shoes desperately and would be extremely grateful to receive them.

Joan Decides Against More Loss of Weight

Miss Crawford Would Endure 132 Pounds.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Joan Crawford weighs between 122 and 125 pounds, and she's proud of it. Says she doesn't even feel put out if the poundage hits 132. She has quit dieting, and feels no ill effects. This girl nearly wrecked her constitution and jeopardized her life once by taking off thirty pounds in two weeks.

Alf Reeves, Charlie Chaplin's studio manager and local representative, got worried about Charlie's continued absence from Hollywood and put a phone call through to the comedian at St. Moritz, Switzerland, last week.

Reeves laid before his boss the advantages of returning to America and getting to work on a new film.

Charlie yawned.

"Well, how about getting the studio wired for sound? So that everything will be ready when you do want to start?" Reeves finally asked with as little impatience as possible. Charlie yawned again and said he guessed the studio here will be all right the way it is, for a while.

Douglas Fairbanks is the only one who can throw light on when Chaplin can be expected back here. Doug says: "Charlie has been bothered during his European trip by an aching tooth. He doesn't trust European dentists. When it begins to ache enough, he'll pack up some day and rush back to Los Angeles for the only dentist he trusts is right here."

French Hairdresser Says Straight Locks Are Youth Giving

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Antone's recent declaration that straight hair has a more youthful effect than waved may not meet with the hearty indorsement of the gentlemen of the waving iron profession. But it is true that many women could court a kindlier youth by the trick of leaving the top of the head with little or no curl.

The hair around the ears needs waving, except on the very few women whose locks look best straight over the entire head.

Especially if the hair is dry of texture, that obviously marcelled wave after wave across the top of the head is unot youthifying. We do not refer to the wide undulations seen on well groomed heads and performed by expert hairdressers when we disparage waved hair. We mean the kind of wave that no one could ever mistake for a natural one.

Yet, one doesn't ever need to think she is not getting her money's worth if she isn't curled the entire head over. Nowadays, you want "design" to your coiffure. Often you can get it with the right wave placing and a more meager wave indulgence.

The lower back of the head may be waved pretty well, but even here the larger and less frequent the wave the more distinctive the coiff. There is still work enough for the hairdresser, though his waves may be curtailed as to number. We want to get away from that uniform wave placing so common for years.

Some of our better hairdressers are concentrating on individual treatment for the individual head. The idea should be more universally observed and put into practice by those hairdressers who take our money.

And speaking of youth lent by hair arrangement, if you have found that your long hair hasn't added a cubit to your beauty stature, why hesitate to nip the locks off? Other women are doing it who raised their brood of hairs but to find they were neither useful nor ornamental. Be yourself with your coiffure. That's the only rule that can be passed o[n] as imperative in today's hair arrangement.

Food Talk.

We recommend the French hunter's dinner for tomorrow. Don't wait too long to try it—until the snappy weather and the atmosphere of the hunting season is gone. Even if our husbands aren't hunters and can't provide us with the game to use in this recipe, there is an alternative—pork—available to every one. And pork, just now, is unusually attractive in price.

The friendly side remarks are by the Frenchman who sent us the recipe.

FRENCH HUNTER'S DINNER.

4 or 5 large stalks of celery.
3 lbs. onions.
½ lb. lard.
3 lbs. pork meat, cut up in inch pieces.

[The original formula calls for game, but that is scarce, so next best is pork.]

1 can mushrooms.
1 can lima beans.
1 can tomatoes.
½ lb. spaghetti.

"Don't be scared of the lard. In the south of France lard is used to absorb the odor of flowers for perfume, and in this dinner it is used for the purpose of absorbing the odor of onions, celery, and mushrooms with wonderful effect. Without the full one-half pound of lard the dinner is N. G.

"Put one-half of the lard in a large covered kettle, cut up celery, leaves and all, the onions, and throw in. Put on a tight cover and put over the fire and fry. Be careful when you remove cover, as the lard and the natural moisture from the onions and celery create the hottest steam imaginable and it easily burns the hand. Don't fry too much. Just enough until onions and celery look transparent.

"In a skillet put the other half of the lard and fry the pork cut up in small pieces until it is extra well done, turning over and over.

"Put three quarts of water by measure into a kettle and boil till it bubbles. Then throw in your one-half pound of spaghetti and cook 20 minutes.

"When done, throw the fried meat into kettle with the fried celery and onions, and rinse fryings from skillet with a pint of water and throw in also. Then pour in the spaghetti, water and all. Then add mushrooms, tomatoes, and lima beans. Heat up to a boil, and add salt and pepper. It takes a lot of salt—about four teaspoons or more.

"Taste it before serving, as this dinner must be seasoned right or it won't be the success that it deserves. [A French cook always tastes his food. The cook of Louis XIV. took his own life when word came from the dining room that Louis had to sprinkle salt into the soup which he, the cook, had forgotten to taste to see that it was correctly seasoned.]

"Send to the table in a tureen or large bowl with a large spoon or ladle. Lay a piece of toast on a plate and dish a liberal helping of French hunter's dinner on top of the toast. Generally two or three helpings per person are served, as this is a 'hunter's dinner,' and the various regular courses with the exception of salad are not prepared or served. What's left from one day is eaten the next day, and it is usually better on the second day, but it is always necessary to add some water when heating up the second time."

My only advice is to be careful how you "throw the fried meat into the kettle with fried celery and onions. . . ."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

It seems to be an established fact that Steve Brodie took a chance. Yet Steve would have been the first to deny that he was foolish enough to take a chance without any hope of gain. To take a chance merely for chance's sake is certainly a losing proposition.

Now, of course, East could have done this in yesterday's play-a-problem by taking a finesse in clubs. If he had taken the finesse he would have taken a chance for no reason at all. He did not need to take it, since by an elimination play he could make the thing sure, regardless of where the ♣ K was located. Of course, if you are a finesser by conviction and habit, regardless of the result, you need read no further. For those that wish to learn when not to take the chance of a losing finesse this hand should be studied carefully. Here it is:

NORTH
♠—J,10,9,8
♥—A,K,Q
♦—9,8,6

WEST
♠—7,6,5
♥—3,2
♦—K,Q,10,2
♣—Q,J,9,8

EAST (Dealer)
♠—A,K,Q
♦—A,J,4
♣—A,10,2

SOUTH
♠—4,3,2
♥—J,9,7,5
♦—7,5,3
♣—K,6,4

East dealt and bid two no-trumps. South passed. West bid three no-trumps and all passed.

South opened the ♥ 5, which North took with the Q. North then took in his ♥ A and his ♥ K. To the fourth trick he led the ♠ J, which East captured with the Q. East now led out his ♦ A and ♦ J, and then led the ♦ 4 to dummy's Q. Dummy now took in the ♦ K and then led the ♠ 7, which East took with the ♠ K. East then led out the ♠ A. This, of course, leaves East with the ♥ 10 and the ♣ A and 10. South holds the ♥ J and the ♣ K and 6. Dummy holds the ♣ Q and J and 9.

You see, of course, what East has done. He knew that South held the ♥ J. He, therefore, pulled all the spades and diamonds out of South's hand and then put South in with the heart. It made no difference who held the ♣ K. Clubs had to be led and the K would be trapped in either hand. As the hands lay, South being forced to take his ♥ J, led back the ♣ 6, which dummy took with the J and led the ♣ Q to declarer's A for three no-trumps bid and made.

We have given a great many elimination plays in these columns. Those of you who read them frequently and who have tried out these plays may have found out how many times finesses can be avoided and the play made sure and certain by the use of the elimination play.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Inferiority Feeling Sometimes Prompts Youngsters to Steal

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Yesterday we listed some of the reasons why children take things. Today we will list the more frequent reason, and some suggestions for the cure.

One of the principal reasons for youthful stealing is a desire to compensate for a feeling of inferiority. This may seem far-fetched at first glance. Many people feel the faddists are riding this hobby pretty hard, not realizing how widespread is the average person's lack of confidence. Poor school work, shabby clothes, weak physique, inability to "mix"—anything that tends to make a child feel inferior to his companions is compensated for by achieving importance in other ways.

Money to treat the crowd so he will be "one of them"; a new baseball bat or mitt for the boy who knows himself a poor athlete, so he will be popular; a pencil box or a fountain pen to give away for the little girl who is behind the class in her studies—anything is used in a desperate effort to achieve distinction in the eyes of the playmates or schoolmates or teacher. If stealing is necessary and the urge is great, then stealing it is.

When we discover that our child has been stealing, there are certain things we can do. First of all, we must not get too emotional over it. This beclouds our reason and confuses the child.

Also, it is well to remember that almost all of us have gone through this phase at some time in our lives. [If you don't believe it, just get started on the subject some time among a group of people. You'll find that the men will almost boast of it—realizing now how unimportant it was because they outgrew it so quickly.]

By precept and example instill in the child a respect for other people's things. Often it is well to have a child, if old enough, make restitution or partial restitution. But this must be handled very carefully. It might be well to first go alone to the person to explain the situation. Not, however, with little children.

But most important of all—knowing why the situation arose—try to prevent a repetition of it by supplying that lack the child was trying to fill. It may be by giving him even at a sacrifice the things that seem important to him if he is to hold his own with the crowd. It may be boxing gloves, or a little money all his own. It may be help with his studies so he can keep up to grade.

Doris Asks "Blondie" to Put Herself in Place of This Tragic Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"A few months ago I met a young man and we fell in love at first sight. BUT he is already married. His wife is in a T. B. sanitarium. We do not know if she ever will get well or not. One lung has collapsed. The other one is affected.

"The man's son is 10 months old; he is 24. I am 18, but know my own mind. He suggested that I write to you. BLONDIE."

Talk about man's inhumanity to man! It's woman's inhumanity to woman, these husband grabbing days, that terrorizes!

Picture yourself, "Blondie," as the wife in the sanitarium, with one lung gone, the other affected. You have a son 10 months old, motherless, virtually. He is left in the care of a father about whose worthiness as a parent we are entitled to our doubts. But as you are the woman in the case we'll deal with you first.

Because you ARE a woman, if we may be permitted to dignify you as such under the circumstances. At least, you were born to the title. Born to be a mother, perhaps. Of a 10 months old infant from whom to be parted would be an unbearable thought. That is, if you were a real mother and woman.

In addition to this heart torture, your body is racked with pain. You do not know whether you are going to live or die. You are insane with worry over what will become of that baby of yours. Your world is black as death. Your only consolation would be to know that your husband was standing by you in your terrible hour; that your infant was in the care of one who would never fail him.

Melodramatic? Not a bit! A few years hence who knows what torture of body and soul you might be suffering? And the one man in the world you would count on as your friend in need might be falling for the thoughtless, unscrupulous witcheries of a young blondie.

Old and Newest South Collide in This Novel

While an Old Major Depicts Difference.

"Weep No More," by Ward Greene. [Harrison Smith.] Published today.

"WEEP No More" is the third novel of Ward Greene's with a southern locale. The author says the characters are authentic though he has had necessarily to change their names. And the Atlanta that masquerades as Corinth and thinly disguised it is, furnishes the background for the action. This book, before publication, has aroused a great deal of comment from those who know the locale and its people. More than one incident is reported to be based on fact.

WARD GREENE.

The story concerns the disillusion-ridden upper bourgeois class and its futile attempts to extract some meaning out of life. In the words of the old major who speaks for the preceding generation: "But yesterday . . . they were youngsters, of the same age, of a like ancestry, a common breeding and a destiny that appeared sure. They would be as their fathers were and do as their fathers did . . . Yet they are not as we were. . . . They are at once harder and softer, stronger yet curiously weak. They dare all things and are satisfied by none. They go at life violently, yet how inevitably they seem to miss happiness! . . ."

The contrast between the old, gracious, easy living south of yesterday and the present day distraught, nervous south is constantly drawn in this book, not obviously, but through intimation. And the sophistication and cynicism that the characters affect are not in there heritage; they do not wear their disillusion convincingly even to themselves. Though these characters, as types, could appear in any part of the country and the action no doubt could occur anywhere in America, the author's differentiation between the sections is revealed in the typical social strata, in individualistic differences which the southerner still clings to, in social attitudes, and in a certain local pride that is distinct from northern pride.

The difference is perhaps most clearly and vividly seen in the character of Eloise who, though a southerner by birth, no longer claims emotional or intellectual affiliations with the south. Her sophistication and attitude toward life are gracefully and convincingly assumed, there is no conflict within her cynicism and the mode of the day is the mode she can easily and wholeheartedly adopt for her own purposes.

Again when the scene shifts to New York it is apparent what differences there are in the traditional social and cultural aspects of the two sections.

Sister Craycraft, the wife of a four-flusher and a cad, forgets her unavailing but passionate love for her husband in drink and laughter. Sister's best friend, Sally Chapman, is married happily to a solid, devoted, unimaginative man. Sally and her husband feel self-conscious in their contentment and make absurd attempts to join in the spirit of their cynical, gin-drinking friends. Fred Prentiss, a snivelling, pale-faced hanger-on is thankful for the crumbs that are thrown to him from the tables of the socially elect. Eppy Spurlock, whose tale is not unknown to the press, is a frumpy, lumpy, perspiring old maid who is in the last stages of acute neurosis. She imagines herself engaged to a young, handsome, wealthy man. When the showdown comes she manages it brilliantly as one would expect of a person whose mind was curiously sharpened by disease.

Into this group of pathetic people comes Eloise King from New York with a new attitude toward life. She is definitely a misfit and reveals the pettiness and the absorbing sureness of a sophistication that is distinct from the filmsy and essentially unfelt sophistication of her southern friends.

Like a breath of fresh air in a stuffy room appear the charming, sane, and unconventional Nancy and her husband. They have managed even when everything, including society and the law, has put them aside, to get some meaning and enjoyment out of life. The reader, however, has the uncomfortable feeling that this couple is used as a moral example.

All these characters are obvious products of the present age, and all except Nancy and her husband are afflicted in some form or other with the modern malady of restlessness, nervousness, and self-conscious discontent. The atmosphere of affected futility and disillusion is ably created, and not unhumorously. Now and again there are flashes of bitter satire that reveal in the author a not wholly sympathetic attitude toward the weaknesses of the characters. On the whole, the author sees his men and women and his situations calmly and tolerantly. But his realism is at times almost too close and too studied, too even toned. It misses breadth and depth and sweep by being close lipped and mincing. The characters seem two dimensional, not even fictional flesh and blood.

Ward Greene concludes his novel on the quasi-philosophical note. This was an unfortunate artistic decision on his part because the implications in the characters and in the experiences are varied and vivid enough to make the reader thoughtful.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!
She sang, she smiled, she frisked his dough
The girl who was known as "Panama Flo."
THEN, to S. A., with him did go
Because for an answer he'd not take "No."
But what of her lover, hi lee, hi lo . . . I Think you that he liked that status quo?
To his rival's camp flew Flo's angry beau
To rescue her from that brute so low!
BUT—the rescuer turned out to be—
No, No—
I mustn't tell that! Anyhow, in a row
He got a bullet in his torso. . . . .!
From tropics to New York events do blow
And a speakeasy backgrounds the ending. Woe
Is submerged in weal, for "Panama Flo"
And the man who, for long, she had thought a foe.

This melodram' is, in the main, intense
And packs quite a lot of keen suspense.
Direction and acting you'll think immense
And you'll like Flo and both her warring gents.
Also, the story shows right good sense.
The picture, I'd say, Fans, is worth your pence
If you've any left—after you've paid your rent-z.

David Kinley 1933 Fair's Agent in the Orient

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Dr. David Kinley, president emeritus of the University of Illinois, will sail from San Francisco Feb. 12 on the steamship President Coolidge for Japan, China, and the Philippine islands. There he will represent Chicago's Century of Progress exposition.

He was on the same mission last spring when Mrs. Kinley became ill and died in Shanghai, on April 28.

HUTCHINS CALLS U. C.'S NEW TEACHING PLAN SUCCESSFUL ALREADY

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—(AP)—High school students were told here today by Dr. Robert M. Hutchins that the University of Chicago plans to waive the usual entrance requirements for freshmen.

"The University of Chicago," said the 33 year old president of the institution, "proposes to give high schools the same freedom it arrogates to itself. The imposing of entrance requirements by colleges upon high school teaching has no place in this freedom.

"We propose to accept from the high schools students who have the recommendations of their instructors as being eager to learn, able to learn, not merely passers of examinations in this, that, and the other course of a conformed system."

Dr. Hutchins said the 700 freshmen at the University of Chicago are "eating up" the new plan under which they may attend classes when they please and "take it or leave it in the matter of prescribed courses."

"We not only have more freshmen from a wider area of the country," he said, "but we are attracting better men."

He explained a freshman is permitted to go into advanced work after he convinces the authorities at a general examination "he has come to college not to play, not to advance his social position, but because he really desires to learn and is learning."

Girls Will Give Dance to Promote School Book

To raise money for their annual, the Scholastican, the seniors of St. Scholastica School for Girls, 7416 Ridge boulevard, will hold a card party in the Michigan room of the Edgewater hotel on Friday evening, Feb. 5, from 5 to 8 p. m. The card party will be followed by a dance in the Marine dining room.

MISS MOCKENHAUP

Miss Emily Jane Mockenhaup, business manager of the Scholastican, is in charge of arrangements. The Scholastican is being edited this year by Miss Margaret Simon, '32, and Miss Mary Geiger, '33. Other members of the staff are Miss Mary Ellen Schwalbert, Miss Dorothy Goodman, and Miss Betty Boecher.

Tempers Good if Food Is, Too, Woman Argues

Tells Canners Budgets Are Better Made.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

CONFESSION that housewives are trying to keep their husbands in pleasant humor by good catering was made by Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, club member, before the National Canners' association at the Stevens hotel yesterday. She addressed the home economics conference.

Mrs. Fribley is chairman of the American home department of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the home economics committee of the Woman's City club.

"Many women think they can control their budget better by buying canned foods, as they can judge quantity and servings more exactly," she said. "Perhaps you canners don't know it, but we're trying to give our husbands more and better food than ever before for less money. Men take a lot of pampering these days that they didn't get before."

How far canning has progressed as a science was evident in the discussion of the enzymes in a vegetable cell. E. F. Kohman of Washington, of the research laboratories of the National Canners' association, urged the canners to consider that peas shelled by viners should not be stored for long. He pointed to the bruises inflicted on the peas by the viner, saying that every bruise meant a ruptured vegetable cell, and that every rupture meant the letting loose of "rampant enzymes."

The enzymes, which are "substances which bring about or regulate all life processes," he said, consume an abnormally small amount of oxygen when they go on such a spree, with the result that ordinary alcohol and acetaldehyde are given off.

If the pea, bruised or not, is boiled for about 1 minute, then cooled, this rampant activity of the enzymes is prevented and the vegetable develops no off flavors, he said.

H. B. Hammerslag, Grand Rapids, Mich., at the meeting of the baked bean section in the morning, told of the new photo electric bean sorting machine which doesn't let a single dark or imperfect bean by. None but the well developed bean may pass successfully before the photo tube, which establishes a certain light value and so judges them, he said.

Before the machine even sees them the beans are cleaned five times after delivery by the farmers.

New York's 42d St. Tries to Overcome Bowery Appearance

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Forty-second street, famous in song and tradition as the "crossroad of the world" has degenerated into an old time bowery and today the reputable merchants and shopkeepers along its sordid way are seeking new city ordinances to bring back its glamor and legitimate business.

From the Hudson where it absorbs New Jersey's commutor loaded ferryboats to a point near the East river where it dives into a stone wall, Forty-second street is on the decline.

Burlesque shows, shooting galleries, flea circuses and cut rate movie houses crowd the block between Seventh and Eighth avenues. Across Broadway toward Fifth avenue auction rooms, fire sale shops, painless dentist signs and Turkish baths stand brick to brick with some of the oldest and best known stores and shops in Manhattan.

Bryant park has become a gathering place for the city's tramps, bums and beggars and of late the communists have been using it as a sort of proving ground. Over toward the Hudson river, Forty-second street never did put on airs. The warehouses and stables of the vicinity kept the atmosphere so laden with odors that about all the street was good for was to serve as a thoroughfare.

A committee of the Forty-second Street Property Owners and Merchants' association went to court yesterday in an effort to shut down two burlesque houses—at least on Sundays. Magistrate Jonah J. Goldstein in West Side court dismissed the complaints, ruling that the acts were the "same as performed in all other vaudeville houses" and were not in violation of the law.

The nude posters and suggestive signs outside the burlesque theaters have been growing more daring day by day and have attracted an undesirable type of trade to that section of the famous old street that once went in for carriage customers and still later drew long lines of limousines to its theater doors.

The legitimate business men have called a meeting of merchants tomorrow to lay plans to "clean up 42d street from river to river." Edward W. Forres, secretary of the association, said his organization objected not only to the businesses that have "brought the Bowery and Coney Island to Times square," but to the numerous sidewalk peddlers and auction rooms that "misrepresent" goods and evade the law requiring closing at sundown, illegal signs, sightseeing buses and "all the unethical and disreputable businesses that are bringing the greatest crosstown artery of the city into disrepute."

HAL ROACH REACHES LIMA WITH PLANE; BREAKS SOME RECORDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 27.—Hal Roach and Arthur Loew, of movie fame, with Capt. James R. Dickson piloting Roach's plane, flew 600 miles from the port of Talara to Lima today in approximately three and one-half hours, establishing a new speed record between these two points and, incidentally, establishing a record as the first privately owned plane to reach this part of the world.

From Panama to Talara they made two landings on hard sandy beaches along the tropical Colombian and Ecuadorian coasts. The salient feature of their trip since leaving the United States, according to Roach, was the amazing speed and comfort with which they have passed through Latin America from the Rio Grande south to Lima.

Roach said the only difficulty encountered was keeping Loew awake while the mountains, jungles, and southern seas flashed like cinema sequences below them.

The plane was due to reach Lima yesterday, but the refusal of the wheel gear to operate efficiently slowed the plane's speed down to 40 miles an hour.

Tomorrow the plane will attempt a one day flight from Lima to Santiago, Chile. After a visit to the east coast the flyers may return via the west coast. They are investigating the demand for Spanish talking pictures in Latin America.

Quiet Birthday for Ex-Kaiser as Doorn Exile

As Royalist Press Hails Him as Emperor.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, 73 years old today, had the quietest birthday since his exile began.

None of his relatives who live in Germany, not even the former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, came to Doorn, nor did Princess Hermine's children cross the German border to felicitate their step-father.

"His majesty's recent attack of bronchitis makes it necessary for him to take special care of himself," said his adjutant, Baron Ulrich von Sell; "this fact, besides the sorrow over the death of his sister, Queen Sophie of Greece, made it desirable to suggest that no relatives come to Doorn this year.

"I am happy to say, however, that the emperor's health continues to improve and that the kaiser was able to take an automobile ride this morning."

Even the traditional "Hohenzollern weather" was lacking and the day was bleak and foggy.

Princess Hermine's youngest daughter, now 13 and known in the Doorn household as "the general" because she manages everybody who lives there, was the first to greet Wilhelm at breakfast.

Later the Rev. Walter Richter, once the court preacher at Berlin, came to lead the morning devotions which usually are conducted by the former emperor. Afterward Wilhelm and Hermine carried flowers into the room which used to be occupied by the Empress Augusta Victoria.

There was a comparatively simple birthday dinner at noon at which Hermine proposed his majesty's health, a function usually performed by the crown prince.

The adjutant said the number of congratulatory telegrams and letters was greater today than on any previous birthday.

"World War Not Ended."

BERLIN, Jan. 27. — (AP) — Former Kaiser Wilhelm II., now an exile at Doorn, Holland, was 73 years old today.

The chief notice taken here of what was once Germany's grandest holiday was in the Nationalist press, which devoted more space than usual to felicitating "his majesty," referring to the need for a "firm hand" in Germany at the present moment and recalling the days of the empire.

The newspaper Reichsbote said the former emperor's exile, as well as the reparations problem, "is a perpetual reminder that the world war is not ended." It added, "May God bless and protect the kaiser and give him years of health and joy."

The Kreuzzeitung accorded similar felicitations under the caption: "Hoch der Kaiser!"

Eulogizing him as "the king of kings," former Gen. August von Cramon said there was no better evidence of the need of the firm hand of the monarchy than the present difficulty of extending the term of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Carl Bosch, head of the internationally known magneto firm, expressed his gratitude for the part the Hohenzollerns played in raising German industry to eminence. The Deutsche Zeitung said the notion of monarchy is reviving, particularly among youths, because of "the failure of the democratic system to put the best men at the top."

GENEVA, Jan. 27.—Former King Alfonso of Spain is still at Murren and passes the time walking in the snow with his daughter, Maria Cristiana, now well after a severe attack of influenza.

After reading the morning papers every day he leaves on skis with a guide.

The Journal Democraté says one day when the former ruler fell in the snow through a false step, he remarked to the guide: "There, my dear guide, this is what happened to me at Madrid as the result of a political faux pas."

Ex-Kaiser Sends Decorations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Decorations of silver and gold with bright heavy silk ribbons tied to them were distributed on behalf of the dethroned kaiser of Germany in his former capital, in celebration of his 73d birthday, as they used to be given out in the days of imperial splendor.

CONSULAR DANCE

MRS. M. H. EHLERT.

[Grinsted Photo.]

Mrs. M. H. Ehlert, wife of the consul of Chili, is a member of the committee of arrangements for the fourth anniversary dinner dance to be given by the Ladies of the Consuls of Chicago on Saturday, Feb. 6, at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Mrs. Ehlert is known as Fay Ehlert, author of "The Undercurrent," prize winning play in the national Little Theater contest held several years ago.

THE STAGE

BEATRICE LILLIE has been engaged for one of the leading rôles in Bernard Shaw's new play, "Too Good to Be True," which is now on the spring schedule of the Theater Guild. This will mark her debut in drama. She will have the rôle of a lady known as "Sweetie," whose accomplishments range from practical nursing to burglary. Hope Williams, an actress of high life comedies who was recently given the rank of a star by Arthur Hopkins, will also be prominent in the cast.

Cornelia Otis Skinner's engagement at the Studebaker theater in "Wives of Henry VIII." and other character sketches has been so well received that it will be continued through next week. A contract for an appearance in St. Louis will not permit her to play on Friday night, Feb. 5, but an extra matinée will be given on Thursday to compensate.

Her program for next week, in addition to "Wives of Henry VIII." will contain, at the night performances, "An American Girl on a French Telephone," "On a Beach at Barbados," "Homework," "Aftermath," and "Sailing Time." At the matinées she will give: "The Eve of Departure," "In a Gondola," "A Lady Explorer," "At Monte Carlo," and "Motoring in the '90s."

The management of the Adelphi theater has changed its mind about offering Eugene O'Neill's "All God's Chillun Got Wings" to follow Ben-Ami in "Samson and Delilah." The playhouse will be closed, after Ben-Ami's departure next Saturday night, until another booking can be secured. Ben-Ami will go to Detroit to appear in a revival of "Payment Deferred," the English melodrama in which Charles Laughton's acting was highly praised.

Lew Leslie, the impresario of "Rhapsody in Black," will take his company to Paris when the current engagement at the Garrick theater ends. He has signed a contract with Baron Rothschild, owner of the Theatre Pigalle, for an engagement there for a Chicago Première next season. In May. Visits to London, Berlin, and Brussels will follow.

Mr. Leslie plans to stage a revue for a Chicago première next season. It will bear the title of "The Beggar's Revue."

The matinée performance of the "Ziegfeld Follies" at the Illinois theater next Wednesday will be for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America. The gross receipts will be donated to this charity. . . . "Fata Morgana" announces an expansion of its schedule at the Harris theater to include Sunday night performances.

Colonies' Peace Plea to King Up for Auction

It's Dated After Concord, Lexington Fights.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—John Hancock's flourish, which stands out so boldly on the declaration of independence, is just as stoutly affixed to the "olive branch" petition to George III., a copy of which will be sold at public auction here tomorrow night.

This copy, which was signed by 45 members of the second continental congress at Philadelphia in 1775, including 25 who signed the declaration of independence a year later, is the property of George C. W. Fitzwilliam of Milton, Peterborough, England, and recently was found at Milton by its present owner.

The petition is described by Randolph G. Adams, custodian of the William L. Clements library at Ann Arbor, Mich., as "virtually the last official effort of the united colonies to head off the American revolution. Lexington, Concord, and Bunker Hill already had been fought.

The second continental congress had assembled in Philadelphia to decide what should be done next. On June 10, 1775, John Adams of Massachusetts, delegate to congress, wrote his friend, Moses Gill, in Cambridge: "I find the general sense abroad is, to prepare for a vigorous defensive war, but at the same time to keep open the door of reconciliation; to hold the sword in one hand and the olive branch in the other."

Thus the petition to the king to call off his minions came to be known as the "olive branch." It was ordered engrossed and signed on July 8, 1775, and Richard Penn was sent to London with one copy, while a duplicate was forwarded in another ship.

Penn and Arthur Lee sent Lord Dartmouth of the colonial office a "copy" by post on Aug. 21, retaining the "original" to present to the king. The "copy," which is unsigned, is probably the one still in the Dartmouth family archives at Patshull. In September Penn and Lee handed the "original" to Dartmouth, but were told that the king would not receive it. This signed copy is in the public records office in London.

Several explanations have been offered as to how the paper to be auctioned came into the possession of the Fitzwilliam family, which at the time of the revolution was intimately associated with figures involved in the colonial war and in a position to come into possession of such a document. It was the practice at that time to make several copies of an important paper to forward by different carriers to avoid loss at sea or in war.

The "olive branch," of seven pages, was written by John Dickinson of Pennsylvania, author of the famous "Farmer's Letters," and among the signers were John Hancock, Samuel Adams, John Adams, John Jay, Benjamin Franklin, Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee, and Thomas Jefferson.

Hospital Burdens Grow During Depression; 'Can't Reduce Rates'

The depression, instead of making it possible for hospitals to reduce their rates, has increased their financial burden, members of the Chicago Hospital association held yesterday in a meeting at the Hotel Sherman. They explained that while the Cook County hospital and charity wards have been overcrowded during the last year, the so-called private hospitals have had their beds only 58 per cent occupied, due to inability of patients to pay for hospitalization.

A reduction of rates is impossible, the representatives present held. Some of them pointed out that in providing increased services at no increase in rates the hospitals have in effect reduced rates during the last ten years.

The association passed a resolution in support of the American Hospital association's plan for coöperating with veterans' organizations for convenient hospitalization of world war veterans at low cost.

Most U. of Ill. Students Stick to College Work

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Contrary to common belief, fewer students have withdrawn from the University of Illinois during the first semester of the present academic year than in any year since 1926, according to figures released by G. P. Tuttle, registrar. Up to the present time 318 students have withdrawn, compared with 404 a year ago and 455 two years ago. The percentage of withdrawals is 2.96 of the total registration this semester, the smallest since 1927-28. Then the percentage was 4.21.

SOCIETY NEWS AND FASHIONS OF THE DAY

Churchill Talks Here on Feb. 7; That's Busy Day

Arts Club to Have Spanish Evening.

SUNDAYS in town are apt to be rather dull at this time of year for so many of society go to the country for week-ends, but Feb. 7 will be far from dull for two of the most interesting affairs of the season are to take place that day, Winston Spencer Churchill's postponed Town Hall lecture in the afternoon and Vicente Escudero's dance recital at the Arts club that evening.

Mr. Churchill, who will not be accompanied to Chicago by Lady Churchill or Miss Diana, unfortunately for those Chicagoans who hoped to meet the Englishwomen or renew acquaintance with them, will be the guest of the Robert R. McCormicks during his stay—he will be here Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of next week—and Mrs. McCormick plans to do some entertaining for him, but just what it will be she is not sure, and probably won't be until after she sees him when he is in Chicago next Tuesday just for the day and finds out how "fit" he is after the accident in New York in December which upset him and his lecture tour. Samuel Insull will introduce Mr. Churchill to the lecture audience in Orchestra hall, and the British consul general, Godfrey Haggard, will be among those seated on the platform with Mr. Churchill. Among those who will have box parties for the lecture are the McCormicks, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Robert E. Peacock, Mrs. H. G. B. Alexander, Mrs. John H. Merrell, Mrs. Royden Keith, Mrs. William E. Vogelback, and Mrs. Herbert Markham.

Supper will be served at 7:30 o'clock at the Arts club preceding the dance recital, which will start at 9. Escudero, the Spanish gypsy who is making his first American appearances this season, is supposed to be as fine a Spanish dancer as La Argentina and he has been creating quite a sensation in New York recently, so undoubtedly the Arts club members will make the party at which he dances a great success from the standpoint of attendance—it will be up to the artist to complete the success, won't it?

American Opera Society Also to Meet Feb. 7.

Another affair which promises to be interesting is also scheduled for the afternoon of the 7th, an open meeting of the American Opera society, to be held at 3 o'clock at the Fortnightly. The program will be excerpts from "Jack and the Beanstalk," by John Erskine and Louis Gruenberg, which recently had its world premier at the New York Juilliard musical foundation. This will be its first hearing in Chicago. The artists participating are the 22 members of the Chicago Philharmonic singers, with Willard Rhodes as narrator-pianist.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling are giving a dinner tonight at their residence in Winnetka for a former Winnetkan, Mrs. John P. Hazen Perry of New York, who is visiting the William B. Hales in Winnetka. Mrs. Laird Bell is giving a luncheon at the Casino before the symphony concert tomorrow for Mrs. Perry, and tomorrow night Mrs. Dudley Cates of Winnetka will entertain at dinner. Saturday Mrs. Francis P. Butler will give a tea and that night the Victor Eltings will be dinner hosts for the popular Mrs. Perry. Next week she will be the guest of the James B. Forgans in Lake Forest.

A number of Winnetkans were present at a most interesting impromptu party Monday night when Mme. Conchita Supervia went home with the Mellen Martins for supper after her concert in New Trier High school. The Martins' house on the corner of Rosewood and Pine is one of the most unusual on the north shore, being a true reproduction of an Andalusian farm house. Mme. Supervia was elated at seeing and being in such an attractive reminder of her native land and she invited Mr. and Mrs. Martin to go to New York next week for a concert she is giving on the 7th and for a large reception afterwards at the Waldorf. Mrs. Martin, who has studied dancing in Spain several times, was persuaded to dance, and all in all, the party was voted a huge success by those who were there.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings Directing Dress Sale.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is in charge of the home dressmakers' sale to be held today at the White Elephant Rummage shop, but she has delegated her committee members to manage things at the shop during the afternoon, when fifty members of the Children's Memorial Hospital Junior auxiliary will meet at her home for a buffet luncheon. We imagine there will be some sort of pep talk at the luncheon, for afterwards all of the guests will go forth to solicit donations of white elephants from shops and department stores.

This morning at 11 o'clock Allan Scott of the Theater Guild will lecture before the Chicago Drama league in Fullerton hall of the Art institute on "Mourning Becomes Electra."

Mrs. Eunice Tietjens Head and Cloyd Head will be guests of the Cordon club at a tea tomorrow afternoon. They will speak on their recent travels in the South Sea islands.

The Junior Friends of Art at their next meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the Illinois Women's Athletic club will hear two groups of songs by Mrs. Andrew R. Sheriff and a lecture by Julian Arnold on "Royalties" [meaning personages, we presume—not earnings].

We received a note yesterday introducing to us a new word, dramaticale, and telling us about a morning dramaticale Alice Baxter-Mitchell of New York and Indianapolis will appear in on April 6 at the Blackstone for which several well-known Chicago women are on the committee, including Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson and Mrs. Edward F. Swift. Mrs. Mitchell will read George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan."

The comings and goings of the Edward Clark Crossett family are so varied that it's difficult to check them on the society editor's daybook. They are planning now to close their Lake Shore drive residence tomorrow and to scatter about the map in their customary energetic fashion.

Mr. and Mrs. Crossett and their daughter, Miss Ruth Crossett, are going west to visit Mrs. Crossett's mother, Mrs. James A. Rankin, in Pasadena. Miss Betty Crossett, who resides in New York a good part of the year, is now on her way to join her family by way of the Panama canal. She and her mother will spend about three weeks in California and then come across the country again to sail for Europe.

Meanwhile Mr. Crossett and Miss Ruth will stay on in California for the rest of the winter, so the family probably will not be back in Chicago until just before their departure in the late spring for their summer residence at Wianno, Mass. There Ruth's marriage to Edward S. French will take place in June. No doubt Mrs. Crossett will do some trousseau shopping for her daughter in Paris.

Oriental Talks, Dances Charm Chicago Hearers.

International relations blossomed with positive sweetness at the delightful program of Japanese music given in Fullerton hall yesterday afternoon under the joint auspices of the Japan-America society and "The Orientals." Everybody seemed to agree with Charles Fabens Kelley, who made an introductory talk in the absence of Russell Tyson, president of "The Orientals," and Charles H. Chandler, the Japan-America presiding officer, when he opined that at this particular time, "when every nation seems to look askance at every other nation," it is especially desirable for us to have a glimpse at the cultural and artistic side of life in Japan.

The young Japanese consul, Yoshio Muto, introduced the players and gave the audience explanatory summaries before each number on the program. The four players, all looking in their colorful native garb like figures on a Japanese screen, presented vocal, musical, and dance selections that seemed to charm the audience. The music was sweet and plaintive.

Chicago Art Show Opens at Institute

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE thirty-sixth annual exhibition by artists of Chicago and vicinity opens this afternoon in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. At the dinner given last night to the artists by the museum the prize awards were announced, but they may not be made public until three o'clock this afternoon when the exhibit is thrown open.

Two hundred and sixteen paintings are hung and there are twenty-eight pieces of sculpture. For the first time in years the sculpture is a negligible part of the exhibition. Although the tone of the paintings as a whole is moderate, it is the modernist canvas which predominates.

Mexico is very much in vogue. There opened yesterday in the Knoedler galleries an exhibit of water colors by Eric Mose, a Chicago painter, whose art is sculptural. His color is solid; his figures are substantial. His is a robust, primitive art that is resonantly matter of fact. His most remarkalite quality is his ability to portray movement. Echoes of the Volga Boat song lurk in the advancing figures in "Cargadores De Arena." "Canal De Santa Anna" is alive with the pull of bodies as two men pole themselves upstream. The monumental, archaic, sculptural nature of these paintings is the more unique because Mr. Mose's medium is water color, a medium generally related to lighter and more fragile pictures.

In the larger gallery at Knoedler's are oils by George Josimovich, another Chicagoan. Josimovich paints with a feverish knife. His color is thick, abrupt, aggressive. His paint lies on the canvas in rebellious swirls. He has checked to a great degree the animated worm that used to be as characteristic a part of his composition as the triangle was of Emil Armin, but still his paint is rough and vibrant with a restless unease. The "Flounder" is the calmest of these pictures.

RENEE THORNTON, ITALIAN DUKE WED IN NEW YORK RITES

Of interest to Chicagoans who know the bride is the announcement of the marriage yesterday in New York of Renée Thornton to Duke Fabio Carafa d'Andria, which took place at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of Notre Dame.

Miss Yvonne Dufour was the bride's attendant and the duke's cousin, Barone Luigi Filippo Marincola was best man. Albert de Chiara and Carlyle Prindle were the witnesses, and the others at this unusual Catholic ceremony, which united two divorced people, were Baroness Marincola, Mrs. Carlyle Prindle, Mrs. De Chiara, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prindle, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Hadley, and Mrs. Ernest Bauman.

The bride formerly was the wife of Richard Hageman, conductor and composer, and was a concert singer. She is a descendant of Mathew Thornton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The duke is the eldest son of Duke Carlo Maria Carafa d'Andria, whose family has given to Italy since 1020, numerous kings, warriors, cardinals and statesmen, and in 1455 Gian Pietro Carafa was elected pope under the name of Paul the Fourth. The duke served in the world war and was decorated with the war cross, the Order of the Crown of Italy and other medals. He came to this country in 1926 and since 1928 has been in business in New York. Next Monday the newly married couple will hold a reception at their residence, 113 East 61st street.

Prairie Club's Dance Saturday at Auditorium

The Prairie club will hold its annual banquet and costume party Saturday evening, Feb. 6, in the ballroom of the Auditorium hotel. Old fashioned and modern dancing will follow the dinner, and prize photographs from the annual contest of the club will be exhibited.

Raisa, Rimini Sing to Help Future Stars

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE joint recital by Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini at Orchestra hall last night was given for the benefit of the Mme. Raisa's scholarship fund which has given and is giving a number of talented young musicians training in the art both here and in Europe. But it had a musical significance of its own which gave it an independent basis as a musical event.

For Mme. Raisa during a number of seasons past has been one of the glories of the Civic Opera company, and her voice was never more glorious than this season in opera and last night in recital. One seldom hears such thrilling opulence of tone, and in addition to the tone there is a suspicion that she knows quite as much, if not more, than any one else in the company about Mozart singing. The duet, "La ci darem la mano," from "Don Giovanni," sung as one of the encores with Mr. Rimini, is an example.

She sang old works, recent works, and a group of songs in English, in which the compositions of two Chicagoans, Olga Menn's "Lullaby" and Leeds Mitchell's "Twilight" took prominent positions. At all times there was an extraordinary luster to her singing.

Mr. Rimini, while singing two groups less than Mme. Raisa, fully shared her popularity and rightly so. His voice was brilliant and free, and he had the insight of a musician. Handel's "Come and Trip It" was an example of uncommonly good singing of a former school of music.

Singing their solos individually they also appeared several times jointly in duets. The house was crowded and enthusiastic to a degree.

Youngest Set Has Its Smart Vehicles, Too

As May Be Seen Along Lake Shore Drive.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

TIME was when children were easy to satisfy, but today, never! The little darlings, quite aware that sunshine is nature's first lieutenant and ever so necessary to their health, demand even more fads and fancies in their strollers and perambulators than father in his motor car.

Yesterday's spring weather [it was nurses' day off, you will recall] brought out on the lake front a parade of young society matrons and the latest in carriages, imported and domestic. There were designs reflecting the ultimate in individuality and equipped with brakes and tires and handles, most nearly approaching perfection. It would seem that these mothers have already set their offspring on the road to adult smartness.

Perambulators, the term denotes their English origin, hold first place in popularity for infants a year and a half or under. Mrs. Albert Malcolm Post of 1242 Lake Shore drive had young Albert Malcolm Junior out yesterday in a shiny dark blue carriage complete with duco finish that may be easily wiped off storekeepers will point out, a chromium plated handle, ball bearing wheels, and four wheel hand brakes.

Young John Noyes was enjoying a sunning in his black English buggy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Noyes of 70 East Cedar street. Little Edith Walker Walrath, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Walrath of 6 East Scott street, was tucked in her smoke blue perambulator with a lovely squirrel robe, as was Teddy Bensinger III., out for an airing with his mother, Mrs. B. E. Bensinger of 20 East Cedar street.

For those tots beyond the infant class, but still under four years, the reed gocart or the park stroller is the fashionable conveyance. Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams of 1235 Astor street was observed yesterday with 20 months' old Mervyn in a smart dark blue stroller, and, by the way, blue is voted the very best color this season for any children's conveyance. Kyle Adams, now six and a half years, had a buggy of her own to take her doll family for an airing. Two year old Stanley Dixon Zaring, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaring, was riding in his blue go cart well protected by a smart plush robe.

Not content with being "pushed" young Joseph Monaghen III. was riding his bright read tricycle equipped with heavy rubber tires, brakes, and bell. Once in a while he allowed little Grace Gloria Dunbar, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Dunbar of 40 East Oak street, to hop on the back for a short trip. Young Joseph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Monaghen Jr. of 70 East Walton place. Another cycle enthusiast noticed yesterday was little Benjamin K. Edwards Jr. whose family resides at 999 Lake Shore drive.

STYLES FOR WOMEN WILL DRAW BUYERS TO CHICAGO NEXT MONTH

Hundreds of reservations for the Chicago market week opening Feb. 1 received at the Association of Commerce indicates that approximately 6,000 buyers from the middle west will descend upon the city at that time for inspection of the wholesalers' stocks and the fashion revue. The latter event, which will feature the week, will be staged in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman and will include costumes produced by some of the largest Chicago wholesalers of women's ready to wear.

Among the forty models engaged for the occasion will be a number of juveniles, and the garments to be displayed will include everything from formal wear to afternoon and street dresses and suits, business ensembles, pajamas, bathing suits, coats, and millinery. There will be three performances of the style revue, respectively on Feb. 1, 2, and 3, with an anticipated attendance each evening of from 1,200 to 2,000 buyers.

Oney A. Fink is in charge of the fashion show, assisted by Miss Theresa Fink, editor of the Chicago's National Market magazine.

Business sessions of the market week will begin on Tuesday with a noon meeting, at which George W. Rossetter, new president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Frederick H. Scott, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., will be the speakers. At the Wednesday sessions speeches will be given by Fred P. Mann Jr., president of the Interstate Merchants' council; Clyde O. Bedell of Butler Brothers, and D. H. Steele, vice president of Wilson Brothers.

Special rates will be available on the railroads for the event to members of the Interstate Merchants' council.

Paris Fashion Groups Divide on Skirt Length

Shorter for the Spring, Says One Faction.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—There is a skirt-length war ablaze in the style world today. A widely known house displayed longer skirts in direct refutation of the houses advocating skirts two inches shorter for spring wear.

Skirts of the street costumes were nine and ten inches from the ground; afternoon frocks were six to eight inches from the floor, and dinner gowns were ankle length.

Cottons today were conspicuous by their absence. Soft openwork wools, dull silk crêpe and georgettes were universally displayed.

New, blended colors were tomato red, pansy blue, gray green, cerise red, chalk pink, and bisque beige.

The silhouette remained straight. Sleeves lost the swaggering line noticeable the last winter, adopting modified shoulder puffs, elbow accents, and lower arm puffs.

Beaded and silken embroidery buttons were widely used.

A tomato red wool dress embroidered with gold beads at the drop shoulder line was finished with gold buttons in front. A sapphire blue wool, embroidered with white wool forget-me-nots, was studded with white bone buttons from shoulders to wrists on the sleeves.

Zebra stripes in all colors, used all ways, were outstanding.

COIFFURES FIT HATS

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Coiffures this winter are moulded to suit the smart hat. Millinery is so very revealing, with half of the head exposed, that the way the hair is worn becomes of paramount importance.

Agnès and Antoine, the milliner and coiffeur, formed a combine at the beginning of the season and between them harmonized the one side hat with the hair. The result was a Frenchified wind blown bob that closely resembled the haircut of the glorious Bonaporte.

Now, however, that hats have gone Florentine and are taken from the little velvet caps painted so charmingly by the artists of the renaissance, the straight and straggly wind blown bob doesn't fit. Curls are imperative, and new coiffures with ringlets and waves are being concocted by all the French hairdressers.

The most striking and most successful of the new ringlet coiffures is shown in our sketch in the center. The hair is cut quite short and a roll of ringlets turns up all along the upside of the hat. The sketch shows you clearly how this is done. Below the roll the tresses are loosely waved with the ends curved up. This coiffure was created by M. Krah.

Observe how perfectly it suits Agnès' Florentine hat shown at the top and bottom of the sketch. This hat is made of brown velvet with a tam crown and is trimmed with a bow of coral velvet ribbon.

"DIRTY FACE" Ends Happiness

Happiness that is born of social success. Self confidence. Admiring friends. A clean skin has a great deal to do with such happiness, yet only one skin out of a hundred is really clean! The rest of them suffer from "Dirty Face."

A shocking word, dirt. But no other can truthfully describe the condition. For dirt clings tenaciously to the tiny openings of the skin, stretching them, inviting infection, robbing the skin of its youth.

Only a different, balanced cream can correct it. Only Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cold Cream can give the skin the three essentials it must have — lubrication, moisture and protection — and give them all in one application, in one cream. If you have the many-cream habit, you'll find it more economical, convenient, and doubtless more fruitful in the end to let this one complete cream replace them all. Get a jar and start today.

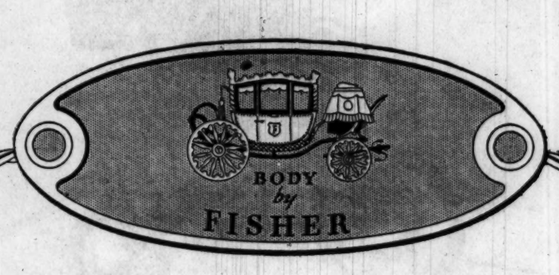
DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

The Evolution of a Famous Crest



A quarter of a century ago a little group of craftsmen conceived the idea of luxurious motor car transportation—closed car comfort for everyone, the year 'round. It was a daring thought in those early days of automobile manufacture. Yet it was destined to change the whole course of the motor car industry.

It marked the birth of—Body by Fisher.

Since then, the fixed purpose of Fisher Body Corporation has resulted in progress which has set a pace for the entire industry. Innovations have been followed closely by improvements—and improvements have been followed by refinements—in a steady march toward perfection.

It was only natural for the Fisher Body Corporation to seek, early in its existence, an insignia whereby its products might be immediately identified by everyone. An appropriate symbol of Fisher ideals was found in the Napoleonic coach, exemplifying the finest artistry of its time. To form the Fisher crest, a silhouette of this famous coach was combined with the identifying phrase—Body by Fisher.

—Merely three words, but accepted in every land as definite assurance of value founded upon quality.

—Merely the silhouette of a Napoleonic coach, yet instantly recognized today in every corner of the civilized world.

—Merely a device, totally unknown twenty-five years ago, but today the buying guide for millions of motor car purchasers who seek the ultimate in distinguished coachcraft.

Now this noted mark is being slightly altered, in keeping with the grace and beauty of today's Fisher Bodies. In its new background, though retaining its familiar, basic idea, it is enhanced in beauty, easier to find—and in even closer harmony with the distinguished character of the new Bodies by Fisher.

The change in the Fisher crest is significant of important advances and refinements in these new Fisher Bodies. In beauty they surpass all previous Fisher accomplishments as a creator of styles. Adding to comfort are improved seat construction, new roominess, better ventilation and simplified seat adjustment. Clear, unobstructed vision has been provided for passengers and driver as well. In every phase, these new Bodies by Fisher provide value so outstanding that you confidently can make the new emblem of Body by Fisher your guide in the selection of your automobile.

You will find this new interpretation of Fisher's famous crest on every General Motors car—Cadillac, La Salle, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Chevrolet. For General Motors cars are the only cars with Body by Fisher. All General Motors cars with new Bodies by Fisher will be on display January thirtieth to February sixth, inclusive, at the Special General Motors Showing in the Stevens Hotel.

GOTTSELIG'S TWO GOALS DEFEAT DETROIT, 2-1

CHICAGO FIRST! WRIGLEY WAS A HOME TOWNER

Bought Cubs to Win Honors for City.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—A week or so ago I received a request for information from a young author who wished to write a biography of William Wrigley Jr. for a magazine. He was well equipped to write this piece, except that he had never met his subject and didn't know any more about him than most people knew. Always glad to see a young author make a few dollars, I would have supplied the desired information but for the fact that I happened never to have met Mr. Wrigley either, and knew him only by reputation.

But did Ludwig know Napoleon?

Mr. Wrigley was a rich man who retained to his dying day his belief that a champion ball club brought honor and glory to the city on which it was based, even though there might not be a player on the team with a legitimate residence in the town. He was also intensely loyal to his town, a sort of loyalty which is pretty widely low rated these days.

Spends Millions on Cubs.

Nevertheless he was a Chicagoan to the same extent that a Frenchman is a Frenchman. So, when his business was completely developed, a prodigy of management and advertising, dealing in a nonessential commodity which sells for a nickel at retail in good times and bad, be bought the Cubs and made a vow to bring a world series championship to Chicago.

He spent millions of dollars trying, and though he also took in millions of dollars in the course of this attempt, the question whether he spent more than he earned has nothing to do with the case. Offhand I should say that he must have made some money on the Cubs, one way and another, but the fact remains that that wasn't his object. He thought it would be a great thing for Chicago to have a world series champion team, and if the spending of some more money could have achieved this without stifling the competitive element in baseball, he would have spent the money.

Hertz Has Same Idea.

There are some other rich Chicago men of similar mind. John Hertz, the taxicab magnate, who was a sport department office boy in the newspaper business and then a fight manager, came by his opinion of the importance of sport quite naturally. His sport now is horse racing, and he thinks a great horse track, second to no other horse track in the world, will confer lasting good on his home town. That is his primary interest in the Arlington Park track in Chicago, a plant which cost millions of dollars and from which the backers have agreed to take no profits.

George Getz, the retired coal magnate, is another such. For a long time it has been a hobby of Mr. Getz to collect aoudads, gnus, emus and other outlandish beasts and wild fowl from unfrequented portions of the earth and confine them in a private zoo for his own pleasure and the amusement of his neighbors. Then, a few years ago, having time on his hands and, of course, plenty of money, Mr. Getz chanced into the big clumsy arena in the Philadelphia World's Fair grounds of a very rainy night to watch Gene Tunney raise a big, purple egg plant on Jack Dempsey's left eye for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Getz Converted to Boxing.

Mr. Getz looked around at all the people and thought of all the newspaper publicity which was carrying the Philadelphia date line that night and decided that the best thing he could do for Chicago would be to bring the return match to his home town. Mr. Getz did that one year later, and though I still doubt that the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Soldiers' field with its attendance of 100,000 and its receipts of not much less than $3,000,000 conferred any lasting prestige or spiritual or material benefit on Chicago, Mr. Getz sincerely thinks so.

That is why one still sees George Getz bobbing up at the more important prize fights and prize fight managers' conferences in New York to try to bid in a big one for Chicago. However, Mr. Getz is not such a spender as Mr. Wrigley was and Mr. Hertz is, so he has been trying to achieve his ends by less abrupt methods.

It has been a long time since I thought of any world series ball club as representing the city in which the operating corporation happened to do business. Among Mr. Wrigley's Cubs of 1929 who won the National league pennant but sorely disappointed him by losing the world series, there were Rogers Hornsby of Texas, Hack Wilson of West Virginia, Pat Malone of Milan, O., and so forth.

How Much Did City Gain?

With the exception of a slight monetary boom in the hotel and night club businesses, the immediate material benefits to a city of Chicago's great size and turnover, were too small to be calculated, because the out of town attendance must have been small considering the local demand for tickets. But Mr. Wrigley was not interested in profits from the team itself, so he could not have been interested in the incidental profits which the team's success might confer on other business men. He was a true believing fan and

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Johnny Gottselig, an invalid for two weeks, returned to the hockey wars in a great big way last night, celebrating his resumption of labor by scoring both of the goals through which the Blackhawks came from behind to beat the Detroit Falcons in an overtime contest, 2 to 1.

Johnny, still suffering from a shoulder injury received in the game with the Bruins here on Jan. 10, tied the count on a pass from Couture in 1:12 of the third period and he achieved the Chicago victory in 1:55 of the overtime span. This effort was a climax of a ring round rosie passing maneuver which gave Ripley and Couture assists. The Detroit score was made by Frank Carson in 14:10 of the first period.

The league circumstances attached to the game are full of statistics. So pardon us, please, while we set them down.

Meet in Detroit Tonight.

The Hawks and Falcons have played five games this season and, prior to last night's affair, each team had won two games on its home ice and each had scored a total of nine goals. Had the Falcons been able to maintain their early advantage they would have been able to go into a second place tie with the Hawks in the American division of the National league. The Falcons now have won 11 games to 10 for the Hawks but the four point advantage the Hawks now enjoy is due to ten ties as compared to only four for the Falcons.

The two teams left for Detroit immediately after the game, where tonight the Falcons will have a chance to protect their home ice success record against the Hawks.

The Falcons came out of the first period with a 1 to 0 lead, the result of Carson's goal, which was registered in 14:10. The session was right merry with neither side having an appreciable advantage until the Detroiters hung up their marker.

Falcons Bear Down.

The first penalty of the game was called on March after 14 minutes of play. The Falcons stepped on things immediately after, with four forwards working. Lewis passed to Carson on the right boards and Frank swerved to position at one side of the cage. He then sent a handsome angle shot which grazed Gardiner's boots and caught the left edge of the net by the desired eyelash. For some reason Lewis was not given credit for the obvious assist.

Though scoreless, the second period gave the customers plenty about which to cheer. At the outset o the session the entire Hawk floor staff, consisting of March, Cook, Holmes, Graham, and Abel, went into the Detroit defense zone and for three minutes gave the visitors much business and themselves a half dozen near scores, which do not count in the book, unfortunately.

Hawks Tie Score.

Big jams followed in rapid succession, especially after Emms had been put off the ice. Once when the puck was golfed out of Falcon danger with the Hawk defense on the wrong end of the ice, the spectators witnessed the unusual maneuver of Goalie Gardiner skating clear to the side boards to get the rubber out of reach of onrushing Detroit forwards.

It didn't take long for the Falcons' pronounced zeal in their offensive to get them into trouble after the start of the third period. With Boucher in the box serving a hangover penalty, the Falcons moved in, leaving only Smith on defense. Couture got the puck out of a scramble and went down right ice with it until he crossed the blue line. He then passed straight across to Gottselig to foil Smith's rush and Gottselig skated right into the cage with the tying tabulation. Couture was credited with the assist and the time was announced as 1:12.

Then came the aforementioned overtime denouement.

Baseball to Pay Wrigley Last Tribute

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Baseball notables will be among those present at 4 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church when services will be held in memory of the late William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Cubs. The ceremony here will be simultaneous with the funeral services at Pasadena, Cal.

John Heydler, president of the National league, and Jacob Ruppert, the Yankees' owner, with whom Wrigley was associated in various enterprises, are expected to lead a delegation from the east. The American league will be represented by President William Harridge and Henry P. Edwards, and the White Sox by Louis Comiskey and Harry Grabiner.

The Cub delegation, besides Manager Rogers Hornsby, who will arrive this morning from St. Louis, will include William Walker and John Seys, vice presidents; Miss Margaret Donahue, secretary; Bob Lewis, traveling secretary; Andy Lotshaw, trainer, and members of the office staff. Gabby Hartnett, the only Cub regular known to be in the city, will be one of twelve appointed ushers. Commissioner Landis also will be present.

The passing of William Wrigley at Phoenix, Ariz., Tuesday morning marked the ninth death in a bit more than a year of men who were or had been prominent in baseball. The first was William Baker, owner of the Phillies, who died Dec. 4, 1930, during the minor leagues convention at Montreal. He was followed by Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pirates; Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American league; Byron Bancroft Johnson, founder and first president of the American league; Garry Herrmann, former owner of the Cincinnati Reds; James McAleer, ex-owner of the Boston Red Sox; Charles W. Murphy, former owner of the Cubs; Charles A. Comiskey, chief of the White Sox, and lastly Wrigley.

Another of the late William Wrigley's heretofore unpublished yarns of his lean days concerned the loss of a hat and railroad ticket. Years ago he was traveling westward and his straw hat and ticket blew out of a car window. Unsympathetic railroad men put him off the train at Kansas City. Faced with the necessity of raising funds he fell in with a fellow to whom he told his story. The newly found friend had a quantity of small articles which he wanted sold, so Wrigley agreed to try his luck. He sold enough to purchase a ticket for the remainder of the journey, not to mention enough for meal money and a new hat.

One of Mr. Wrigley's unwritten business laws was that only a fair price should be asked for products or service and that it should be the same to all. While in the south one year he rented a pair of saddle horses from one of two places in the town supplying such luxuries. When he paid off he was asked $1 an hour for each horse. After giving the proprietor the money he asked why it was that he had to pay $1 whereas the sign set forth that the price was 50 cents. The stable man replied that he knew Mr. Wrigley had plenty of money and could afford to pay it.

Shortly after that the rival stable posted a sign offering saddle horses for 25 cents an hour. The other fellow soon went broke. Wrigley sent for him and told him that he [Wrigley] had purchased the rival concern and deliberately cut the price so as to provide a lesson. Then, after a lecture on business principles, Mr. Wrigley made him a present of the cut rate stable and all that it contained.

An indication of Wrigley's eye for small details occurred at the Cub park last summer. To reach his front row box it was necessary to walk through one of the inclined subways under the grandstand. One day he slipped on the cement floor. He reasoned that if it was slippery for him it might be the same for others, possibly with serious results. Shortly after that each subway was carpeted with a rubber mat on which was inscribed in fancy red letters, "Wrigley Field."

Only the bowlers of ancient vintage will recall when a Wrigley team bowled in the A. B. C. tournament at Indianapolis. Wrigley promised the team a bonus of $1,000 if it won the championship. The quintet missed the title by a hair's breadth. Jimmy Chalmers, rolling the last ball, missed one pin which would have meant a spare and the title.

BATTALINO LOSES TITLE TO WEIGHT; BOUT IS HALTED

Fight with Miller Ruled No Contest.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The ten round fight between Bat Battalino, erstwhile champion of the featherweights, and Freddie Miller, Cincinnati southpaw, tonight was declared no contest in the third round when Battalino went down under what Referee Lou Bauman declared to be a "light" blow.

BAT BATTALINO.

Miller came out of his corner in the third and sent Bat down for a short count with a right to the chin. Bauman ordered him to get up and continue. When Battalino got to his feet Miller sent him down again and Bauman stopped the fight at the direction of the Cincinnati boxing commission.

Overweight, He Loses Title.

Battalino was shorn of recognition by the National Boxing commission as featherweight champion today when he weighed in over the 126 pound limit for the bout, billed as for the championship. Since he weighed 129¾, however, the commission ruled the fight could be held and Miller declared champion if he won.

The no contest ruling leaves the field open with the title vacant, as it would have been had Battalino won.

The crowd, hardly more than 2,000, booed the fighters throughout when the first two rounds saw little or no action.

Bauman, after declaring the bout no contest, turned his back to the fighters and walked from the ring. Miller and Battalino went to their corners, but were sent back by their seconds and began sparring around the ring again.

Miller Claims Crown.

Miller vigorously claimed the title and had to be taken from the ring by his second. Battalino told the crowd he was weakened by his efforts to make the weight.

Battalino was down approximately 15 seconds the second time, but Bauman did not count, finally lifting the former champion to his feet and telling him to "fight."

Battalino, however, offered Miller no defense and Bauman walked from the ring.

Hack Wilson to Confer on Dodger Contract Next Week

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Hack Wilson announced at his home today that in a telephone conversation with Dave Driscoll, business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, he had agreed to confer with Brooklyn officials early next week in New York about his 1932 contract.

Kieckhefer's Banks Pay Billiard Dividends, 50-39

Augie Kieckhefer, veteran Chicago southpaw, defeated Allen Hall last night and went into a triple tie for first place in the world's championship three cushion billiard tournament at Mussey's Wabash avenue billiard room. Kieckhefer won by 50 to 39 in 42 innings, and had a high run of 9 to Hall's 6.

Kieckhefer, with four games won and one lost, is tied with Art Thurnblad, also of Chicago, the defending champion, and Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, a former title holder.

Copulos Wins No. 4.

Gus Copulos scored his fourth straight victory by defeating Bud Westhus of St. Louis, 50 to 30, in 53 innings. His high run was 5 to 3 for Westhus. Copulos, who lost his first two games, now is in fourth place.

While Copulos and Westhus played good billiards, it was the Kieckhefer-Hall match that afforded the thrills. Hall, rated one of the best three cushion players in the game despite his numerous defeats in the tournament, was expected to show a form reversal against Kieckhefer, but the daring southpaw never gave Allen a chance.

He won the lag, counted three in the first inning, and followed with a run of nine in the second. This margin was sufficient to give him victory. The outstanding feature of Augie's game was some bank shots that he made from hard positions.

Hall played his best game of the tournament and once got within eight points of a tie, 36 to 28.

Young Jay Bozeman of California defeated Len Kenney of Chicago in an afternoon game, 50 to 35, in 48 innings, Bozeman is one of the fastest shooters in the game and a sprinter all the way. He got away to a dashing start, opening with a run of 7. From that time to the finish he was firing away with the speed and accuracy of a machine gunner.

Denton Beats Scoville.

Kenney seemed badly distanced in the early stages. He trailed at 10 to 4 in ten innings, 27 to 19 in 20 innings, and at 45 to 29 in 40 innings. But he never quit. He leveled on each shot with as much care as though a title were hanging in the balance.

While Kenney was so meticulous over each shot the nonchalant Bozeman was rushing through his work with great speed. From the 31st to the 35th inning, inclusive, he counted 14 points and in the same stretch Kenney gathered only 4.

In the other afternoon game Tiff Denton, the quiet man from the Ozarks, played à la Bozeman, and poured point scoring shots around that table with such speed that he had the methodical Frank Scoville of Buffalo literally on the ropes. Tiff sailed through a 50 to 30 victory in 55 innings. He had a 12 to 3 advantage in eight innings and never let down.

CANN SUCCEEDS CHICK MEEHAN AS N.Y.U. GRID COACH

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Howard G. [Jake] Cann, former New York university athlete, has been named head football coach and director of physical training at the university, it was announced today. Cann succeeds Chick Meehan, who resigned several weeks ago.

Cann, coach of the Violet basketball team since 1923, also will be a member of the faculty with the rank of assistant professor. He was graduated in 1920, after being captain of the Violet squad in 1919.

Soon after his graduation, Cann assisted Tom Thorp in football and aided Ed Thorp in coaching the basketball squad. He was relieved of the football duties when Meehan came to the institution, and later was named head basketball coach.

Cann's appointment came after the university's policy to "de-emphasize" football. Meehan resigned when officials said they would curtail the school's football program. Meehan recently accepted a position as athletic director at Manhattan college.

NAME 2 CHICAGO GIRLS ON OLYMPIC SKATING SQUAD

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The five members of the American women's speed skating team which will compete in the winter Olympics at Lake Placid next month were announced today by Joseph K. Savage, chairman of the American Olympic skating committee. They are: Dorothy L. Franey, St. Paul, Minn.; Elsie Muller, Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.; Kip Klein, Buffalo, N. Y.; Elizabeth Dubois, Evanston, Ill., and Helen Bina, Chicago.

The team will gather at Lake Placid Feb. 6 for the competition, which opens the next day. The women's speed skating is not on the regular Olympic program, but is merely a demonstration.

LOU BROUILLARD IN FIRST TITLE DEFENSE TONIGHT

Meets Fields, Former Champ, at Stadium.

Championship Card

THE welterweight championship boxing card at the Chicago Stadium tonight is as follows:
Lou Brouillard vs. Jackie Fields.
Billy Jones vs. Battling Bozo.
George Nichols vs. Lou Scozza.
Franta Nekolny vs. Jackie Brady.
Baby Colima vs. Franklyn Cheek.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Lou Brouillard, the world's welterweight boxing champion, hung up his training togs late yesterday afternoon and announced he was ready—in fact, quite more than ready—to whip Jackie Fields in defense of his crown at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

So last night there was a throng of Brouillard backers who insisted on wagering real money that the young French Canadian from Worcester, Mass., would conquer Fields. Brouillard became the favorite at 8 to 5. However, only a few of the wise men of boxing were doing any speculating.

Kearns Manages Fields.

Jack Kearns, who manages Fields, was telling folks that Fields will dethrone Brouillard, who has been the champion for only four months and is making his first start as the king of the division.

Mr. Kearns will be in Fields' corner. So will Mickey Walker, and so will Teddy Hayes, who once was trainer for Jack Dempsey. Wise fistic folks are always alarmed when Mr. Kearns manages and goes into the corner of a fighter who is in a championship encounter.

They remember the time Mickey Walker whipped Tiger Flowers in Chicago for the world's middleweight championship. They remember other famous victories the Kearns fighters have scored. A lot of the ring sages know Mr. Kearns has a way of making his tigers win.

Brouillard Can Punch.

Brouillard is no "accident" champion, according to people who follow the ups and downs of the fighters. He won the title some four months ago in Boston in a 15 round struggle with Young Jack Thompson.

Brouillard, a left hander, knocked Thompson down a half dozen times. The bell saved Thompson three times and robbed Brouillard of a knockout.

Fields has trained faithfully for the scrap. His Chicago admirers say he was never in better condition. Yet he never has shown to good advantage against a left hander. But with Doctor Kearns whispering words of wisdom into his ears between rounds he may be able to do the same sensational things other Kearns boxers have accomplished.

Bozo Meets Jones.

The betting on the Brouillard-Fields combat was somewhat overshadowed by the wagering which took place on the Battling Bozo and Billy Jones fight. These fellows are fighting their way along towards the world's light heavyweight championship. The betting was even money, take your choice. Fight fans believe it will be one of the most colorful fights in many a moon. Willie Stribling will be in Battling Bozo's corner.

There is another fight on the card which hasn't stirred Chicago followers a great deal but which, according to reports, has all the good citizens in Buffalo agog.

It brings together George Nichols and Lou Scozza in another of the light heavyweight tournament bouts. Both are from Buffalo and about half the folks in Buffalo think Nichols is the better man. The other half believes Scozza can whip Nichols.

Notre Dame and Purdue Elevens to Meet in '33, '34

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Notre Dame and Purdue will meet in football in 1933 and 1934, it was announced here today by Jesse C. Harper, director of athletics. Contracts have been signed for both years. The 1933 game will be played here Nov. 11.

Purdue is coached by three former Notre Dame stars: Noble Kizer, head coach; Frank Carideo, star quarter back in 1929 and 1930, and Mel Elward, right end with the late Knute Rockne.

The Irish and Boilermakers have not met since 1923. In 13 games up until that time, Notre Dame won eight, lost three, and tied two. Purdue won the Big Ten championship in 1929 and tied for it last season.

DE PAUL LOSES TO ST. JOHNS IN NEW YORK, 35-21

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—St. Johns college easily conquered the De Paul university five of Chicago, tonight, 35 to 21. It was the thirteenth victory in 15 games this year for St. Johns.

George Slott was the high scorer for St. Johns with five field goals. Nat Lazar scored nine points, while Barkis and Gorsky led De Paul with six and five points, respectively. Lineup:

Wood Drives Speed Boat to New Mark

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Gar Wood set a new world's speed record for motorboats today by racing his trim Miss America IX. across the waters of Indian creek at an average speed of 110.785 miles an hour. The new mark exceeds by half a mile the previous record of 110.223 miles an hour set by Kaye Don of London.

Wood was not entirely satisfied with his showing today, however, and announced his intention of trying for a still more impressive record as soon as his craft has been overhauled, possibly tomorrow.

Says He Can Better it.

"I am not completely satisfied with what we did today," he said. "I believe my boat will travel at least a mile an hour faster and I am going out to test my convictions in this respect within the next two or three days, probably tomorrow."

Don last year brought the world's record to England by driving 110.223 miles an hour at Lake Garda, Italy. Wood, setting the new record, also broke his own American mark of 103.269 miles an hour.

With a rising tide and a southeast wind blowing at approximately eight miles an hour, Wood, in two runs with the twin 12 cylinder boat, was recorded by the electrical timing device at 111.08 in the southward run and 110.49 in the northbound trip.

The average of the two runs gave the Detroit sportsman the new world record. The time for the first trip was 37.32 seconds and in the second run made 37.52.

Time Not Official Yet.

However, the time of the trials is not yet official and must be checked by the Yachtmen's association. Wood's stopwatch and the electrical timing device did not conform in today's trials.

Wood's watch showed the southbound time was 35 4-5 seconds, while the electrical clock ashore was 37.32. The electrical equipment broke down in Wood's first attempt to better the world's record in the trials last Monday.

Rainey Leads Senn Five to Victory Over Waller

Senn High school, with Rainey scoring three baskets and one free throw, defeated Waller's lightweight basketball team, 34 to 19, yesterday at the Senn gymnasium. Senn led, 14 to 8, at the end of the first half.

AVALON A. C. TO SEND 25 BOYS TO GOLDEN GLOVES

They'll Battle in North Side Trials.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Avalon Athletic club, 4122 Elston avenue, yesterday entered a team of 25 boxers in the Golden Gloves sectional tournaments. These boys are eligible for the north trials, which will be held at Loyola university gymnasium Feb. 18 and 19. Entries for this tournament close Feb. 11. Albert Huntson, secretary of the club, filed the entry list.

The west sectional tournament, however, is the first on the metropolitan program. These trials will be held at the Ashland boulevard auditorium on Feb. 15 and 16. The entry list closes at midnight on Feb. 8. The third and final qualifying tournament in Chicago is scheduled for White City on Feb. 22, 23 and 24. Entries for this meet can be made until midnight Feb. 15.

West Englewood Team Enters.

The West Englewood Aces is another of the neighborhood athletic clubs which sent its list of boxers in yesterday. Coach George Thomas has 20 boys he believes will cause trouble to the ambitious south side amateurs.

"We have some real scrappers," Thomas writes. "We entered the Catholic Youth Boxing tournament and made good in the preliminaries, although some of the boys weren't in the best of condition. Bill Mihalovich reached the finals of the southwest district, but was unable to fight because of a torn ligament. He's recovered now and hopes to qualify for the Tournament of Champions."

Jimmy Michell, a south side batamweight, who has been in Seattle on a vacation now is on his way back to Chicago to enter the Golden Gloves. He will box under the colors of Johnny Coulon's club. Paul Steger, who has lost only one bout in a year, will compete in the bantamweight class in the west side tournament.

Sixteen boys, two in each weight, will qualify in each of Chicago's three preliminary meets. The 48 Chicago boys will be opposed by 160 from 20 cities in the five central states which have held or will hold championship tournaments in the next few weeks. Each of the 160 out of town entrants is champion of his class. Grand Rapids, Mich., which held its finals more than a week ago, will have exceptionally talented boxers in the 112 and 118 pound classes.

C. Y. O. Boys to Box.

The Catholic Youth organization, which held a tournament in December, expects to enter a great number of boxers in the Golden Gloves tournaments. The C. Y. O. believes it will win the team trophy, which is the prize for the squad scoring the most points in the semi-finals and final bouts on March 9 at the Stadium. In determining the team championship, five points is given for first place, three points for second, and one point each for the boys who are defeated in the semi-finals.

Before March 9, however, the Tournament of Champions is scheduled for Feb. 29, March 1 and 2. Tickets now are on sale by mail order only. The prices for the Tournament of Champions are $1.50, $1 and 50 cents. All seats are reserved. The prices for March 9 are $3, $2, and $1. Make checks payable to THE TRIBUNE and send them to the Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves Tournament, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

ABOLISH DOLLAR MUTUEL TICKETS AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—One dollar mutuel tickets, which were attempted by the officials of the Louisiana Jockey club for the first two days of the meeting at the Fair Grounds, were abolished today and returned to the $2 minimum.

"We thought the $1 mutuels would w the approval of our patrons," said John P. Sullivan, chairman of the Jockey club. "But such has not been the case."

SMITTY—SQUADS WRONG!

Dry Ridge and Dyak Enrich Hialeah Fans

Miami, Fla., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Players of long shots had their day at Hialeah Park today when Dyak stumbled home a winner in the sixth race to pay $126.50 for a $2 mutuel and Dry Ridge scampered in in the second to return $112.40 for a similar investment.

Dyak's price set a record for the meet, the previous high, $119.60, having been turned in by Comstockery a few days ago.

Dyak fell just before passing the wire and threw his jockey, C. E. Allen. Black Mock challenged the winner over most of the route but was a head back at the finish. It was a seven furlong event for 3 year olds. Dry Ridge's victory was clean cut, as it opened with a rush and led by a comfortable margin all the way.

R. W. Collins' Don Leon won the Dade County handicap, the feature, in fast time, running 6 furlongs in 1:11. Brown Wisdom was second and Panetian third.

Don Leon, Jockey Pollard up, broke rapidly, but was eased up following the pace of Leros. He took the lead at the top of the stretch and won by a length. Brown Wisdom came from last position to place, a head in front of Panetian. Helianthus, odds-on favorite, never was better than fourth. Don Leon, third choice, paid $10.90.

Running a mile and an eighth in 1:51, the Wheatley stable's Impish established a new track record in the fourth event. Sunfire, which made a determined bid in the stretch, just failed to reach the winner and finished second, a head in front of Islam. Impish was the favorite and paid $5.40.

Knowlton, consistent player for the Mrs. G. U. Harris stable, scored a nose decision over Parnell Bound in the six furlongs of the third. Double Heart was third.

OHIO TO START 'NEW LINEUP IN MICHIGAN GAME

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Several changes in the Ohio State university basketball lineup appeared tonight as the Buckeyes went through their final workout in preparation for the game with Michigan here tomorrow night.

Bobby Colburn, stocky young sophomore forward, may be out of the game. He suffered a bruised heel in the Northwestern game last Saturday night. Colburn was favoring his foot so much in practice tonight that Coach Olsen sent in Brown, another sophomore, to replace him, and it appears likely that Brown will get the starting assignment against the Wolverines.

Fugitt, Colburn's running mate at forward, has been replaced by Ryan. Fugitt has failed to make a goal in the last three games.

Hannin-Did-It Five Beats Romano Triangles, 29 to 28

Sid Rosenthal, former Marshall High school star, scored 12 points as the Hannin-Did-Its defeated the Romano Triangles, 29 to 28, in the Windy City Basketball league last night at the 132d armory. The Ellers scored their fourth consecutive victory, beating the Pandoras, 23 to 20; Lindstrom All-Stars defeated All-Chicagos, 24 to 19, and the Rozcinalskis defeated Englewood, 20 to 19.

Rockford Swimmers Beat Schurz High School, 35-29

Rockford High school's swimming team defeated Schurz High school yesterday, 35 to 29. Walters led the victors, winning the 100 yard crawl stroke race and taking second place in the fancy diving event.

St. Mel Teams Defeat St. Michael, 43 to 24

St. Mel High school lightweight and heavyweight basketball teams defeated St. Michael last night at the latter's gymnasium. The heavies, led by Rigney, won, 43 to 24, and the lights triumphed, 24 to 14.

FOUR CHAMPIONS FEATURE CARD AT MERRY GARDEN

Hermance to Oppose Strong, A. A. U. King.

Four amateur boxing champions will headline Jack Lund's and Frank Knipper's card at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues, tomorrow night. Larry Strong, Central A. A. U. bantamweight champion, and Bob Hermance, Wisconsin Golden Gloves titleholder, meet in one bout. The others will bring together Tony Muscarello, last year's Golden Gloves runnerup, and Bill Reardon and Gene Higgins, Catholic Youth organization lightweight titleholder, and Joey Kleko. The Strong-Hermance and Reardon-Muscarello bouts are return matches.

Semi-final and final contests in the north side suburban amateur championship tournament will be held tonight at the Belle Plaine Athletic club, 3943 Lincoln avenue. Twenty bouts will be held if all winners in the preliminary encounters last week appear for weighing and examination. They must report to Harry Berz, who is in charge of weights and drawing, before 7 p. m. Favorites to win titles are Billy Glasgow, Bud Ginter, Phil Heinz, Ray Davis, Alwyn Tolson, Knute Kristerson, Tony Sutton, and Victor Booker.

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight, left Chicago yesterday for New York, where he fights Joe Woods tomorrow. He was scheduled to meet James J. Braddock, but Woods was substituted when Braddock was injured. The Retzlaff-Woods match is the semi-final to the King Levinsky-Max Baer bout.

Prince Saunders, south side lightweight, will start training today for his bout with Battling Gizzy of Pittsburgh at Flint, Mich., Feb. 4.

Jack Dempsey's revised exhibition schedule will start at Milwaukee, Feb. 8. The former heavyweight champion will box Buck Everett on that card. Tommy Davenport, who is training here, will meet Mitz Minikel in a six round match. Following the Milwaukee exhibition Dempsey will go to Flint, Mich., where his bouts were postponed from Feb. 4 to Feb. 15.

Phil McQuillan, south side 147 pound boxer, will meet Bill Kirkpatrick in a feature bout on the amateur card at the Northwest Lions Athletic club, 4300 West North avenue, tomorrow night. Matchmaker Eddie Kline has announced that seven other matches will be held.

Mique Malloy will present his next show at White City Monday night if a suitable card can be arranged. Battles between Henry Firpo and Dave Shade and Baxter Calmes and Tom Heeney are being sought by Malloy.

MOON MULLINS—OUT OF GAS!

I WONDER WHAT'S HAPPENED TO YOUR BANJOEYED FRIEND, MR. MOOTS.
SO DO I. HE LEFT TO GET THAT GAS FOUR HOURS AGO-
I'M GOING TO LOOK FOR HIM- I HOPE HE'S NOT LOST OR ONE OF THE MOONSHINER'S MISTAKEN HIM FOR A SQUIRREL OR SOMETHING.
SO YOUR NAME'S SUSIE- WELL, WHAT'S THERE TO DO AROUND HERE EVENINGS, SUSIE, ANY MOVIES OR DANCES?
NO, BUT WE CAN GO DOWN TO THE STORE AND WATCH THE NEW BACON SLICING MACHINE. IT WORKS JUST DANDY.

TAYLOR TRUNKS TO PLAY INDIAN QUINTET TONIGHT

The First Americans, a basketball team composed of Indians, will make their first appearance in Chicago tonight when they meet the Taylor Trunks girls' squad at White City.

Cassie Martin, Marie Curtin and Helen Teague will be in the Trunks' lineup. The Rock Island squad, winner of the South Town Commercial league championship, will face the Ryan Sportsman, Tri-Chi Industrial league titleholders, in a preliminary game.

St. Andrew's Takes Lead in C.Y.O. Girls' Basket League

St. Andrew's took the undisputed lead of the north division of the C. Y. O. Girls' Basketball league last night by defeating the Lady of Mercy quintet, 9 to 0. In the same division St. Edwards won, 13 to 10, from Queen of Angels girls, while Lady of Victory beat Mount Carmel, 12 to 8.

St. Elizabeth's lightweights increased their lead in the south division of the Catholic Youth Basketball league by beating St. Cecilia, 31 to 18.

175 Compete Saturday in Girls' Pre-Olympic Trials

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

More than 175 entries have been received for the women's Olympic preparatory indoor track meet, to be conducted by the Illinois Women's Athletic club, Saturday afternoon at the Naval armory, Randolph street and the lake.

The meet, organized to develop Olympic prospects, is under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union of America, and is open to all girls 14 years of age and older. All participants must be registered with the A. A. U. and last minute entries may register at the door of the armory.

I. W. A. C. Plans Exhibitions.

The following events are scheduled; 60 yard hurdles, 60 yard dash, running high jump and the 440 yard relay. The I. W. A. C. track team will not compete in these events, but will give exhibtions. Members of the team, composed of Doris Anderson, Evelyn Ferrara, Nan Gindele, Evelyn Hall, Elsie Imhof, Evelyn Jacobson, Leora Johnson, Mildred Kmet, Annette Rogers and Katherine Rutherford, have been coaching the girls entered at sectional training sites, where the participants reported for practice and instruction.

Betty Robinson, Olympic runner, who is recovering from an airplane accident of last summer, will award the medals which go to the first, second, and third place winners, and also the trophy cups, which will be given to the three fastest relay teams. A special cup, donated by Mrs. Richard Folsom, member of the A. A. U. committee, will be awarded to the high point winner.

Officials for the meet are: Fred L. Steers, Owen Van Camp, H. G. Reynolds, Walter Wright, E. C. Delaporte, Nicholas Molly, Mrs. R. S. Folsom, Ensign S. Carr, Avery Brundage, Roy E. Davis, Capt. Evers, C. H. Wilson, Racine Thompson, William Larson, John Behr, Frank Blankley, George Donoghue, and Lieut. Pickert.

Ogden Park Enters 25.

Twenty-five late entries were received from the Ogden park district, which has been under the instructorship of Evelyn Hall, holder of the 50 yard indoor hurdle championship, and Katherine Rutherford, specialist in the shot and discus events.

PEDEN AND AUDY TO TEAM IN BIKE RACE AT STADIUM

William Peden and Jules Audy will make up the Canadian team in Chicago's twenty-seventh International six day bicycle race, which starts in the Stadium a week from Sunday night. Peden hails from Vancouver, B. C., and Audy is a 19 year old Montreal youngster. This will be Audy's initial appearance in Chicago.

Audy has competed in a few minor races, but has never raced against riders of any outstanding ability. Peden too has won races in what may be termed the minor league of cycling but has never been able to make a triumph in Chicago and New York. His victories were achieved in Montreal, Minneapolis and Milwaukee.

Harry Dublinsky to Fight Jadick, Jr. Welter Champ

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Johnny Jadick's first fight as junior welterweight champion will be with Harry Dublinsky of Chicago here on Feb. 8. Articles were signed today.

Chicago First! Wrigley Was Home Towner

the honor and glory which he preceived for Chicago in such an event could not stand analysis any better than the wonderful thing called love.

I have thought that Mr. Getz, when he has tried to arrange big fights with the idea that they might glorify Chicago, has unconsciously indicated a pretty poor opinion of Chicago, because the city seems much too important to be affected one way or the other by such incident.

"But," I have heard him say, "can't you see that if it's big, Chicago ought to have it?"

Want Chicago Sports Capital.

Wrigley in baseball, Getz in prize fights and Hertz in the racing game all seemed to have the same general idea, they could have gone pseudo-European or pseudo-New York with their money, but they thought of making Chicago the capital of the world in the sports which took their attention.

The attitude of these millionaires is almost pure sportsmanship. To such a fan as Wrigley, with his Chicago loyalty, if his ball club had won a world series last fall it would have mattered just as much at the time as victory in a hundred yard dash matters to a kid in a high school meet for the county championship. He was still a kid competing for a leather medal when he died.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Crescent Athletic club, winner of the First National Amateur Athletic union hockey championship, handed the Polish Olympic hockey team a 5 to 1 defeat tonight.

Milwaukee Gets Women's Western Open Golf Meet

Officials of the Women's Western Golf association, meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. W. W. Haerther, president of the association, in Lake Forest, fixed the date and place of the 1932 women's western open tournament at the Ozaukee Country club of Milwaukee, Wis., July 11 to 15, inclusive.

The match play tournament of the association, which previously had been awarded to the Peoria Country club of Peoria, Ill., will be held Aug. 22 to 27, inclusive. The junior meet is expected to be held at Flossmoor about the middle of June. The date and place of the medal play tournament will be announced within the next few days.

Mrs. Jack Kearns Granted $250 a Month Ailmony

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday entered an order granting Mrs. Legana Kearns temporary alimony of $250 a month pending disposition of her divorce bill against Jack Kearns, boxing manager. The order is retroactive to July, 1931, and Judge Trude ordered that Kearns pay $500 of the $1,800 now due by Feb. 1. Both Mrs. Kearns and her husband are in New York now. She was represented by Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington.

Bob Smith Signs Contract with Cubs at 1931 Figure

Bob Smith, the Cub pitcher who spends the winter down in Georgia, broadcast to the world yesterday that he was going to sign the contract submitted him. He didn't reveal the amount, but did admit it was the same as last season.

Is Dusek a Piano Mover? See Tonight

Rudy Dusek will try to remove Matros Kirilenko from the path leading to the wrestling title when they clash tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Merely moving Mr. Kirilenko is quite a task because he weighs 220 pounds.

Kirilenko, has a 10 pound pull in the weights and is given a chance to win by members of his immediate family. Dusek, who is about ripe for another match with Londos, is the favorite.

Ray Steele will meet Milo Steinborn, in the semi-windup. Hans Kampfer, will trade holds with Floyd Marshall. George Hills will face George Calza and Jack Smith meets Jack Burke.

Dusek has announced that if he is victorious he will appear before the Illinois athletic commission tomorrow with a $2,500 forfeit for a match with Londos.

Girones Stops Noack in European Title Fight

BARCELONA, Spain, Jan. 27.—(AP)—José Girones, Spanish featherweight, won on a technical knockout from Paul Noack of Germany tonight in the fourth round of their 15-round fight, which was billed as being for the European featherweight championship. Girones knocked his opponent down in the second and third rounds.

Siegel Wins Slow Bout with Herman Perlick

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Willie Siegel, 139 pounds, of New York, gained a close decision over Herman Perlick, 141½, in an eight round bout tonight. There was little action.

BALL AND HOCKEY STARS TRAIN ON HUNTING, FISHING

Romp in Fields Aids Them in Conditioning.

BY BOB BECKER.

That hunting and fishing have a place in the recreational and training schedules of professional athletes is a fact borne out by even a casual survey of how some professional ball players (as well as hockey players) spend their time in the "off" season.

One of the stanchest advocates of the hunting game is George Earnshaw, Connie Mack's star right hander. A year ago on the west coast of Florida, while trying to keep up with a pair of bird dogs in the quail country around Punta Gorda, we had a chat with Earnshaw about hunting.

Cobb Shoots Quail.

He had come into Florida ahead of the ball team which trains at Fort Myers. He told me about his hunting trip with Ty Cobb, who has some of the best bird dogs in the south. Ty does a lot of quail shooting and always has a string of well bred bird finders around his place. Earnshaw said that between quail hunting and golf to loosen up his muscles and get into shape before starting the training grind at Fort Myers, he was finding just the right program.

Eddie Collins, also with the Athletics, is another enthusiastic hunter. Hack Wilson likes to take a crack at the rabbits around his home in Pennsylvania.

Shamrocks Hunt, Too.

Just a few nights ago we had a chance to sound out another group of professional athletes on hunting and fishing. The occasion was a Shamrock hockey game. After the game [which included three entertaining but impromptu bouts with bare fists], we found that not only do the members of the team go in for hunting and fishing but one of the players, Eddie Wiseman, hails from the famous duck hunting country around Regina, Sask., where we shot canvasbacks from the widely known Wyasung pass near Fort Qu'Appelle. There is such wonderful duck hunting in that territory that it is hard to imagine any one living up there and not enjoying the sport.

Charley Headley is another duck hunter on the team and Jack Riley is so keen about the mountains and the fishing of British Columbia that he now owns a cabin in a remote spot in the Rockies.

"Arrest that smoker's cough, Officer"

"STOP" was the word
But one tough bird
Drove on. The cop began to bristle
At being scoffed . . .
But then, he coughed
And coughed . . . and couldn't blow his whistle.

A fellow cop
Said, "'Smatter pop?
The fags you smoke have caused that yappin'
Your throat went stiff.
I tell you, if
You smoked OLD GOLDS, that wouldn't happen!

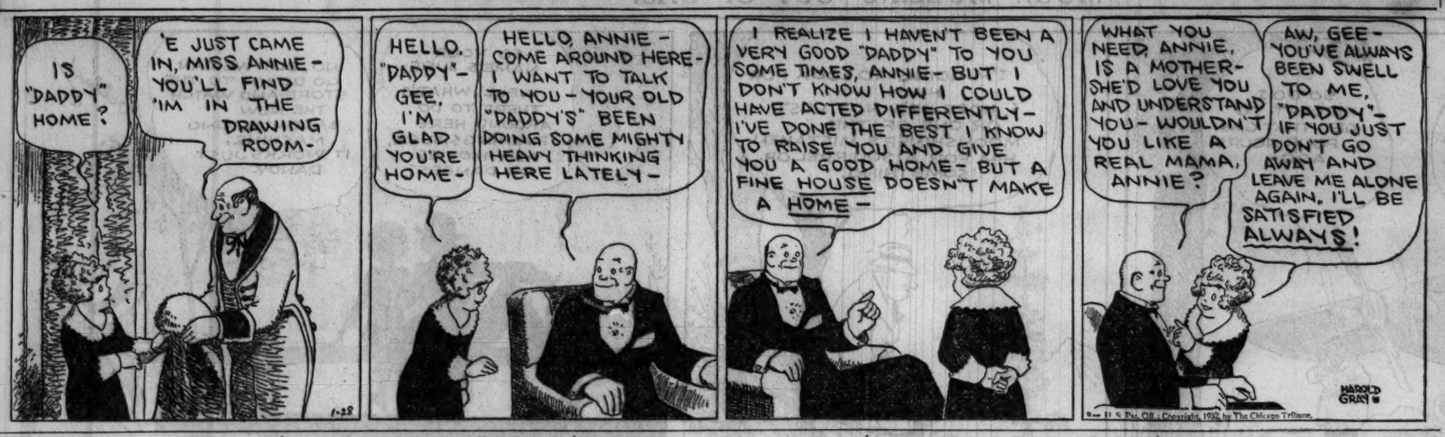
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Satisfied



TAX INCREASE SEEN AS PERIL TO U. S. CREDIT

Savings Demanded by Business Group.

The American dollar and the credit of the nation are being jeopardized by the plans to balance the national budget by increasing taxes rather than cutting government expenditures, B. W. Snow, director of the Federation of American Business, declared yesterday in an address before the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' association at the Hotel Sherman.

B. W. SNOW.

The address was made following a report of the association's legislative committee to the convention which described as "dangerous and unsound" the inroads of the government in private business. The report, which was unanimously adopted in the form of a resolution, called upon the association to "definitely oppose the entrance of the federal government in any and all forms of business enterprise in competition with its own citizens."

Seek Withdrawal of U. S.

It further charged the association to pursue a continuous and aggressive campaign to secure the government's withdrawal from existing competition from business and vigorously oppose further encroachment.

As the most recent examples of large scale government spending, Mr. Snow cited the $500,000,000 appropriation for the Reconstruction Finance corporation which entails a total commitment of 2 billion dollars. In addition, he said, there is the program for the expenditure of $125,000,000 to help the federal land banks and an additional $150,000,00 to finance federal aid home building program. The latter appropriation, which has not yet been approved, would place the government in the real estate business on a vast scale, the speaker asserted.

Cites Deficit of U. S.

The appropriations for these schemes together with the two and one-half billion dollar deficit which the U. S. will have at the end of the present fiscal year will necessitate the floating of over 5 billion of government securities in a market already sadly depressed, he declared.

"Already these schemes have created a serious lack of confidence in Europe in American financial stability and have led to the sale of the dollar by foreigners and the withdrawal of gold from this country," Mr. Snow said.

It is up to business to act now, he asserted, and demand that the budget be balanced by cutting expenditures and not by inventing new means of levying taxes on large incomes which no longer exist. Whatever the method adopted to collect these levies, the cost will eventually fall on the ultimate consumer whether he be the capitalist head of a big corporation or an obscure employé on the corporation's pay roll, the speaker warned.

Drive Capital into Hiding.

Such attempts at taxation will drive capital into hiding or out of the country, he added, and will present the dangerous temptation to inflate the currency, the ill effects of which would weigh on the shoulders of the nation for generations to come.

The situation has reached such a critical stage that the time is past when resolutions of condemnation are effective and the danger calls for immediate action by all business men. This, Mr. Snow suggested, may be accomplished if business men everywhere will warn their congressional representatives in vigorous language and not be put off by evasive replies.

J. W. Davis, chairman of the association's legislative committee, who prepared the report denouncing the government activities business, urged all members of the association to communicate immediately to their representatives in congress and the stand taken.

PERSHING URGES FIGHTING SPIRIT TO DEFEAT SLUMP

Gen. John J. Pershing told an audience of 200 at a luncheon tendered him yesterday at the Press club that the American people will pull themselves out of the depression. He admonished his listeners to harken back to the time of the war when the United States was called upon to exert its full strength. The general urged the same courage and spirit in fighting the depression.

"We have become a little more frightened than the situation warrants," he declared.

Some excitement preceded Gen. Pershing's talk when Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, was injured by a flag staff which fell on him as he was seated near Gen. Pershing. The wing spread of the heavy bronze eagle inflicted a cut in his scalp. He retired while a physician dressed the wound and then returned to the table.

Gen. Pershing arrived in Chicago yesterday from Lincoln, Neb., en route to New York.

1932 AUTO TOLL MOUNTS TO 100 AS SEVEN DIE

A pedestrian was crushed to death against a tree and a motorist was critically injured when his automobile skidded at 120th street and Perry avenue last evening. This death and others brought the January toll to 100.

The dead man was Fred Black, 63 years old, 102 West 119th street. The driver was Louis Radenic, 44 years old, 10233 South Laflin street, who was taken to the county hospital suffering from a skull fracture.

A witness said that Radenic, driving west on 120th street, had applied his brakes to avoid striking Black and a companion who were crossing. The car jerked sideways and Black was pinned against a tree at the curbing.

Col. Walter J. Fisher, commander of the 106th cavalry, Illinois National Guard, and Lieut. Thomas Breen of the 122d field artillery, who were injured when their sedan crashed into a stalled motor coach in Lake Shore drive at Deming place Tuesday night were reported as resting easy at the Columbus Memorial hospital last night.

Black's death, with six others yesterday, increased the toll since Jan. 1 to 100. The victims:

Peter Pilling, 77 years old, 337 West 111th street. Killed when struck at 111th and State streets.

Oliver Dale, 80 years old, an inmate of the King Home for Old Men, 360 East Garfield boulevard. Died in the Chicago hospital from injuries suffered on Monday when he was run down at the 55th street drive in Washington park.

Miss Pearl Morris, 27 years old, 2858 South Dearborn street. Died in the county hospital from injuries suffered on July 27 when she was struck at the Outer drive and 31st street.

Michael Daly, 35 years old, 1447 North Kildare avenue, a laborer employed by the surface lines. Fatally injured when struck by the auto of a hit and run driver at Austin and Milwaukee avenues.

Andrew Kochanski, 51 years old, 4025 Oakdale avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries suffered on Jan. 14.

George Baldwin, 38 years old, 3342 West 19th street. Killed when he was struck by an automobile in an alley at the rear of 1804 West 21st place.

COL. KING, CHIEF AT ROCK ISLAND ARSENAL, DEAD

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Col. D. M. King, 62, commandant of the arsenal at Rock Island since 1921, died at 6:15 this evening. He had been ill since September of a disease which caused breaking down of blood cells.

The colonel was in charge of the ordnance department of the United States army in France during the world war, for which he was awarded the distinguished service medal by his own government and the medal of the Legion of Honor by the French government.

He was born in Ohio and was graduated from the Mount Union college at Alliance, O., before attending West Point.

William Becker Funeral Today; Once Rail Official

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock today in the chapel at 3033 Ainslie street for William J. Becker, 42 year old, formerly an official of the Erie railroad in Chicago. Mr. Becker died on Monday in Scranton, Pa., where he was industrial commissioner of the chamber of commerce. Before he left Chicago in 1920 he was active in Republican politics on the north side. His widow, Mrs. Mabel Becker, three daughters, Marian, Marjorie, and Avis, of Scranton, and his father, A. W. Becker, and a brother, A. C. Becker, both of 2632 Homer street, survive. Burial will be in Acacia cemetery.

Mother of Irvin Cobb Dies at Paducah, Aged 75

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Manie Cobb, mother of Irvin S. Cobb, the humorist and novelist, died at her home here last night. She had been ill several years, but a fall from her bed a few days ago complicated her condition. Mrs. Cobb was 75 years old. She was the daughter of Dr. Ruben Saunders, a Paducah physician and discoverer of a serum used in the treatment of yellow fever.

MADRID, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Titta Ruffo, Italian baritone, is ill of lung congestion and has canceled his concerts.

MUSEUM GIVEN $50,000 IN WILL OF W. V. KELLEY

Rest of Estate Is Put in Trust.

The late William V. Kelley, financier, manufacturer, and long a well known figure in Chicago's business world, bequeathed $50,000 to the Field Museum of Natural History and left the remainder of his $500,000 estate in trust for his widow, Mrs. Lillian Phelps Kelley, 1550 North State parkway.

These facts were disclosed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. Mr. Kelley was 61 years old when he died at his home on Jan. 21. He had been ill for five weeks from a heart attack.

Tell Interest in Museum.

The gift to the museum, it was explained by Attorney Frederick C. Hack, who filed the will, was keeping with Mr. Kelley's interest in scientific and archæological research. A close friend of Stanley H. Field, he had become interested in the museum and was the major donor of the funds with which Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt were sent to Tibet in 1929.

Under the provisions of the will Mrs. Kelley receives the income from the estate until her death. Mr. Kelley's sister, Miss Minnie T. Kelley of the Ambassador hotel, receives $4,200 annually during her lifetime.

How Trust Is Shared.

If at the death of Mrs. Kelley the sister still is living, she will become the beneficiary of a $100,000 trust fund. The residual estate will be divided into four parts to be shared by three sons, Russell and Phelps, both of Lake Bluff, and Gordon, who resides with his mother, and the two children of another son, William II., who died two years ago. The grandchildren are William III. and Barbara, both of whom live in Beverly Hills, Cal., with their mother, Mrs. Marjorie Kelley.

At Miss Kelley's death the trust will be terminated and the funds divided among the living children or their descendants.

Mr. Kelley was director in several banks and president of the Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing company. He formerly had been president and later chairman of the board of the American Steel Foundries company.

Clara Armstrong, Wife of School Veteran, Dead at 72

Mrs. Clara Armstrong, 72 years old, wife of James E. Armstrong, for many years principal of Englewood High school, died yesterday in the Auburn Park hospital of heart disease. Her husband and two daughters, Grace and Mrs. Juliette Fessenden, all of 10638 Prospect avenue, and a son, Charles of Battle Creek, Mich., survive. Mrs. Armstrong was active in club work for many years.

Lawyer Who Prosecuted Outlaw Al Jennings Dies

Akron, O., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Orlando Wilcox, 80, lawyer and former prosecutor of Al Jennings, Oklahoma outlaw, died today. Serving as United States district attorney in the Indian Territory during 1898-1900, Wilcox tried 64 murder cases and prosecuted the first man ever hanged in the Territory by order of the federal courts. He aided in organization of the Rough Riders.

LEWIS CASS LEDYARD, ONCE MORGAN LAWYER, IS DEAD IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Lewis Cass Ledyard, one of the great American lawyers of his time, former personal counsel of the Elder J. Pierpont Morgan, and a leader in undertakings of benefit to the citizens of New York, died tonight of heart disease at his home.

LEWIS CASS LEDYARD.

He had been ill for several months, and except for attending a recent meeting of the trustees of the Metropolitan museum, had not been out of the house for a month.

He is survived by his widow, Isabel Morris Ledyard, by a son of an earlier marriage, Lewis Cass Ledyard Jr., and by two stepdaughters, Mrs. Mansfield Ferry and Mrs. Richard L. Stokes.

LEADERS OF BAR AND BUSINESS HONOR AUSTRIAN

Members of the bar and leaders in political and financial circles paid their last respects yesterday to Attorney Alfred S. Austrian at funeral services in Rosehill cemetery chapel. Mr. Austrian died on Tuesday in his home, 53 East Division street, at the age of 62.

Among those present at the service were Mayor Cermak, County Clerk Robert Sweitzer, Oscar Mayer, and Lester Falk. The Chicago Bar association was represented by a delegation of 28 members.

In a eulogy before the burial Rabbi Solomon Freehof described Mr. Austrian as "a joyous warrior, a leader in civic affairs, and an intellectual force in the community." The attorney, a Chicagoan by birth, had practiced here for nearly 40 years.

Robert Boyd, 90, Services Today; Once Vault Head

Funeral services for Robert Boyd, 90 years old, who retired at the age of 79 as secretary manager of the former Illinois Trust Safety Deposit company, will be held in the chapel at 1820 South Michigan avenue at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Boyd died on Tuesday of throat trouble in his home at 1321 East 52d street. Born in Albany, N. Y., he came to Chicago as a young boy with his parents. Mr. Boyd cast his first vote for the reëlection of Abraham Lincoln as President.

Ohio Jurist and Noted Mason Taken by Death

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Judge James E. Robinson, 68, for the last 13 years a member of the Ohio Supreme court, died today of a heart ailment induced by a blood clot.

Wilden E. Joseph, 77, nationally prominent in Masonic circles and for 40 years recorder of Aladdin temple, died of a heart attack. He was a 33d degree Mason.

Don't Trifle With a Cold

Break It Up In a Jiffy With Something You KNOW Does the Job

Take two tablets now.

Better almost before you know it.

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a newfangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

N. U. CAMPUS IS NAMED FOR 2 BENEFACTORS

The trustees of Northwestern university last night named the Evanston campus in honor of two of the university's principal benefactors.

The campus from its southern limits to Willard place was named for Milton H. Wilson, clothing manufacturer, who gave the university $1,500,000 before his death in 1929, and left an estate of approximately $8,000,000 as an endowment for the college of liberal arts. He was a university trustee from 1897 until his death.

The section north of Garrett Biblical institute, in which Patten gymnasium, Dearborn observatory and the men's dormitories are situated, will be called the James A. Patten campus for the Chicago wheat millionaire, who was a trustee of the university for many years and president of the board from 1917 to 1920.

The Chicago campus of the university, at Lake Shore drive and Chicago avenue, is named for Alexander McKinlock, who lost his life in the world war.

GEORGE GRACE, VETERAN OF '61, IS DEAD AT 90

George W. Grace, 90 years old, 10541 South Racine avenue, a veteran of the civil war, died in his home yesterday. Mr. Grace, who served throughout the war and took part in many major engagements, including the Battle of Gettysburg, enlisted in Philadelphia. Immediately after the war he came to Chicago where he had since resided. He was a charter member of the Wilcox post, G. A. R. Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Ella Garnsey, Mrs. Anna Coleman, and Mrs. Maude Pinkerton, ten grandchildren and six great grandchildren. UNGUENTINE CONES FOR PILES

A Scientific Triumph by the Makers of Unguentine

When a real miracle working formula to speedily relieve and end piles is offered to the public through the drug stores of America it doesn't take long for the good news to spread—sales are enormous.

For over 30 years, Unguentine Cones have been giving quick, blissful relief from the burning, itching and agony of piles. But that isn't all. In most cases Unguentine Cones cause distressing piles to shrink and the trouble is gone.

Do not neglect piles—you are inviting the knife if you do, and operations are painful and expensive.

It costs but 75 cents to learn about the supreme healing and soothing power of Unguentine Cones—at all drug stores. The Norwich Pharmacal Co., Norwich, N. Y.

STEEL INDUSTRY GAINS A LITTLE, REPORTS SHOW

Resistance Offered to Price Cutting.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Offsetting to some extent the reduction in dividend and poor earnings statement of the United States Steel corporation, news from the steel industry yesterday betokened a slow improvement. While steel mill operations still are far below normal, the gradual improvement that has taken place in the last few weeks is regarded as a step in the right direction and as indicating that the industry has passed the low point.

The Iron Age in its weekly review points to another cheerful factor, which is the resistance to price cutting. Its composite prices on finished steel, pig iron, and scrap have remained stationary this week, whereas for several previous weeks they have eased. The review adds, however, that it cannot be judged whether prices at last have reached bottom, as there is little important tonnage to test them.

Makes Slow Headway.

"The steel industry, although making very slow headway against adverse influences, has had another slight gain in operations to 29 per cent of ingot capacity for the country as a whole, compared with 28 per cent last week," the review continues. "The number and aggregate tonnage of orders are showing improvement, although not of seasonal proportions. Although much of the January gain in steel production has resulted from the slowly expanding activities of the automobile industry, a moderate acceleration has occurred in the calls from other metal working industries.

"Even the very near future for steel business is obscure because of the lack of definite prospects in any of the important consuming channels. The influence that the Reconstruction Finance corporation may exert on business by removing the weak spots in the credit and banking structure will nowhere be watched with closer interest than in the metal working industries, which depend to such a large extent on construction and railroad activities and agriculture. If this move to stop deflationary processes functions as expected an early result might be a check in the decline of prices."

TELLS OF POOL WORK

George M. Reynolds, chairman of the National Credit corporation, yesterday confirmed the announcement in this column on Tuesday that the big bank pool, which was organized at the behest of President Hoover last October to make loans to solvent banks with nonliquid assets, is ceasing operations. He explained that future operations of this kind will be assumed by the new government Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"We feel that the bankers' efforts have been successful in preventing many more bank closings than have occured," Mr. Reynolds said. "However, the new government corporation will be able to operate in an even broader way and there should be no duplication of effort. Therefore, the National Credit corporation will not make further loans except those to which it now is committed or unless some emergency should arise before the government corporation begins operations.

Offers Aid to Dawes.

"The National Credit corporation has loaned nearly 150 million dollars to approximately 750 banks and has commitments that may push the total up to 160 millions. Loans have been made to banks in all sections of the country; in fact, loans have been made in every state except five and these did not form local groups and seek loans. The Chicago-Iowa group has made loans to 64 banks. Naturally, the National Credit corporation has sought to lend the banks' money as safely as possible, but 17 banks to which loans were made have since failed. Nine of these are in the Chicago-Iowa district.

"The National Credit corporation has offered its facilities to Gen. Charles G. Dawes, who heads the government Reconstruction Finance corporation. Gen. Dawes has given assurance that the corporation will immediately carry on the work of aiding banks throughout the country. Most of the loans made by the bank pool are limited as to maturity, and if extensions of these loans later prove necessary the government corporation will undoubtedly renew them and let the banks who have heretofore furnished the funds regain them for their own use."

Curb Exchange Admits New Shares to Trading

The Chicago curb has admitted to listing 1,955,115 shares of the no par common stock of Atlas Utilities corporation, which will be admitted to trading today. Trading is also scheduled to begin today in Corporate Trust Shares, series AA; Corporate Trust Shares, Cumulative Series, North American Trust Shares, 1955, and North American Trust Shares, 1956, all admitted to listing last night.

Mild Degree of Inflation Is Advocated

BY SCRUTATOR.

An almost universal condition of overindebtedness, according to Prof. Irving Fisher, was the major factor leading to the depression.

The cure, he contends, lies in a moderate degree of controlled inflation through expansion of credit by the federal reserve.

Prof. Fisher, recently elected president of the American Statistical association, spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Chicago chapter of this group in the Hamilton club.

His opinions, he said, were the fruits of six months of concentrated study in causes and effects of the present business cycle.

Magnifies Dollar.

"The secret of this depression," he said, "and other major depressions has been the magnification of the dollar, due to an initial state of overindebtedness leading to a scramble to get out of debt, which, in turn, has resulted in getting deeper in debt."

The present widespread efforts of debtors to get out of debt at any cost he likened to a struggle in a burning theater. The harder the push to get out the tighter people are wedged in.

"The liquidation which has reduced price levels and caused credit to contract," he said, "by the very fact that it has done these things is no liquidation at all.

"It has magnified the value of the dollar in terms of goods and has therefore increased the size of the real debt, although the amount of the debt in actual dollars may have been reduced.

"Uncle Sam, for instance, has reduced his debt from 25 billions in 1919 to 17½ billions, but the dollar is so much bigger now that instead of owing less than he did in 1919 he actually owes ten billions more."

Prof. Fisher expressed the belief that it would be possible for the nation to recover from the depression quickly by adopting a policy of carefully controlled credit expansion.

Reason for Stock Boom.

The stock market boom of 1928 and 1929 he attributed to the policy of the New York Federal Reserve bank in lowering the rediscount rate in order to help England stay on the gold standard and continue to be a large purchaser of American goods.

Gov. Benjamin Strong of the New York Federal Reserve bank, he said, had sufficient foresight to realize that unless the rediscount rate were promptly raised again it would lead to inordinate inflation to be followed by a crash.

But once the rates were put down, he contended, those in charge of the federal reserve lacked the courage or foresight to put them up again. The argument at that time was that by raising the rates to the old level incalculable harm would be done to general business through credit contraction.

Gov. Strong, Prof. Fisher said, was the only man in a position to act who foresaw clearly that a continuation of the low rediscount rate policy would lead to disaster, and unfortunately he became seriously ill in 1927 and died the following year.

Results in Forced Selling.

"The scramble to pay debts," Prof. Fisher continued, "results in forced selling. In such a wave of liquidation things are sold not because prices are high but because they are low. Deposits are withdrawn to pay debts. Currency contracts and credit is reduced. This, in turn, results in more forced selling and further drops in commodity prices.

"On every balance sheet net worth declines and on every income account profits drop, for expenses drop more slowly than income, being made up partly of fixed and semi-fixed items.

"The consequences are unemployment and increasing pessimism and a slowing up of the circulation of money.

"Inflation and deflation are twin evils. Now we are suffering from overdeflation just as in 1929 we were suffering from overinflation.

"We should make it possible for people today to pay their just debts in money equal in value to money at the time these debts were contracted."

METROPOLITAN LIFE DIVIDENDS SET NEW RECORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—Policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company will receive this year dividends aggregating $102,400,764, an increase of $8,000,000 over a year ago and the largest annual declaration ever made by a life insurance company, passing the $100,000,000 mark for the first time in history, it was announced today by Frederick H. Ecker, president.

Life insurance writing on issued, reinstated, and increased business during 1931 totaled $3,430,199,381, an amount that exceeded not only the corresponding figure for 1930 but also that for the record year of 1929, Mr. Ecker reported.

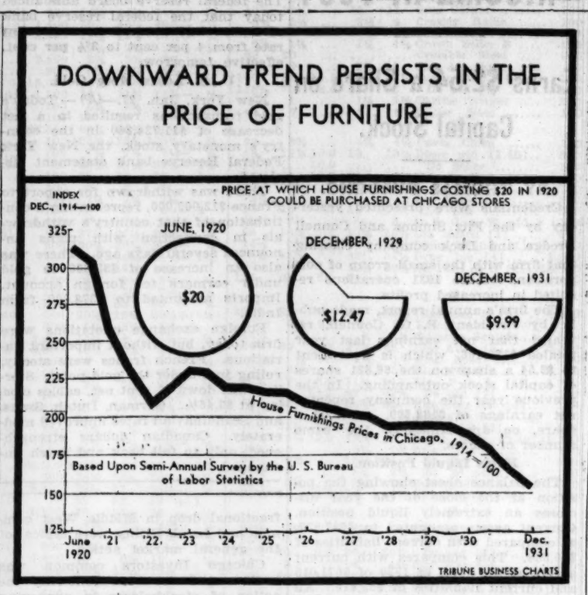
He also said that policyholders and beneficiaries had received nearly $400,000,000 from the company last year, more than $300,000,000 of this amount being paid to living policyholders.

Assets amounting to $3,590,115,653 are the largest held by any one institution in the world. The increase in assets in 1931 was $280,093,835.

Name C. T. Ray Manager of Sears State Street Store

C. T. Ray has been appointed manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s new State street store. Mr. Ray was formerly manager of the company's north side retail store. At the opening Sears, Roebuck & Co. will employ about 800 people. It is expected that the store will open some time early in March.

The store is located at the corner of State and Van Buren and extends a block south to Congress street along State. It will be the largest individual retail operation of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and marks the entrance of the company for the first time into an established retail trading center of a large city.



F. W. WOOLWORTH CO. EARNINGS IN 1931 OVER 41 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—Net earnings of the F. W. Woolworth company for 1931, inclusive of profit realized from the sale of securities, were $41,348,795, or $4.24 a share on the capital stock, the annual report made public today reveals. This compares with net earnings of $34,736,249, or $3.56 a share, earned in 1930. Net earnings on sales averaged 10.01 per cent, against 10.64 per cent in 1930.

Operating profit for the year totaled $25,200,252, against $27,257,372 the previous year, while other income totaled $22,019,092, against $12,019,946 in 1930.

Sales of merchandise last year reached a total of $282,669,576, compared with $289,288,605 the previous year and with $303,047,172, the high record, established in 1929. The decrease from 1930 sales was not quite 2 per cent. In the sales total are included business transacted in the United States, Canada, and Cuba, but not Great Britain.

The company paid a regular dividend of $2.40 a share on the stock and also paid an extra dividend of $2 a share, or $4.40 a share altogether. A reserve of $317,669 was set aside for unrealized foreign exchange loss. In addition surplus adjustments of $2,287,975, including estimated federal income taxes of $2,000,000 on profits, included in prior years, but not subject to tax until this year upon the sale of securities were made.

Dividends and adjustments totaled $45,187,975, with the result that the surplus account shows a loss of $4,156,849. In 1930, when no extra dividend was paid and no corresponding tax reserve was set aside, the statement showed a balance after dividends of $11,336,249.

After all payments and reserves the company had a total earned surplus of $67,853,122, compared with $72,009,971 at the end of 1930.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1931, shows total assets of $175,865,391, against $176,891,346 at the end of 1930. Current assets total $60,321,630 and current liabilities $6,753,400, leaving net working capital of $53,578,230.

Chicago Department Store Sales Rise Sharply in Dec.

December department store sales in the seventh federal reserve district, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago asserts in its monthly report, spurted upward 66 per cent over November.

Although the department store expansion was largely seasonal and the sales were under those of December, 1930, it was greater than that shown by any December on record since 1922. The report covered Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin.

Chicago stores led the way with a gain of 85 per cent. Indianapolis came second with 67 per cent, Detroit third with 64 per cent, and Milwauke fourth with 52 per cent, while smaller cities and towns showed an average improvement of 55 per cent.

KREUGER & TOLL 1931 EARNINGS NEAR $23,500,000

Net income of the Kreuger & Toll company for 1931 is officially estimated at $2.19 for every American certificate representing participating debentures of 20 kronor each, as against $3.04 earned in 1930. Net earnings were about $23,500,000, and after interest on secured debentures a balance of about $21,000,000 remains, as compared with $32,789,279 in 1930.

Of the gross income in 1931 about 90 per cent consists of income of a more or less recurring nature, the company announces. There has been excluded from the earnings reported above a small amount of income in foreign currencies the transfer of which could not be effected by the company during 1931.

Interest on the participating debentures is dependent upon the dividend paid on the common shares and is payable July 1, 1932, in dollars at par of exchange. In accordance with the usual custom, the recommendation of the board of directors in regard to dividends will be made when the annual report of the company is published.

All marketable securities owned and foreign government and other bonds are carried in the balance sheet at prices equivalent to market value on Dec. 31, 1931, involving a write-down provided for partly out of undivided profits and partly out of reserves. After this process reserves stand at about $80,000,000.

Chrysler Corporation.

Kindly give me your opinion on Chrysler corporation.—F. D. J.

Chrysler corporation ranks as the third largest producer in the automobile industry. In addition to pleasure vehicles of all classes it manufactures trucks, taxicabs, and marine engines. Its leading lines are Plymouth, De Soto, Chrysler and Dodge.

The company is well entrenched in its field. Its large percentage of total output of automobiles, 15 per cent in July, 1931, and close control over costs and expenses are reflected in the company's statements.

Sales for the first nine months of 1931 were $162,411,000, against $183,701,000 for the corresponding 1930 period. A loss of $980,000 was sustained in the first quarter of last year, against net income of $181,000 for the first quarter of 1930. Second and third quarter earnings enabled the company to show net income for the first nine months of 1931 of $3,771,000, or 85 cents per share, against $2,493,000, or 56 cents per share, for the first nine months of 1930. Net loss for the final 1930 quarter was $2,259,000.

Net income for 1930 was $234,000, or 25 cents per share. For 1929 the company reported net of $21,902,000, or $4.94 per share, against $30,992,000, or $6.80 per share, for 1928.

Total shipments for 1931 were 270,927, against 266,169 for 1930. The increase was due to increases in sales of Plymouth cars. All other divisions showed a decrease.

The company maintained a strong current position. Current assets on Sept. 30, 1931, were $87,893,000 and current liabilities were $13,565,000. Cash and cash assets were more than $60,000,000. Working capital was $74,327,000, against $69,699,000 the year before. Funded debt consisted of $45,920,000 Dodge Bros. 6 per cent debentures. There were outstanding 4,414,922 shares of no par capital stock.

The common is on annual dividend basis of $1. It is medium grade.

Warner Brothers Pictures.

Will you kindly advise me as to Warner Brothers 6 per cent bonds? —E. O. H.

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., is one of the leading units in the motion picture field. With the advent of sound pictures it initiated an intensive expansion program financed mainly through sale of stock and bonds. Increased capitalization has placed a burdensome charge on earnings. Results in the radio, music and phonograph record division have not come up to expectations.

For the fiscal year ended Aug. 29, 1931, the company lost $7,919,000. Surplus during the year declined $10,804,000. Fixed charges were earned 2.33 times the year before.

On Aug. 29, 1931, current assets were $25,781,000 and current liabilities were $18,126,000. Cash was $3,767,000. Notes payable were $2,377,000 and bonds maturing within one year were $4,180,000. Funded debt was $104,899,000.

The debenture 6s due 1939 are more a speculation than an investment.

Nor. Pacific 1931 Profits $3.60 a Share

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Northern Pacific railway earned about $3.60 a share in 1931 and net income amounted to $8,902,000, President Charles Donnelly said today. Net income for 1930 was $17,228,716, or $6.95 a share.

"The net income includes $5,000,000 taken from the Northwest Improvement company as a special dividend," he stated, "and from normal sources Northern Pacific showed net income of $3,902,000, which is equivalent to $1.75 a share. Our December gross revenues totaled about $4,181,000, a decrease of $1,352,000 from the like month of 1930. Net operating income totaled $1,304,000, an increase of $77,000.

"The increase in net operating income for December was partly brought about through a year-end tax adjustment. For the entire year operating revenues were $66,212,000, a decline of $18,330,000, and net operating income was $6,801,000, a drop of $7,491,000."

Regarding business sentiment in the west Mr. Donnelly said: "I find a feeling of optimism there as a result of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Railway Credit corporation, but so far I cannot find any actual business improvement.

CHI. GT. WESTERN REPORT

Despite a decline of $2,722,534 in total operating revenues in 1931, as compared with 1930, and a decline of more than $2,800,000 in revenues in 1930 as compared with 1929, the Chicago Great Western railroad showed net income, after charges, of $901,112 for 1931, which is but $408,092 less than for 1930 and $140,403 less than for 1929, when revenues were the highest in the company's history, Patrick H. Joyce, president, announced yesterday.

The 1931 earnings are equal to $1.96 per share on preferred stock outstanding, compared with $2.84 per share in 1930 and $2.21 per share in 1929. Interest on funded debt was earned over one and one-half times.

Net railway operating income for the year amounted to $2,571,094, as compared with $2,853,179 in 1930, or a decrease of $282,085. Total operating revenues were $20,107,787, as compared with $22,830,321 in the previous year and $25,630,973 in 1929. Total operating expenses declined from $16,580,390 in 1930 to $14,183,465 for last year.

Other Roads Show Decreases.

The Chicago and North Western reported net railway operating income for 1931 at $6,272,136, compared with $17,432,851 in 1930. Gross revenues totaled $102,270,339, against $130,030,474. Net operating income for December was $207,944, compared with $1,135,523 in December, 1930.

The Pennsylvania railroad reported 1931 net operating revenue at $51,055,806, compared with $92,341,353 in 1930, while gross revenues were $448,090,279, against $574,446,955. Net operating income for December was $2,259,167, compared with $3,836,206 in December, 1930.

The Baltimore and Ohio has net operating income of $26,230,851 last year, compared with $40,248,614 in 1930. Gross revenues were $158,474,627, compared with $206,660,435. Net operating income for December was $1,150,566, against $3,067,790 in December, 1930.

The Missouri Pacific reported 1931 net operating income at $16,809,458, compared with $20,790,036 in 1930. Gross revenues were $95,268,183, against $120,187,689. December net income was $620,64 , against $1,537,723 in December, 1930.

December Results Reported.

The first thirty railroads to report had a net operating income in December, 1931, amounting to $16,421,000, against $30,426,000 in December, 1930, and $19,188,000 in November, 1931. Their December, 1931, gross totaled $143,083,000, against $184,792,000 in the same 1930 month and $159,842,000 in November, 1931.

TWO RYS. VOTE DIVIDEND; SIGN OF CONFIDENCE

Pennsy and D. & H. Make Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the Delaware & Hudson company sounded a note of confidence today in authorizing regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents and $2.50 a share respectively. This action by two of the country's leading carriers led Wall street to believe that some favorable developments in the wage situation might be forthcoming within a few days.

The Delaware & Hudson is one of the few roads that has not altered its dividend policy during the current depression, although earnings of the company have declined considerably in the last year.

Following two successive reductions in the dividend rate by the Pennsylvania last year, some apprehension existed that a further downward revision in the rate was in prospect. Aggregate dividend payments by the company in 1931 far exceeded earnings, last year's net being estimated at the equivalent of $1.25 a share while total dividends paid during the year amounted to $3.25 a share.

Cannot Continue Long.

"In view of continued unfavorable conditions of railroad earnings, it is evident that the payment of dividends cannot continue unless there is a marked increase in the company's income," the directors said in announcing the current dividend. "In 1931 the stockholders received quarterly dividends aggregating 6¼ per cent, the greater part of which had to be charged against surplus as the net earnings for that year were only slightly in excess of two per cent."

The road reduced the dividend rate to $2 from $3 in October. Between May, 1929, and August, 1931, stockholders received payments at the rate of $4 annually.

The American Tobacco company declared the usual extra dividend of $1 on its common and Class B shares, in addition to the regular payments of $1.25.

A semi-annual dividend of 40 cents a share was declared by the Interstate Hosiery company. The last previous dividend of 35 cents a share was paid in January, 1930. The company has purchased or canceled 11,281 shares of its capital stock, reducing the number of shares to 98,719.

Pays 20 Cents.

The Burroughs Adding Machine company announced a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the common against 25 cents previously.

Directors of Stone & Webster, Inc., declared a quarterly of 25 cents a share on the capital stock compared with 50 cents on Oct. 15, 1931. The latest disbursement places the stock on a $1.00 annual cash basis. Preliminary figures, according to the company, indicated net consolidated operating income of approximately $1.50 a share. This figure does not take into consideration losses of $1,270,304 on sales by the corporation's security subsidiaries and other changes.

Munsingwear, Inc., voted a quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share compared with 50 cents previously.

Directors of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company passed the quarterly dividend of $2.00 a share on the preferred stock. Fairbanks, Morse & Co., also omitted its dividend of $1.75 a share due on the preferred issue. The Childs company omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, due at this time.

Other Omissions.

Other omissions included the quarterly of 37½ cents on the class A preferred stock of Poor & Co., the annual dividend of 50 cents on the common stock of St. Louis Car company and the quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the class B of Canada Wire an Cable.

The Artloom corporation voted a dividend of $1.00 on the preferred stock, deferring the balance of 75 cents due at this time. The regular rate is $1.75 quarterly.

A capital distribution dividend of $5 a share coincident with the reduction in its capital from $1,000,000 to $500,000 was announced by the New York Transit company.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—Considering the unpalatable news it had to digest—the United States Steel dividend cut, unsatisfactory earnings statements from different sources and the continued delay in settlement of the railway wage dispute—the stock market gave a fairly good account of itself today.

Prices slipped off rather sharply for a while in the early dealings before the trading community had had time to recover from the shock of the Steel announcement, but they braced up around midday and closed no worse than 1 to 3 points off on the day. A few issues of importance managed to record gains.

Carrier shares held up well. To offset the prolonged absence of constructive news from Chicago they had the declaration of regular dividends by the Pennsylvania and the Delaware and Hudson company and a persistent belief that something helpful will yet come out of the wage parley. Atchison moved against the trend for a gain of more than a point as did Delaware and Hudson. New Haven made almost as good a showing, and New York Central succeeded in holding its own. Other issues of the group receded from a fraction to a point or so.

Good Woolworth Statement.

Another development to the bull account was the good earnings statement of Woolworth. The big five and ten company will pay its shareholders of record $4.24 a share out of its income for 1931 despite the fact that some of the increment was nonrecurring. With the "good news" out the corporation's stock followed the time honored custom of selling off a point.

U. S. Steel opened down 1¾ at 40 on a sale of 2,500 and later sank about two more points. Short covering in the end restored about a point of the early loss and the leader finished the day at 38⅝, off 3⅛. The preferred dropped 4 points. Trading was fairly heavy at times.

Directors of Bethlehem Steel meet tomorrow and the street is looking for them to follow the lead of the company's big rival by cutting, if they do not entirely eliminate, the dividend. At its bottom today Bethlehem was at a new bear market low. It closed at 17, off 2¼. Crucible also touched a new low on a loss of more than 4 points.

Selling Is Persistent.

Public utility stocks came in for a rather severe drubbing, the selling being persistent in some directions. Reports had it that some of the heaviest selling orders were coming from foreign sources. American Telephone sold off almost 3 points and Consolidated Gas, Peoples Gas, and other trading favorites of the department

MONROE-WELLS BONDHOLDERS HOLD MEETING

Regular Committee Begins Foreclosure.

BY AL CHASE.

A hundred or more owners of first mortgage bonds underwritten by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company on the seven story Monroe and Wells building, at the southeast corner of Monroe and Wells streets, met late yesterday afternoon in a hall at 30 North Wells street and O. K.'d the appointment of a committee of eight of their number to act for them. Samuel, William J. and Morris A. Pancoe, stockholders in the Monroe and Wells Building corporation, mortgagor, presided at the meeting and approved the appointment of the committee.

GEN. ABEL DAVIS. [Wallinger Photo.]

The eight members named for the committee were: J. A. Van Stone, Theodore J. Hoch, Morris Schmitt, O. S. Johnson, A. J. Meserow, M. M. Meyer, Philip Stein and a representative of the Greenebaum interests.

Bond Issue Accelerated.

Meanwhile it was learned from C. J. Olsen, secretary of the bondholders' committee for the protection of holders of Greenebaum bonds, of which Abel Davis is chairman, that enough bonds have been deposited with the committee to accelerate the bond issue of $350,000 maturing Sept. 1, 1932, so that it is due and payable at an earlier date.

A bill has been filed to foreclose the mortgage and also asking for a receiver. According to Mr. Olsen interest payments were made properly and promptly up to and including Sept. 1, 1930. On March 1, 1931, instead of supplying the paying agent with the funds for making interest payments the mortgagor paid such bondholders as presented their coupons to the Monroe and Wells Building corporation. Later, it is stated, the trustee asked for the cancelled coupons and was refused.

It was then that the Greenebaum committee called for the deposit of the bonds and had the bond issue accelerated. The original bond issue was for $350,000, at 6 per cent, with no prepayments prior to the final maturity date, which was Sept. 1, 1932. In other words, the borrowing corporation was obliged to pay the entire bond issue on date of maturity.

Other Bondholders Meet.

Fifty bondholders, representing an investment of nearly $2,000,000 in the Municipal Securities corporation, subsidiary of the bankrupt Hanchett Bond company, met late yesterday at the Hotel Sherman and discussed methods of protecting their interests.

A committee of five was appointed to investigate the entire situation and the action of another committee which advised the bondholders to pool their holdings for liquidation purposes. It was made the duty of the new committee to submit a written report of their findings at a meeting to be held a week from yesterday.

The group apparently in charge of the bondholders' affairs is composed of Rawleigh Warner, president of the Pure Oil corporation; Paul K. Sims, broker, and Williston P. Munger, former president of the Burnham, Root, Munger Dry Goods company of Kansas City, Mo.

James E. MacMurray stated yesterday that the bondholders' committee, of which he is head, has taken over fifteen defaulted issues of Huszagh, Musson & Co., representing a total valuation of $4,500,000. The largest property is at 1540 Lake Shore drive. Receiverships have been avoided, Mr. MacMurray stated.

Expects Car Loading Rate of Decline Will Slow Up

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—A definite reversal in the downward trend of car loadings is predicted by Bradstreet's in an article to appear in their Jan. 30 issue. The publication estimates that total car loadings for the current quarter will be 16.3 per cent below the first quarter of 1931. This represents a somewhat narrower spread than was shown in the last quarter of 1931, which was 18.8 per cent below the corresponding period in 1930.

The securities available for this exchange and the basis upon which each $1,000 principal amount of 5% Bonds due 1948 will be exchanged, are as follows:

Securities	Principal amount to be delivered for each $1,000 P.U.I. 5% Bonds
Associated Electric Company 5s, due 1961	$1,000
Associated Electric Company 4½s, due 1953	1,000
Cities Service Company 5s, due 1958	1,250
Utilities Pr. & Lt. Corp. 5s, due 1959 (with warrants)	1,250
Associated Gas and Electric Company 5s, due 1950	1,250
Associated Gas and Electric Company 5s, due 1968	1,250
Associated Gas and Electric Company 5½s, due 1977	1,100

Accrued interest will be adjusted on exchanges so that it will be continuous but not overlapping. Fractional amounts of the bonds deliverable, necessary to round out to even $1,000 denominations, will be purchased from or sold to the depositor at a price based on the market on the date of deposit.

Holders who desire to exchange their bonds for any of the above listed securities on the basis given should forward their bonds to the Public National Bank and Trust Company, Trust Department, 76 William Street, New York City, Depositary, indicating the security desired and, if a fraction results from the exchange, whether they wish to buy or sell the fraction. As only limited amounts of some of the above listed issues are available, it is suggested that a first and second choice of the securities desired be indicated.

This offer will terminate at the close of business February 5, 1932.

The Corporation will furnish further information relative to the offer, if requested. A transmittal form for use in depositing bonds (though it is not necessary) will be forwarded upon request.

SHORT COVERING FORCES PRICES OF WHEAT HIGHER

Argentina Takes Control of Two Markets.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Assumption of control of the Buenos Aires and Rosario grain markets by the Argentine government yesterday on complaints from farmers that market operators were beating down prices, brought in fairly general short covering in wheat, both in American and foreign markets.

Wheat prices in Chicago were off around ¾c in the early trading on selling induced by weakness in Liverpool and in stocks, but a rally of 1@1⅜c from the inside followed, with the close at the top. March was 55½c to 55⅝c and May and July 57¾c to 58c at the last. Liverpool, after being 1c lower early, rallied to close unchanged, with May at 54½c, while Winnipeg was ¼c higher to ¼c lower, May closing at 61⅜c in Canadian funds, which were at 13¼ per cent discount. Buenos Aires was ⅝c higher with March at 41c.

Method of Marketing.

While the grain trade had no authentic information as to what was back of the complaints of farmers it was assumed that the peculiar method of marketing the crops in Argentina, generally known as "a price to be fixed later" plan, had something to do with it. The dress of that country has been conducting a campaign to cause its elimination for some time on the ground that it was to the disadvantage of farmers and to the advantage of the middleman and especially to the exporters. A recent survey of the trade in Argentina conducted by the American consul at Buenos Aires estimated that 80 to 90 per cent of the export business was in the hands of five firms.

Under the "price to be fixed" plan, the seller of grain is usually advanced 75 to 80 per cent of the market price, and has anywhere from 3 to 8 months in which to name the time when he is willing to have a final settlement. In the past it has been alleged that when an important producer named a day the market has been apparently artificially depressed in order to make the settlement price as low as possible.

According to the Argentine consul general at Chicago, in an address before the Grain Market Analysts club last week, the government of that country has been anxious to broaden and develop grain trading with the idea of creating an open maket. The trade in view of this statement felt that the action of the Argentine government was not an attack on future trading, but rather was aimed at a method of marketing which exists in no other country as far as known.

War Rumors Have Effect.

Rumors of war between China and Japan were current in the trade yesterday and attracted some attention from wheat operators, although there was no evidence of export business with the Orient and according to Vancouver advices Australia was selling at a price 2@5c below that prevailing for No. 3 Manitobas. Aggregate export business in all positions, including Manitobas, hard winters and durums was finally estimated at 200,000 bu.

Pit observers said they saw evidence of buying of wheat futures during the day by houses with eastern connections, but the greater part of the strength was regarded as due to short covering in an oversold market.

Corn Receives Support.

May corn sold down to 39¾c at the opening yesterday, but there was support under the 40c level, the same as for some time past, and when wheat started upward corn followed, and the finish was ⅜@¾c higher for the day, with March closing at 38⅛@38⅜c, May, 40½c, and July, 42⅛ to 42¼c. There was some buying against bids early, and selling against offers later. The country showed a little more disposition to sell, with 42,000 bu bought to arrive by local handlers, while only one car of corn was reported as having been sold for shipment.

The oats market continues to be affected largely by the action of other grains and while easier early the finish was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with May at 25⅜c and July at 25@25⅛c. Rye was up ¼@⅜c, with wheat, May, being 45⅞c, and July, 46⅝c.

NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE MAKES REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 26.—The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company in the annual report to the trustee today made public a summary of the character and extent of the company's investments and details of its general business affairs.

Farm loans are the largest single type of the company's investments. The total admitted assets of the Northwestern show an increase during 1931 of $39,544,523 and an aggregate at the close of that year of $977,266,829.

At the close of 1931, the farms acquired, on hand, and unsold, [average per acre $36.59] amounted to 2.44 per cent of the total farm mortgage investments in number, and 2.99 per cent in amount. The city mortgage investment aggregated $192,231,332, the report represents. During 1931, interest collected on city loans amounted to $9,418,301. The amount of interest in default at the end of the year was $34,437.

The Policy loan account during the year showed a large increase of $34,035,437 in amount, and a total investment at the close of the year of $205,992,129, or 21 per cent of the company's admitted assets. Bond investments on Dec. 31, 1931, aggregated $300,047,749, of which $31,651,795 is represented by United States government bonds and notes.

The total life insurance in force at the close of the year 1931 amounted to $4,096,140,160, a net increase of $40,665,973. The balance sheet at the close of 1931 showed a surplus of $54,596,731.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Cotton goods continued to hold steady today with a moderate amount of business passing on finished and unfinished goods. Steady orders in small quantities are coming forward for women's and men's wear fabrics. Burlaps showed little change. Rayon acetate yarns are in better demand. Silk is steady and quiet, and silk goods are selling moderately.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 38,000; sheep, 18,000.

Bulk of hogs sold slightly higher on a rather slow trade that drifted back to Tuesday's quotations before the close yesterday when larger houses intimated that conditions did not warrant a higher level of prices, in spite of the lighter receipts. Arrivals at 27,000 were small for midweek. Only two Wednesday totals since last November were smaller.

The general average price of hogs moved up 5c at $3.90, while the extreme top at $4.20 also showed a gain of 5c. Soon after the early orders had been filled on a 5@10c higher price level weakness crept in and sellers were unable to obtain volume without rubbing out the early gains. Most of the 7,000 left at the close were being held off the later market.

Hog Futures Steady.

The hog futures market held the previous day's advances on yesterday's session. May contracts were offered at $5.50 and bid $4.75, while March hogs could be bought at $5.00 and carried bids of $4.50. February contracts were offered at $4.50 and bid $4.00.

More aggressive eastern buying gave the cattle market another boost yesterday. Best grades got most support and closed as much as 25c above the general selling Tuesday, with the top sale at $10.25, highest since early last week. A shipment of 46 prime Nebraska steers, averaging 1,190 lbs, went to Swift at the price. Few others passed $9.00, while the bulk at $5.00@9.00 showed a rather substantial advance, attributable in part to the better quality of offerings on yesterday's market.

The unstable condition of the market for better grades the last few days caused cattle feeders to hold back their best grades and recent sessions have been handling an unusually large number of the $4.50@6.00 kinds. Some good fleshy heavy steers sold yesterday at $6.00@7.00, but anything below the inside figure lacked quality and stock at $5.00 and below carried little "kill." Lightweight heifers that suffered most loss the last two weeks recovered about 25c yesterday, but best grades of yearling stock selling at $5.50@6.75. Most beef cows sold at $3.00@3.75. Calves were fully steady and spots showed additional gains. Little action was reported in the stocker and feeder division, but quotations were unchanged.

Sheep Receipts Larger.

Sheep receipts were large for Wednesday and buyers managed to save a little on costs of medium to good grades selling at $6.00 and below, but most of the $6.25@6.40 kinds, which were scarce, were considered fully steady. Packers bought largely at $6.00@6.25. The easier undertone was not so much in evidence near the close when reports came in from other points where supplies were lighter and lambs strong to higher. Matured stock maintained a fully steady price level, but weakness was noticed in the yearling market. Feeder lambs were steady.

DROP IN LARD PRICES

Lard was under pressure yesterday from tired holders and packers and from bear interests owing to the weakness in grains and the break in stocks. There was also considerable selling on the bearish hog report of the government showing 59,511,000 hogs on farms on Jan. 1, as compared with 54,570,000 last year, an increase of 9¼ per cent. Fair buying developed on the break and the close was at net losses on lard futures of 7½@ to 12½c. Liverpool lard was 9d lower on spot and 1s lower on futures. Export clearances of lard were 753,000 lbs and of bacon 69,000 lbs. A fair business was on in bellies for May delivery at $6.00@6.10, with packers the buyers. Pork loins were off ½c at 7½@8c. Hog receipts were smaller than a week ago, but exceeded last year. Prices follow:

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest on the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE: The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. 20 months to repay. Quick service.
